Sick in Homes or Hospital
To Be Registered at Bedside

Canadians who are too sick to leave their homes will get special attention during national registration on August 19th, 20th and 21st. The registrar in their district will delegate a special officer to go to their bedside and take down the particulars.

In cases where doctors say that the patient is too sick to answer questions, the patient, on recovery, will register at the nearest post office in the same way that Canadians who are out of the country register on their return.

In a circular letter to all registrars, Jules Castonguay, chief registrar, today cleared up a number of uncertain points.

Registration polls will be opened in hospitals and convalescent homes and deputy registrars will go from bedside to bedside, jotting down answers. Their activities will be governed, of course, by the medical condition of the different patients.

In the same way registration polls will be opened at all benevolent or religious institutions and nuns, brothers, priests will all be required to fill out their cards.

The only residents of Canada exempt are Indians, Eskimo, men on active service and persons confined in mental hospitals. Indians are defined as persons of "whole or part Indian blood" who receive any annuity or other benefit under any treaty with the Crown.

The inmates of prisons are not required to register themselves. Prison officials will, however, advise the chief registrar of all the particulars about the inmates and when prisoners are discharged they will be given a registration card.

It is possible that early parole may be obtained for specially skilled prisoners who have some particular industrial qualification.

Visitors from the United States in Canada during registration are not in any way affected by the act, provided it is their intention to return to their own country as soon as their holiday or business trip is concluded.

Canadians absent from home, but within Canada, may register at the nearest booth. They must give the registrar their correct permanent address.

Canadians temporarily absent from Canada must register at a postoffice within thirty days after their return.

Lions Carnival
August 21st and 22nd
(Burlington Gazette)

Plans are practically now completed for the big monster Carnival staged annually by the Lions Club. This year the affair takes place next Wednesday and Thursday and the club is making every effort to put the carnival over with a bang again this year.

The appeal for funds for this worthwhile club are just as great this year as ever; in fact with there recent decision to provide a community building the need for funds is greater than at any time in the history of the club.

The Lions Club hopes its recent decision in regard to expansion in community work will meet with the general approval of the people of the town and district and that when the affair is over the proceeds will have swelled beyond the expectations of the club and a goodly portion devoted to the cost of making a building in which will be housed the Scouts and Guides of the town, and also provide a general community building.

It might be interesting to know that at the recent fifteenth anniversary night of the club it was reported that approximately $20,000 had been spent by this club in community efforts during its existence.

No effort has been spared this year to provide amusement for all and the games of skill will be nearly doubled and provide plenty of amusement for everyone to play them without being crowded. Many new games have been added and the midway should prove one of the most attractive ever offered to the people of this community.

The usual bingos will be on the grounds; there will be refreshment booths and the hot dog stand, with "better doggie than ever," the Chief says. A merry-go-round will be on the grounds and other attractions are being arranged.

Plan now for two big evenings—next Wednesday and Thursday, Aug. 21st and 22nd.

ELIZABETH WAY
TO OPEN AUGUST 24

Official opening of the Queen Elizabeth Way between Burlington and Niagara Falls will take place on Aug. 24th, as workmen continue at top speed to finish that section of the new highway.

Rainless days have proved a boon to the work of laying cement and already there are several sections being used by motorists. Still to be finished are the cloverleaves and intersections. According to contractors that work will be left until the highway proper is completed.

Some years ago the first section between Toronto and Burlington, about 45 miles was completed. The second section between Burlington and Niagara Falls is also 45 miles. Completion of the third section between Niagara Falls and Port Erie will be delayed until after the war, according to Hon. T. B. McQuesten, Minister of Highways.

IT'S A DA—SHAME,
POULIOT THINKS

Jean Francois Pouliot (Lih. Temiscouata) condemned in the House of Commons to-day the practices of certain "rich men," who, he said, controlled the coal industry and brought suffering to the people of Canada.

The way Canadian people have been exploited in regard to coal is a "da... mean, deep shame," Mr. Pouliot declared.

"We should have a real investigation with results to men responsible for our sufferings in the winter should be hanged during the coldest weather."

Outscored and outplayed by a better team of Miltonians, who played very alert and snappy baseball, Oakville absorbed a 9 to 3 defeat at the park here last Saturday. The contest was the initial game of the best three out of five for the Dr. Buck Trophy, emblem of the Hamilton county championship and the right to enter the O. B. A. play-downs.

Milton won, but they are not doing much boasting about their victory. The game was far from being a one-sided affair and even the most ardent Milton fan would concede that Oakville with a little more practice to do and some coaching will take a lot of beating.

The game was a free-hitting affair, with 24 hits being registered—13 of them coming from the bats of the winners. The home team counted three runs in the first innings on two hits, an error, a walk and a passed ball. In the fourth they tallied three more on three hits, two errors, one walk and a wild pitch to build up a big lead that the Lake Shore boys failed to overhaul.

Impressing as much stronger offensive than defensively the losers gathered 11 hits of their own during the third, sixth and eighth frames, when they counted all their runs. The Oakville outfielders gave a display and the team was guilty of some poor hitting. The home team hammered for 13 blows "Lefty" Patterson, who did the throwing for the visitors, twirled a far better effort than the score indicates. Post, Hilmer, Markey and Caval each banged out two safe blows.

Aided greatly by some good fielding which included a fast double play, Patterson to Toletzky to J. Brush, and the whole team's doubling, Patterson, the winning pitcher, was never in much trouble and hurled steady ball. Due to the absence of E. Brush, Manager Fay had to rearrange his line-up. A. Clement went behind the plate and H. Evans, erstwhile juvenile, took over the second base duties.

The change did not hurt the team for both players turned in a fine performance. J. Kennedy, another very promising juvenile, replaced W. Clement in the last stages of the game. Bertha made the fielding highlight when he ran far over in foul territory to pull down Post's long drive. Patterson, with three hits, led the batting onslaught for the victors, while A. Clement, H. Evans and W. Clement each collected two bingles.

Milton had eight men left on the bases and Oakville five.

Batteries—Patterson and Markey; Patterson and Oleson.

Umpires—Galloway and Johnson.

According to Press reports, Bobby Lyle, who is catching for the Guelph junior championship team, is playing stellar ball and is coming across with some timely hitting. Atta-boy, Bobbie.

Milton ball team journey to Oakville Saturday to compete in the second game of the Championship play-offs.

CANADIAN LEGION

The members of Branch 136 Canadian Legion are reminded, in gentle form, that they still have a club house in this man's town and the furnishings of this said club house are moth-eaten for the want of using, especially every Monday around 8 p.m., if that's too late, chaps, we have to revert to 4:30, that gives you time for supper. Have you ex-swaddlers forgot we have a nice size war on our hands, and we, on the home front, have a mighty important job on hand. Just try to get the old joints up, some, and either crawl, hobble, or sprint down to see us some time. We can use you. Don't forget, fellows, we all have to finish what we started, back in 1914. Never let it be said, "We bred a Jibber."

Lorne Scots Unit
Move to Niagara

The Lorne Scots Regiment, of Peel, Duffrin and Halton, under Lt.-Col. R. V. Conover, V.D., Brampton, office commanding, and Major L. H. Bertram, M.C., second in command, moved into camp at Fort Niagara last Monday for twelve days' intensive training. The regiment is representative of the best fighting men in the Canadian Active Service Force since the departure of the base depot company. The regiment has been recruited to a strength much beyond that at the beginning of the war.

OMAGH WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

The August meeting of Omagh W. I. was held at the home of Mrs. T. Conbeck on Tuesday, Aug. 6th, with 16 members and 12 visitors attending. The roll call was answered by "sing, say, pray or pass." Mrs. McDuffie, Mrs. Cull, Mrs. George Brownridge and Mrs. E. Downs were appointed a committee in charge of the jam being sent overseas for Canadian troops and evacuees.

The program was in charge of the girls of the Homemaking Class, under the leadership of Miss Clara Dunn. The year's project on "Dressing up Home" was the greater part explained by Miss Dunn and the books and notes compiled by each girl were on display, as well as the file cabinets for recipes made by the class.

Margaret Fleming gave a talk on hospitality, and gave an outline of the year's work. Vocal and instrumental selections were much enjoyed. The support given these girls by the Institute branches is well worth while judging by the showing of this past year's activity. Our hostess served lunch and a social half hour enjoyed.

DEATH OF FORMER MILTONIAN

The death occurred Sunday at his home in Pasadena, Cal., of Arthur Henry Fleming, 84, a distinguished son of Canada who spent the greater part of his life in United States where he achieved international prominence as scientist and philanthropist.

The late Mr. Fleming was the man who endowed and reconditioned the famous railway car in which the armistice of November, 1918, was signed, and which is now in a museum. This is the car in which Adolf Hitler imposed armistice terms upon France. Mr. Fleming's name was inscribed on the car, and for his public-spirited interest was awarded the French Legion of Honor.

Born at Milton, the late Mr. Fleming went to the United States at the age of 21. At Pasadena he founded the California Institute of Technology, a college for the pursuit of scientific research. In 1933 he brought to America the great German-Jewish physicist, Albert Einstein, and installed him in the Pasadena college to lecture and to carry on research work.

Glimpses of Parliament

Burlington, Ont., August 9th, 1940.

As this is my concluding letter on the work of the session which adjourns on Wednesday last week until next November I would like to say a few words to you. I think you will be glad to know that the opportunity which has been afforded to me of passing on to my constituents some of the highlights of the session. Looking back over the work of the Sessions I am once again impressed with the fact that notwithstanding all of its weaknesses our democratic form of government is perhaps the best form of government which has yet been devised in that it responds so accurately and so quickly to the aroused public opinion.

When war was declared last September we were united in our support of the war effort but the majority of the people in Canada were inclined to measure Canada's war responsibility with the yardstick of Canada's effort in the last war. We were content to let Great Britain assume the major part of the struggle and to simply do what we were asked to do without assuming any real initiative of our own.

With the defeat of the Allied cause in Denmark and Norway, followed by the collapse of Holland, of Belgium and finally France, public opinion underwent a complete change in its attitude toward the war. Public opinion demanded a much greater measure of sacrifice and responsibility than we had ever before assumed. During the past two months we have seen a complete transformation brought about through the influence of the events of the war upon public opinion. The measure for the conscription of man power and wealth was passed almost unanimously. Our Air-Training scheme, which was to have gradually expanded until it would reach its maximum in three years' time, is now to be in full operation by the last of this year. The construction of planes in Canada will soon reach 800 per month. Canada will soon be turning out its first tanks. Millions are being spent on explosives and on shell loading plants. We have now in all services something over 150,000 men under arms. Voluntary enlistments are proceeding at the rate of over one thousand per week and in addition we are to call up thirty thousand men monthly for a short course in military training. We are to spend this year in our war effort at least one billion dollars. It is difficult to reduce this large sum to an amount in terms of our personal ideas of money. The best I can say is that we are spending for war purposes $192 every minute of every day, including Sundays, this year.

To provide the money for this huge expenditure we must not only tax all national income to the point where the people will only have a bare living left but we must also borrow something over half of the cost of the war. Thus for normal living conditions have not seriously been interfered with. People are still driving their motor cars and are still enjoying all kinds of amusements, but before the war is over we in Canada may see the need to deny ourselves all of the luxuries and some of the things which are to-day considered necessities.

In addition to the measures respecting the war the Canadian Parliament this year passed one measure of major importance, namely unemployment insurance. The present act furnishes unemployment insurance for about three-fifths of the wage earners in Canada. It provides for the raising annually of a fund amounting to approximately sixty millions as follows:

40 per cent. to be contributed by the employer, 40 per cent. to be contributed by the employee.

In addition to the 20 per cent. to be contributed by the Government it is also to bear the entire cost of the administration of the act which will cost between five and six millions annually. The act is to be administered by a board of three members and by an advisory board on which labor and capital will have equal representation. The work of administering the act is to be employed by the Civil Service Commission in order to take the administration of the Act out of politics. Under the Act an employee must work for thirty weeks before he becomes eligible for the benefit payments and then his weekly benefit payments cannot exceed in number one fifth of the best week he has worked. This would mean that a man employed for 40 weeks of the year would only be entitled to six weeks of insurance payments and for the remaining sixteen weeks of the year he would have nothing coming in at all or would be on relief. The fact that a man must work for thirty weeks before he is eligible for payments will prevent many from ever qualifying. And the fact that the benefit payments are restricted to one fifth in number of the weeks he has worked, is necessary to secure the financial soundness of the scheme, but very definitely limits the scope of the benefits, and I fear that many working men will be disappointed.

Before drafting the present Act officials of the department made a careful study of all the existing types of unemployment insurance in force in the world to-day. These differ all from compulsory saving schemes to flat rate pool insurance. What the Canadian Act has nothing of a compulsory savings character in its provision it does not go to the other extreme of flat rate pool insurance such as in force in Great Britain. In Great Britain the collections are made on a flat rate basis and the benefits are also paid in the same way. A man there earning $350.00 weekly receives the same unemployment benefits as does a man who is only earning $12.00 a week. Under the Canadian Act the payments into the fund and the benefit payments which a worker receives both fluctuate with the wage which the worker earns when employed.

The Act is undoubtedly a move in the right direction and in fact no member of the House of Commons expressed himself in opposition to the principle of unemployment insurance but we were kept waiting so long for this legislation on account of the administrative difficulties, which were not finally overcome until a few weeks ago, that I fear the Act has been passed with a hurried and without having had the consideration and the discussion which it deserved. There are many features of the Act as to which I am free to admit I do not agree, but I, of course, supported it, notwithstanding its many deficiencies. To me it is a matter of great regret that no provision is made to adequately take care of the problem of seasonal unemployment which consequently many will be unable to qualify under the Act. Then again there is no provision to guarantee a wage earner that he will ever receive back any of the money which he has paid into the fund. To compel a wage earner in steady employment to make weekly payments into a fund all his life and to make no provision whereby he will receive anything back out of the fund does not appeal to me. The Act is also discriminatory against the employer who plans his work so that he can keep his men continuously employed
