PITY THE POOR CROW!

From Ottawa to Toronto is only 223 miles "as the crow flies."

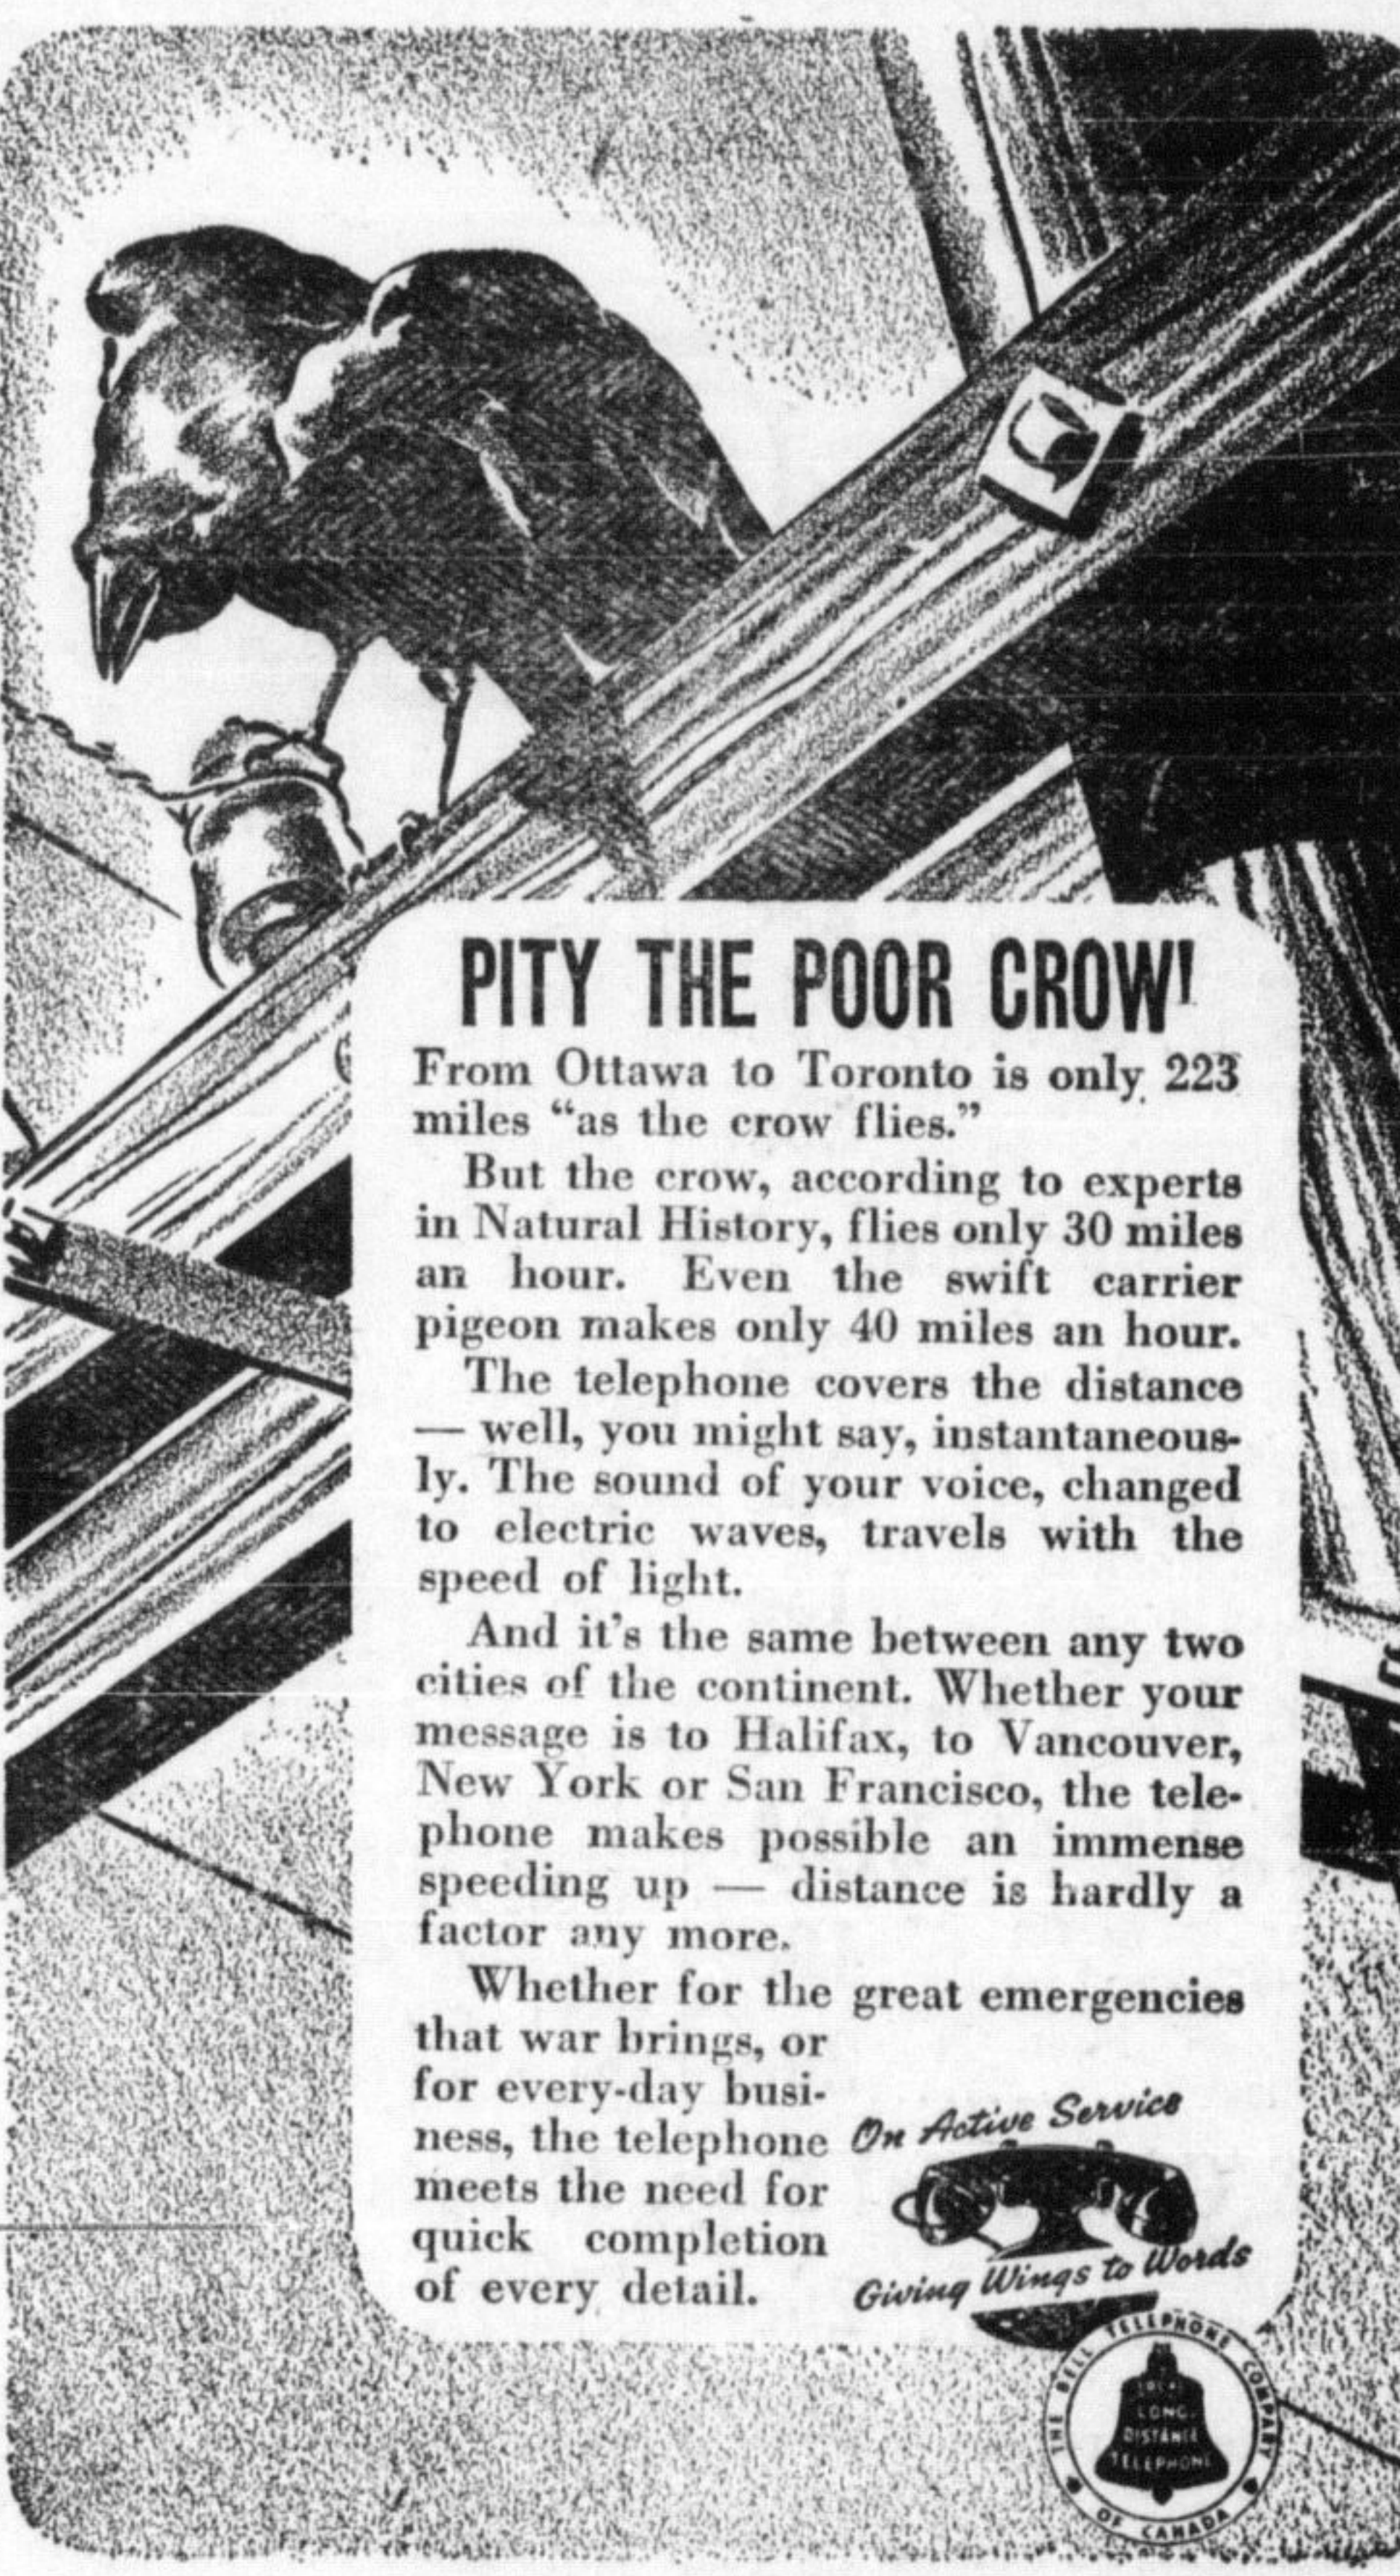

But the crow, according to experts in Natural History, flies only 30 miles an hour. Even the swift carrier pigeon makes only 40 miles an hour.

The telephone covers the distance—well, you might say, instantaneously. The sound of your voice, changed to electric waves, travels with the speed of light.

And it's the same between any two cities of the continent. Whether your message is to Halifax, to Vancouver, New York or San Francisco, the telephone makes possible an immense speeding up—distance is hardly a factor any more.

Whether for the great emergencies that war brings, or for every-day business, the telephone meets the need for quick completion of every detail.

OLD COMPANY'S ANTHRACITE

Glimpses of Parliament

The expected debate on the Conservative non confident amendment with respect to agriculture did not go on this week but instead the discussion on wheat was given first place. While this subject is not as vital to Ontario as it is to the West in this letter I will pass along some of the information which has been given to the House.

Our carry over of old wheat on July 31st last was 300.7 million bushels and our new crop yielded 561.4 million bushels. This would make our wheat supply for the current year 862.1 million bushels which is just about double our average supply for the previous five years.

Canada never has had a market within any year for a quantity of the magnitude of this year's supply and under present conditions our market outlet is so curtailed that the larger part of it must be carried forward into the next year. By comparison Canada's carry over of wheat in 1935 was only 24.5 million bushels and in the previous year 37 millions. For the five years from 1923-27 Canada's average yearly carry over was 39.6 millions. The high record of carry over in the past was 219 million bushels in 1933.

Canada produces only about one tenth of the world wheat supply. The normal wheat carry over for the entire world is only 12 million bushels. From these figures it will be seen that while we only produce a small fraction of the world wheat supply Canada will this year have a carry over greatly in excess of the normal world carry over.

If Canada planted no wheat at all this spring and none in 1942 her present surplus would enable her to maintain both her domestic and her foreign trade for two years at the full average of the last five years and would provide seed for the third year.

This enormous excess of wheat in Canada has two important consequences:

- (1) It depresses the world price of wheat with consequent loss to Canadian farmers on future crops of wheat.
- (2) The cost of carrying this wheat in both interest charges and storage rates is at least 60 million dollars annually.

In the light of all these facts our programme this year provides for a decreased wheat acreage of 35 per cent. The loss of this decreased acreage is to be borne part by the state and part by the Western farmers. The Western farmers have had so many bad years, it is, therefore, natural that he should complain. The other farmers in Canada fear the results of the diversification of agriculture in the West but what other option is there in sight.

The British Budget has now been brought down and it raises income taxes to 50% and in addition it reduces the amount of the exemptions. The exemptions on a married man's income are reduced to $670 and to $348 for a single man. A very interesting feature however has been introduced with respect to the income tax on small incomes. These are set up as a credit to each man and will be available to him when the war is over. A similar feature has been introduced with respect to the excess profits tax. This still remains at 100% but industry is to receive a refund of 20% for construction work when the war is over. This compulsory form of saving serves two purposes. It decreases domestic consumption of goods at the present time thus permitting a greater war effort and it provides a large reservoir of demand for consumer goods to speed up the re-establishment of industry when the war is over. Canada's war effort is being stepped up just as fast as new factories can be built and men trained to man the new factories. Our War Savings scheme has been notably successful but as the war progresses it is possible that Canada may have to enforce a savings plan similar to the British plan.

Thirty-nine members of the House of Commons visited the Steel Company of Canada and the National Steel Car Company at Hamilton last weekend. The contribution which Hamilton is making to the supply of war materials is nothing short of miraculous. Already the Steel Company of Canada has stepped up its capacity to three times its maximum steel capacity in their largest year of the Great War. Its new plate mill which came into production just a few days ago has a capacity of 30 tons per hour. Expressed in terms of ships it can produce in one month enough steel plates to build 7 1/2 cargo ships having a tonnage of 10,000 tons.

The National Steel Car Company has specialized in shell production. Its new plant is turning out over 30,000 shells per week. It has produced over 3 million shells to date and is now producing as many shells as all of the other Canadian plants added together.

Anti aircraft guns are being forged at the Dominion Steel and Foundry and are being machined and finished by the Westinghouse Company and the Otis Elevator Company. The manufacture of guns in Canada is an entirely new industry and it got into production six months ahead of schedule.

At a dinner given to the members of the Royal Canadian Legion on Saturday night and which was attended by all of the leading industrialists of Hamilton nothing but praise was given to the Government for the way in which industry has been organized for the war effort, and no one criticized the Excess Profit Tax which has taken all of the profiteering out of the war effort.

HUGHES CLEAVER

TOO MUCH ABUSE OF STOCK

Last week I was with a trucker when he delivered a load of livestock to one of our large stockyards. To put it mildly, I was amazed at the liberties these people took with our cattle.

This is no letter condemning killing methods for I have no doubt but that is done as painlessly as is possible. But I do say that much of the belabouring with canes indulged in by stockyard attendants might well be done away with.

Stand at the unloading chutes any morning and you will see what I am talking about. Why should I raise a select hog to the marketing stage and then allow these people to bruise and worry the finished articles as they see fit. Why should it be necessary to brutally beat an aged cow across the eyes simply because she hesitates as to where to go?

Such practices would not be tolerated on a farm. Then why should we tolerate them at the stockyards? We pay them for the work they do. If we protest we can do away with this unnecessary brutality. And we should protest, both for humanitarian motives and because we are the ones who lose by the bringing of "Grey County Farmer" in the Farmers Magazine.

Willing Worker FOR THE FARM

Ontario's Students Offer to Help Relieve Emergency Need for Farm Help!

Already more than 6,000 of Ontario's sturdy High School students have volunteered their services to the Farm Service Force of Ontario! They are devoting their summer months to help farmers meet the greatest production demands in their experience. Students will be relieved of school responsibilities as farmers require them. Especially prepared courses of study have been offered to fit these willing young people for the summer's work on the farm.

Britain is depending upon Ontario's farmers to supply a great proportion of their needs for cheese, bacon, concentrated milk, and other farm products.

Farmers who have not registered their requirements for student assistance are urged strongly to do so without delay. Simply notify your Agricultural Representative or local High School Principal, or write: Farm Service Force, Department of Labour, Parliament Bldgs., Toronto.

After one week on the farm, these sturdy, young volunteers receive this distinctive crest upon application to the Farm Service Force, Department of Labour, Toronto.

BIG NEWS... for farmers!

AGNES MACPHAIL

former Member of Parliament for Grey-Bruce — and one of Canada's best informed authorities on agricultural problems — is now writing exclusive articles based on her wide experience of the past and her observations of today for

The Globe and Mail

Traditional friend and spokesman for the farmer in its news columns and on its editorial page, The Globe and Mail has taken this further step to extend "all-out" editorial assistance to the farming industry. This help is appreciated in the wholehearted endorsement given by H. H. Hannam, president of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture, who says:

The Editor, The Globe and Mail.

Dear Sir:

I wish to commend and congratulate The Globe and Mail upon the excellent work which it has been doing recently in giving prominence and generous space to news items of interest to farm people. Particularly are farm people grateful for the excellent editorials which you have carried from time to time, and which indicate a very real understanding of the economic position of the farmer, and the difficulties which he is up against. Your championing of his cause editorially is particularly encouraging. At the same time—since Agriculture is and must be the basis of our economy—you are performing a valuable service to Canada as a whole. This is all the more necessary and beneficial, because agriculture has not had a voice in the councils of the nation commensurate with its importance.

May I add a personal word of appreciation for the fine effort which The Globe and Mail is making, and which will undoubtedly help to get a fair break for the folks on the land.

H. H. HANNAM, President,
Canadian Federation of Agriculture.
