The Process by Which the Odor of Flowers Is Obtained. Flowers that are to be used in the manufacture of perfumes are always gathered current rates. at nightfall or quite early in the morning when the dew is upon them. Before they are gathered, however, receptacles are prepared for them in the shape of large frames, over which are stretched cotto cloths well saturated with olive oil or almond oil. The cut flowers are brought in and are thickly spread on a frame. another frame is fitted over it, and that ir turn is well spread with flowers. Then a third frame is fitted over the second spread of flowers, and thus the work goes on, until a huge pile of flowers is prepared. This flower heap is left for two days, at the end of which time the flowers are removed from the frames and replaced by fresh ones. The frames are filled and emptied every two days until two weeks have passed. Then the cloths are detached from the frames and placed under great pressure, and all the oil is pressed out of them. The oil thus obtained is heavily charged with the fragrance of the flowers, and it is mixed with double its weight of very pure rectified spirit and put in a vessel called a "digester," which is simply a vessel is filled with boiling water.

NEATLY MADE

Guelph, Nov. 23rd. 1897. The Sloan Medicine Co,, Hamilton.

Dear Sirs :-For years I was troubled with periodical sick headaches, being affected usually every Sunday, and used all the remedies that were hadvertised as cures, and was treated by almost every doctor in Guelph but without any relief. One doctor told me it was caused by a weak stomach, another said it was hereditary and incurable. I was induced by a neighbor to try Sloan's Indian Tonic, and am happy to say I did so. A few doses gave immediate relief, and one bottle and a half made a complete cure.

"How happy you should be. Better returned. I was also troubled with asthma and nothing helped me like Hunting And two heads bowed in the darkness. your Sloan's Indian Tonic. I can heartily recommend it to all and will be glad to give any particulars to any one afflictek as I was. W. C. Keegg.

For sale by all dealers or address the Sloan Medicine Company of Hamilton Limited. $1.00 per bottle; 6 bottles for $5.00.
