Apropos of Spitzbergen, which has suddenly come into public notice as a prospective supplier of coal to Eucope, it should not be forgotten that t was in Spitzbergen waters, on one of the Seven Sister Islands, that Horatio Nelson, then aged 14, had his famous adventure with the bear. The well-known story is told in Capt. Mahan's biography. That Nelson should have been with the Phipps' Conest Opinion Doctor Gave Expedition at all was due solely to his ardent entreaties. Boys were not allowed, but he begged so hard that he might be allowed to accompany Capt. Lutwidge on the Carcass that this officer consented. man scholarship than to the arrogance of Teuton aristocracy. It has brought out, in relief all the stronge because of the exceptional circumstances, the fact that intellectua life, no less than national, has Alsace-Lorraine and its unredeemed Italy. A striking example of the lat ter is the current attribution of the famous Tannhauser legend not to Germany, which it has so long found its home, but to Italy. A touch of irony is added to the matter by the knowledge that it was a German who pointed out the Italian origin of the supposedly Greek legend. The usual view of the legend has all over Germany, and that it survived, as late as 1830, in a popular song at Entlibuch. It may be traced back to the fourteenth century, and originally seems to have been associated with the period of Teutonic paganism. 'According to some legends," says the Britannica, "the Venusberg is the Hoselberg or Horselberg, a hill near Eisenach associated with the Teutonic goddess the nether world, who was known dants of Hulda was the faithful the subject: "Why I Recommend Dr. Heldenbuch he is said to sit before borhood. The legend has been reproduced by several modern German poets and forms the subject of one of Wagner's operas." The name Tanhauser (this time with a single n) also belongs to a thirteenth century knight and minnesinger, whose adventures may have been fused with the old legend. This view of the myth was exploded by a scholar named Dubi in an article published in the Zeitschrift des Vereins fur Volkskunde (Journal of the Folklore Society). It seems that the attribution of the legend . self to Germanic sources was due to the fact of its being connected with the knight just referred to. Dubi, in her 93rd year. LESSON FOR JANUARY 19. The Passover.

LESSON TEXT-Exodus 12:1-36. GOLDEN TEXT—For even Christ our passover was sacrificed for us Corinthians 5:7. ADDITIONAL MATERIAL-Psalms 105:36-38; Matthew 26:26-29; Hebrews 11:28.

I. The Passover Instituted (12:1)

. The time set (v. 2). With the institution of the Passover came a change in the order of time. The common year was rolling on as usual but with reference to his chosen people the order is interrupted and everything is made to date from this This signifies that redemption is the first step in real life. "Old things have passed away, all things have become new." Before this the man was dead in trespass and sin; now he has arisen to walk in newness of life All before redemption counts for naught. The world thinks that real life ends when one accepts Christ but this is a grave mistake. It is the beginning of real life.

2. The lamb set apart (v. 3). This previous setting apart of the lamb typifies the foreordination of Christ to be our Saviour. Redemption was not an afterthought of God (I Peter 1:18-20). This lamb must be a male without blemish, indicating that it must be both representative and per 3. The lamb was killed by the whole congregation (v. 6). This shows that it was not for the indi vidual only, but for the entire assem bly. The setting apart of the lamb was not sufficient, it must be killed for "without the shedding of blood there is no remission of sins." The lamb might have been tied to the door of the Israelites that night, but there would have been so salvation. notwithstanding its perfection. Had Christ's spotless life continued till the present time and his matchless teaching gone on without interruption, not a single soul would have been saved, for "Except a corn of wheat fall into the ground and die i abideth alone." (John 12:24.) 4. The blood of the slain lami was to be placed upon the sideposts and lintels of the door (v. 7). It was not sprinkled upon the threshold, as it must not be trampled under foot (Hebrews 10:29). When the destroy er passed through the land he passed over the houses where the door posts were sprinkled with blood. This blood was the evidence that a substitute had been offered for them. They could rest absolutely secure, because the matter had been settled according to divine arrangement

The blood was the ground of peace. The assurance is not when you feel your sins are pardoned, but "when I see the blood I will pass over you." 5. Israel feeding upon the lamb (vv. 8-10). This denotes fellowship. Judgment must precede feasting. The eating of unleavened bread signifies that no sin is connected or allowed in fellowship with Christ All who have entered into the power of the cross will put away sin. 6. They ate the passover ready for action (v. 11). The loins being girt about, betokens separation from sin and preparation and readiness for service. The feet being shod indicates their willingness to leave the land. The staff in the hand-indicates their nature as pilgrims leaning upon a support outside of themselves. They were to leave behind them the place of death and darkness and march toward the promised land. 7. The uncircumcised denied participation in the feast (vv. 43-49). Circumcision was typical of regeneration. The significance of the requirement is that only those who have become new creatures by the power of the cross have a right to sit at the Passover feast. II. The Significance of the Pass. over (12:24-28). It was a memorial institution, calling to mind the deliverance of the Israelites from Egyptian bondage -God's interposition on their behalf, freeing them from their oppression. This was to be taught to their children when they came into the land, from generation to generation.

III. The Awful Judgment (12:29, That night the destroyer passed through Egypt and slew the first bern in every home where the blood was not found. An awful cry went up from Egypt that night. IV. The Great Deliverance (12:

So mighty was this stroke that Pharaoh called for Moses in the night and requested him to be gone with his flocks and herds.
