Mr. Youell was 38 years of age and was born at Aylmer. For a number of years he was connected with the Bank of Toronto and he had been manager here for about four years. On the outbreak of the Great War he tried to enlist with his two brothers, who went overseas and one of whom made the supreme sacrifice. Mr. Youell was rejected as medically unfit. He was suffering then from the malady that finally caused his death and attacks of which laid him up from time to time. That which came on in August was so severe that he went to the Mayo Hospital at Rochester. A minor operation was performed there, but he could not be gotinto condition for the major one which was necessary and he was sent home. His courteous and obliging disposition made him an exceptionally popular bank manager and aside from that he made many friends through the active interest he took in town organizations. The following excerpt from Fabre's "The Story Book of the Field," gives a little insight into the nany beneficent uses of the commoner field animals: "The bats deliver us from a host of enemies, and they are outlawed. The mole purges the ground of vermin; the hedgehog makes war on vipers; the owl and all night birds are clever rathunters; the adder, the toad, and the lizard feed on the plunderers of our crops." Thus nature supplies the husbandman with an efficient police!
