What, No Whittlers? What has become of the old-time whittler, and why his disappearance? A half-century ago almost every man carried a good pocket knife and when he stopped on any occasion he took his knife from his pocket and began whittling. At that time many men carried in their pocket a stick or stick. It was some soft wood, soft pine and white walnut being favorite timber for whittling. The early settlers greatly enjoyed whittling for pastime, and many of them were real artists with a pocket knife. It is near a lost art.-Milan Republican.
