Still Going Strong

Detroit News. One by one the great fairs of Europe have passed away, but Leipzig, is greater than ever it has been. It is the world's one annual international fair. It has been held since before the Twelfth century, and when there, Leipzig always provides more than a fair, for it is a city of unusual interest, and every tourist seeks out Auerbach's keller on Grimmaischesstrasse, to do honor to the episode so famous in Goethe's "Faust." 网络路路路路路路路路路路 The city has one exhibition hall twice the size of the old Madison Square garden, and there are 80 other halls. During the fair week the whole city is given over to suitable festivities, chiefly of the nature of pageants. The Napoleonic wars and the World war failed to interfere with the Leipzig fair. If a foreign vessel, the consul of his country and receives a receipt which he gives to the customs officers. Then it is necessary to pay tonnage tak. In leaving a port, the captain must have clearance papers to show that he has paid all taxes, and must indicate the country

Made Her Name Famous Sophie Potocka was born in Constantinople about 1766 and died in Berlin in 1822. She was the wife of a Polish count, Stanislaw Felix Potocki. Her parents were Greek, and as a child sold her for 1,500 plasters, or $375, to the French ambassador at Constantinople, who adopted her. She married the count de Witt, who three years later divorced her at the request

> Governors' Conferences The factors which brought about the establishment of the governors conference were the growing centralization of power at Washington, the shifting, uncertain status of state's rights, and the lack of uniform laws. The first meeting was held at the White House in 1908. It was called by President Roosevelt, and the principal subject considered was the conservation of natural resources. The functions of the governors' conference are officially declared to be: Exchange of views and experiences on subjects of general importance to the people of the several states, the promotion of greater uniformity in state legislation, and the attainment greater efficiency in state administra-

Hens Busy The treasurer of the Ladies Aid society of a Greensburg church made deposit for her organization in Greensburg bank recently. At the deposit window she spoke to the teller, whom she knew.

The deposit was a considerable one for a church organization and as she passed in the money she said: "Here's the aid money."

The teller understood her to say "Here's the egg money." Then came the break. "Well, it looks as though the old

Stories That Parallel All the great religions have stories that parallel each other in some degree. For instance, Jephthah, one of the judges of Israel, made a remarkable vow before he marched against the Ammonites, that if he proved victorious he would offer to the Lord the first living thing which should come to meet him on his return. This happened to be his only daughter, whom he sacrificed to fulfill his rash vow. The history of Jephthah is contained in the second book of Judges. Idomeneus, in Homeric legend, king of Crete, succeeded his father Deucalion on the throne, and accompanied the Greeks to the Trojan war with a fleet of 90 ships. During this war he rendered himself famous by his valor. While returning, he made a vow to Neptune in a dangerous tempest that if he escaped he would offer to the god whatever living creature first presented itself to his eye on the Cretan shore. This was his son, who came to congratulate him on his safe return. Idomeneus redeemed his promise, but the inhumanity of this sacrifice rendered him so odious to his subjects that he was exiled from his

Prof. Selim Hassan, containing mummy adorned with a gold crown and a complete set of jewelry, is perhaps the only tomb in this area untouched by thieves. The gold crown was 24 inches in circumference. It was kept in position by two gold lotus flowers, joined by a chalcedony. Each flower was topped by a bird with a long beak, named in hieroglyphics "Yakhu." In the middle of the crown in front was a disk studded with colored stones set in another lotus flower. The large necklace was composed of 50 pieces of gold in the shape of some insects threaded on a gold string.
