Wasp Stings and Cocaine. Cocaine is a remedy for wasp or bee stings. It acts apparently not only as a temporary anæsthetic, but seems also to have the power of destroying the poison of the sting. I happened to have some onesixth grain cocaine tabloids for hypodermic injection when a woman was badly stung by a wasp a year or two ago. Such stings have a great effect on her, not only producing a very large and painfu swelling, but making her feel more or less ill for two or three days. One tabloid dissolved in a few drops of water and applied with the finger at once almost removed the pain; a second, applied an hour or two after, completed the cure. few days later I found the cocaine equally effective in the case of a young girl who had been severely stung. Since then I have kept a small bottle of a strong solution of cocaine ready for use, and it has always proved effective. It should, course, be applied as soon as possible. I found that it gave great relief seven
