FIRE WAS INCENDIARY.

Georgetown, Aug. 13.-The evidence at the inquiry into the burning Hugh Logan's barns was completed yesterday afternoon without establishing the cause of the fire. Fire Marshall Heaton said he would report to the Crown Attorney certain facts that have been submitted evidence. He declared that some circumstances arising during the investi gation had not been as clearly established as they might have been. He expressed the opinion that the fires

Mrs. Lydia Merriday, a sister of Mrs. Logan, testified that on the day that Charles McNally was found dead in Logan's stable Mrs. Norton visited her in disguise and asked her to tell the Logans that if they did not withdraw the charge of selling liquor Jim Norton would leave Hugh Logan without house or home and it would take every dollar he possessed to clear himself. "Norton said he could send the Logan boys down for years, while Logan could only send the Norton boys down for months." Mrs. Jessie Davidson told of her endeavors to prevent Jim Norton from upplying a man with liquor. "Norton said: 'Hugh Logan has sent that man to make trouble for me, let me get hold of Hugh Logan and I will make his long neck short. He gets off with fines, but before I get through with him he won't have means to pay

The witness wrote down the name of the man in question and denied that Logan had sent him.
