"I'LL WIN YOU PRAISE FOR YOUR TASTY BREAD"

223 Crop Projects Sponsored in Ontario

1,113 Farmers Taking Part in Program of Ontario Crop Improvement Association: There are 1,113 farmers and junior farmers in Ontario taking part in 223 projects sponsored by the Ontario Crop Improvement Association, states John D. Macleod, Ontario department of Agriculture, who is secretary of the Association and the approximate acreage under project work totals 1,069 this year. Combined oat and barley yields are being tested on 51 farms and the majority of the plots are on an acre basis with recently introduced varieties being sown side by side with the farmer's own seed. Fifty-two farmers are conducting certified seed potato experiments on early and late varieties, while 189 are conducting tests with hybrid corn and open pollinated corn. Improved hay and pasture mixtures are being tried out on 51 farms and a portion of each plot fertilized and seeded down. Junior Farmer competitive fertility tests are being conducted on 30 farms while Junior Farmer grain, potato and corn clubs are conducting projects on 349 farms. The Crop Improvement Associations assisted in purchase of seed and payment of freight in the majority of cases. Field crop competitions with oats and potatoes are under way on 175 farms, in co-operation with the agricultural societies. Other projects include testing of oat and barley mixtures; soil surveys; vegetable seeds; seed treatments; improved strains of clover and grasses; soybeans; early cutting of hay and use of tripods; summer and fall pasture mixtures; methods of seeding soybeans, clovers and grass seed. The invention of cobless corn has missed the mark. What the world needs is a cornless toe. Two eagles that stopped for breathing spell in James Ranney's bush on the third time on Sunday attracted the attention of motorists along the road who stopped to get a better view of these large birds which are quite scarce in this locality. A flock of Canada geese, in particular, on their presence and darted in and out among the limbs of the trees in a real threatening manner to show them they were unwelcome visitors. —Milverton Sun.

Halton County Holstein Show

The Black and White Show, sponsored by the Halton Holstein Breeders in co-operation with the Halton Agricultural Society was again one of the outstanding features of the County Fair at Milton on Saturday last. In all 109 head of Holsteins from 29 different Halton herds were on parade for Durmo Hunt, president of Holstein judge, of Woodstock Robinson Bros., of Georgetown, were the premier exhibitors. Their wins included the female Grand Championship on Daisy Geo. Hartog and the Best of Show, Commerce Trophy for the winning herd. The Grand Championship for males went to Beaufort Burke Mercedes, 4-year-old bull, bred and exhibited by W. B. Somerset, of Freeman. The same animal, with his sister, Beaufort Queen Dewdrop, constituted the winning progeny of dam group for the same exhibit. The Best of Show class, which brought out ten groups of three animals each, the set of Glencoe Hartog Mercedes won for Messrs. Segsworth and Robinson, with the Bank No. 14, Scotia silver trophy for the best group bred and exhibited by the owner, going to A. Stark & son, of Milton, on the get of Glen Allen Rag Apple Snowball, which placed second. Considerable interest was shown in the inter-township herd class, with the Nelson Township herd receiving the judge's decision. The Milton Holstein Club also held its Achievement Day in conjunction with the Milton Fair. The awards, which were made by Agricultural Representative C. D. Sam Had No Future By OSCAR JONES (Associated Newspapers.) W.V.U. Service. "THERE are several things I don't like about him, since you ask me!" declared Hazel, with her best air of haughty superiority. "In the first place I don't care for his frayed collars, or that old shabby suit he wears. Then again, he's simply bourgeois! I haven't any time to spend with men who are not interesting. I have never heard Sam Lester say one original thing." Sissy Anne, smaller, and usually meekler than Hazel, flared up with sudden indignation. "Interesting people don't usually waste themselves and their ideas on persons whose mental level is lower than their own." "I suppose you mean me! And Charles Hutchins, and mother, for that matter! Well, I don't care what you say, Charles Hutchins has a future. He's in Hollywood right now, and he's going to have a tryout! You can't claim anything like that for your friend Sammy."

"Children! Children!" Mrs. Turner's distressed voice interrupted. "I'm tired of all this arguing. Hazel, I don't like to hear you criticize Mr. Lester because of his shabby clothing, but I think your sister is right, Sissy Anne, when she insists that he's hardly good enough for you. Hereafter, I must request you not to spend so much time with him. Just because he takes his meals here is no reason why he should expect to be received into the family circle."

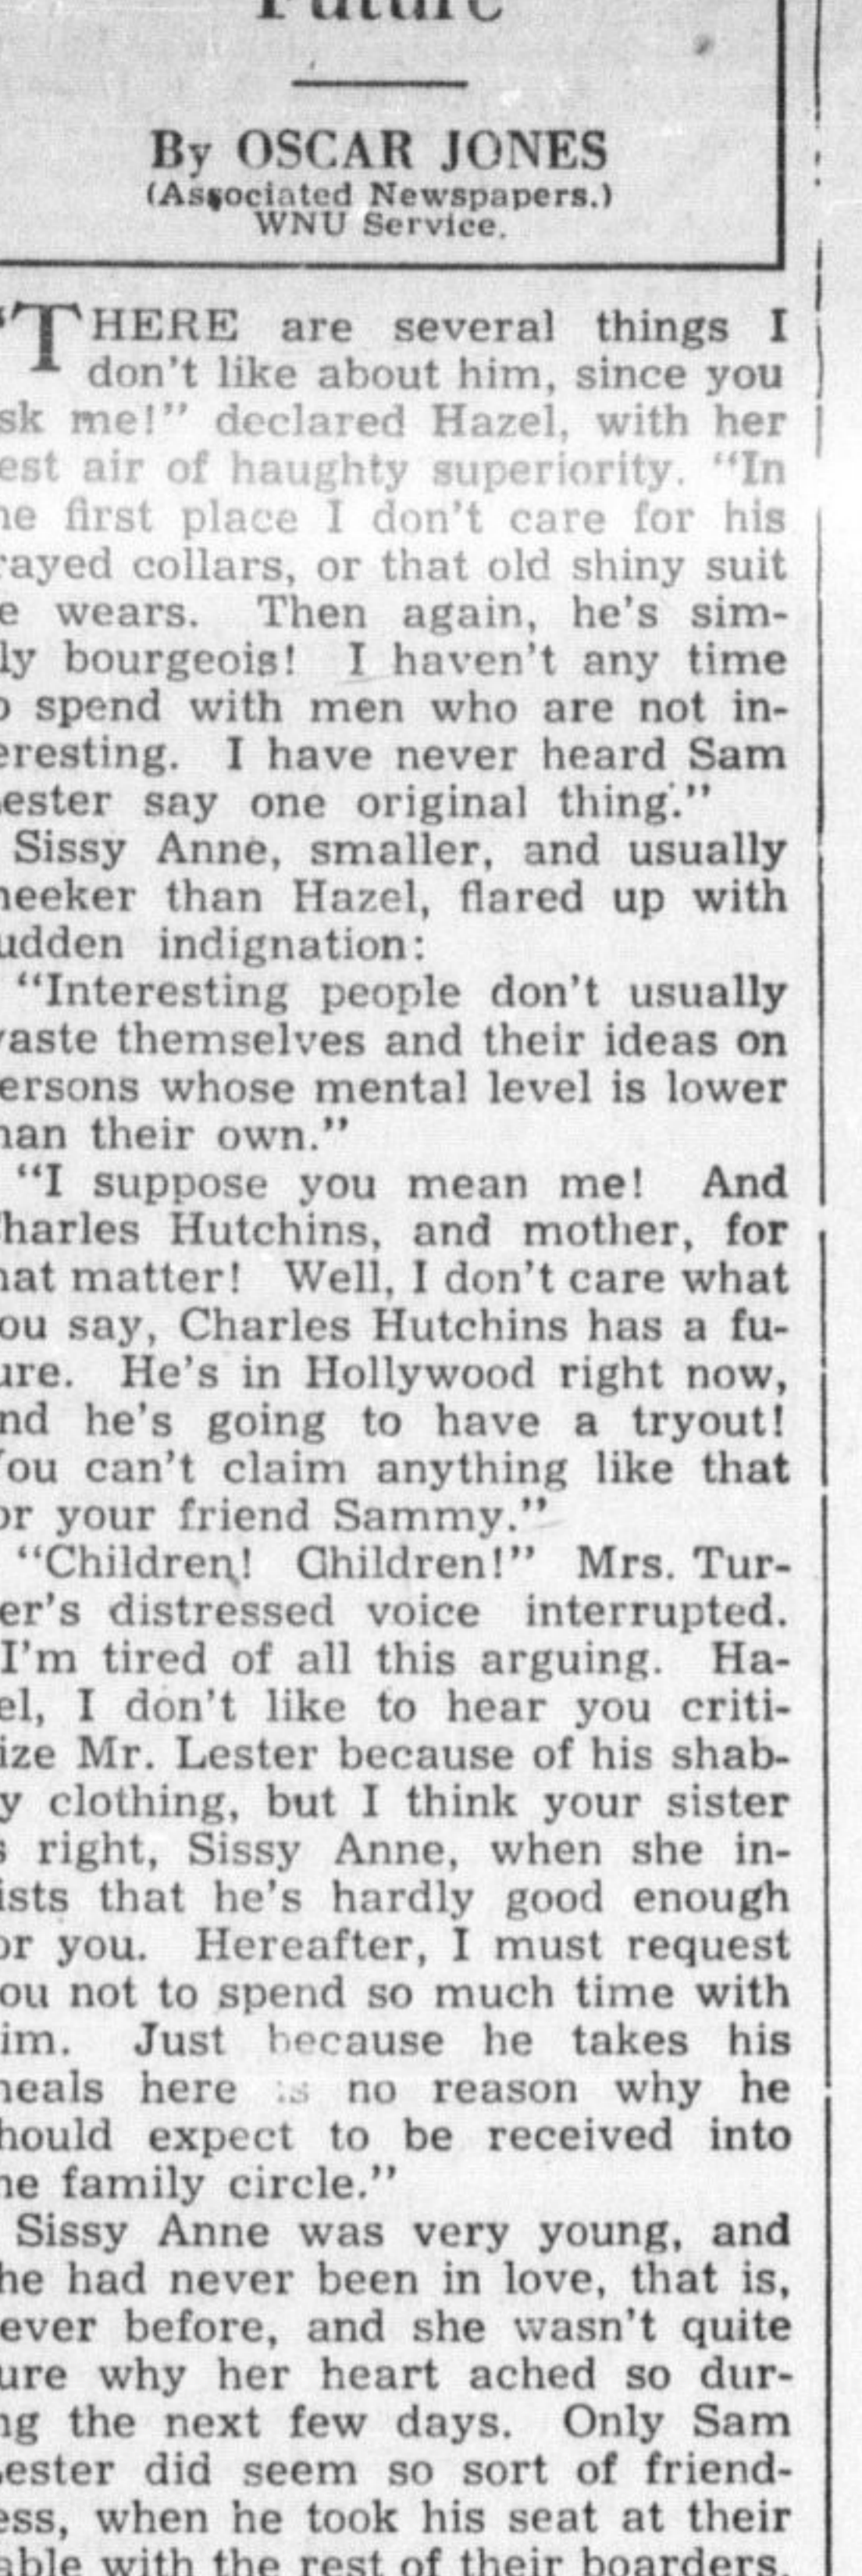

"Sissy Anne was very young, and she had never been in love, that is, never before, and she wasn't quite sure why her heart ached so during the next few days. Only Sam Lester did seem so sort of friendless, when he took his seat at her table with the rest of the boarders. Letters came from Charles Hutchins, who lingered in Hollywood, awaiting his tryout. Often Hazel read excerpts to the other boarders, with much gusto. As, for instance, when Charles wrote: "The advantage I seem to have, aside from my personality, is my training in oratory. I guess those days I spent coaching for the state scholastic contest will mean a good deal to me now." "A character, that fellow!" Sam Lester murmured once, then subsided into a yet deeper quiet under the influence of the pained, surprised glances that were audaciously turned upon him. Charles Hutchins was the most promising young man in town, and folks had always expected much of him. They didn't think it behooved a shabby soda fountain boy to criticize him.

"But her mother and sister, and she, who were so judiciously turned upon him. Charles Hutchins was the most promising young man in town, and folks had always expected much of him. They didn't think it behooved a shabby soda fountain boy to criticize him. During the week that followed the episode her cheeks actually paled and she, with all her lack of experience, could not doubt the truth. She was sick at heart, and it was all because she was missing Sam Lester. Dutiful daughter though she was, yet love will have its way, and this she came an evening when Sissy Anne boldly slipped out of the house and strolled along the street and she knew Sam Lester walked at that hour. And when she met him, as though by accident, they turned aside and sought a still quieter street, and Sam was late to work that night. The next morning Sissy Anne was not at the breakfast table, and Hazel, set to waken her, came running back with a tear-stained letter, found on her sister's pillow. "I'm sorry, but I love Sam Lester and we are getting married today. I'll write you from Hollywood."

And at the luncheon table, where Mrs. Hutchins and her mother sat in dismal silence, wondering how best to disclose their shameful secret, the second bomb exploded, when the young woman who was assistant to the postmaster, exclaimed: "Well, isn't that just simply astonishing about Sam Lester. At this time he's been working evenings at Ward's soda fountain, and sitting here so quiet and shabby and all the time he was working on a book! Sold it, too, and this morning he was back in Hollywood to see some director who wrote him he wanted to buy the movie rights! They say he's just as good as made a fortune! I do folks know anything about it?" One dazed moment for Hazel and Mrs. Hutchins! A swift realization that, with a little self-possession now, the family reputation was saved. "Well, we ought to know! Sissy Anne married him this morning and went to Hollywood with him! He's a fine young man and all that, but of course we didn't want Sissy Anne to marry so young."

Pays Depositors He daily manages millions of dollars as treasurer of one of the nation's largest states, but doesn't pocket any more salary than does any one of his stenographers, all because of what happened 13 years ago. This is a story of a bank that failed and of a character which places respect and righteousness ahead of personal gain and legal loopholes. John M. Smith, Wisconsin's state treasurer, is as simple as his name and proud of it. Earning $5,000 annually, he keeps only $1,200—less than $25 weekly. The bulk of his earnings, $3,800, goes to the depositors of the Lumberman's bank of Shell Lake, Wis., where he signed a declaration of unlimited liability before liquidation began 13 years ago. Yours sincerely, HUGHES CLEAVER, M.P.

Not all BUSINESS IS BIG BUSINESS A LITTLE steam lifts the lid of your tea-kettle. A lot of steam drives trains, machinery. Your bank deposit may be little, but it combines with millions of others to make a lot of "steam". It helps to run the nation's machinery of production, marketing, employment, business. It is important indeed to the country's war financing and war-time effort. The money is yours yet it helps provide the credit necessary to move the goods and services of the nation. Canada's chartered banks thus perform functions of great usefulness. They receive the deposits of millions of Canadians, and extend credit to individuals, governments, businessmen and marketing organizations. The small depositor is important to the banks. The "little fellow", popularly so-called, is welcomed by any bank, as a customer.

THE CHARTERED BANKS OF CANADA In war, as in peace, Canada's Chartered Banks maintain, uninterrupted, their useful services—safeguarding depositors' funds; facilitating the nation's business—looking forward to peace with freedom as the only sure basis of enduring prosperity. Safety AND BEAUTY OF HOME Increased by Brantford Roofing The safety of your home is increased by the use of Brantford Asphalt Slates on your roof.
