The Runaway Car

By BEATRICE LESTER

DERRY LANCE lifted the dish cover and regarded the bacon and eggs with a skeptical eye. " 'All the world loves a lover,' " he quoted glumly. "But-"

"But-I have not finished my breakfast," added his guest, Billy Latham. "Of course, we all know that the world loves a lover, and all that, and of course I am aware that not one fair daughter of Eve cares two whoops for you! Right?' "Right," gloomily assented Perry as he helped himself to a hot roll. "It is all your own fault," went on Billy Latham. "You are a recluse, a woman hater, yes, indeed, dear boy! And yet you wonder why you have reached the advanced age of thirty and have never loved a woman!"

"Once upon a time you were engaged to a girl."

"She thought I was a wash-out. All that she liked about me was my bankbook."

"All girls are not alike, Perry. Put on your old clothes and come with me for a tramp. We can act as agents for Potcleaver's cooking utensils-eh?"

"Get about a bit and see the world through clearer eyes?" Perry laughed heartily.

"A lark, I'll say," replied his friend. "Come on, Perry, it's a fine spring day. Let's go out and buy a rummy looking old car and some sample pots and pans!"

Half an hour later the two young men drove away from the central

Girls they had met in numbersdemure country maidens-the more sophisticated city sisters-all of them more or less pretty-but not one of them with the unusual beauty, spirit and fire that Perry Lance yearned for in the girl he might love and who might love him.

One day he thought he had met her when a tractor passed them, small tractor driven by a girl with a black smudge on her cheek and dressed in khaki overalls.

Behind them sounded the deep blare of a motor horn and the rumbling clatter of the tractor. Then it shot past them at top speed.

It did not surprise him when she jumped on the running-board of their car which was evidently bound for destruction.

she jumped off gracefully with a little running movement in the road and the two young men followed.

The flivver was not going fast but it hit the tractor with a sharp impact that seemed to settle her own disorganization, for when she stopped with no damage to either tractor or car beyond a shattered windshield on the latter, the three of them looked at one another cheer-

"The government is closing the road-you passed the traffic sign at the cross roads," said the girl. "We are building a stone wall right here next week."

If Perry Lane discovered that Betty Dunlap was the one girl in the world for him, and if he wooed her as an agent, who can blame him? He found out that her father was the contractor who had the particular job and Betty was driving the tractor because she liked to do it for a lark. This particular lark led both of them to the altar and Perry's faith in the female species was restored.

Paint on Radiators

The choice of paint finishes for radiators has a decided effect on heat transmission. It has been found, for example, that with hot-water heating systems white and light tinted finishes transmit over 95 per cent of the heat to the room, while bronze and aluminum paints permit but 75 per cent heat transmission, returning about 25 per cent to the

Although the use of non-metallic paints does not save fuel, as heat returned to the boiler is not wasted heat, it does improve heating conditions in several ways by raising the rate of heat transmission. More rapid warming of rooms becomes

New Method for Washing Separator Is Time Saver

Thousands of homemakers who will carry a double load of house work and of assistance in the fields in 1943, can save considerable time every day by using the method of washing a cream separator devised on an Iowa dairy farm. The method has been tested and approved by the dairy technology department at Ohio State university

The necessary steps in the washing process are to stop turning the separator when all milk is out of the supply tank; rinse the supply tank with a cup of warm water and shut faucet; put one pint of warm water or skim milk directly over the float in the separator bowl to remove all cream; place one tablespoonful of the wetting agent in the supply tank, pour in a full pail of water with a temperature of 120 degrees, and allow it to run through the bowl as soon as the wetting agent has been dissolved in the wa-

While the solution is running through the bowl, the inside and outside of the supply tank and the outside of the machine is cleaned with a soft brush. The foregoing steps are completed as rapidly as possible, as they must be finished before the separator bowl stops turn-

The separator is dismantled and the working parts are placed in the supply tank. The disks usually are perfectly clean but any slime remaining can be removed by passing the brush through the center of them while they stand in a pan of warm water. Any residue on other bowl parts can be easily removed with a brush. Rinse all parts in the supply tank with boiling water, drain, and let them dry.

Rules Given for Keeping Shoes in Useful Condition

Now that American women are looking at their shoes with rationing in mind, they will be interested in ways to make shoes last longer. Everyone who has more than one pair of shoes should wear them in turn and not keep to the same pair day after day. This gives the leather time to rest and dry thoroughly, and so makes your shoes last long-Clean shoes regularly. Remove dust and dirt before polishing and rub the polish well in. It "feeds" the leather and keeps it tough and pliable. Use dubbin (a heavy, oily, leather dressing) to preserve heavy leather boots and to keep them wa-

Choose a dry day for wearing new (or newly soled) shoes for the first time. Then they will pick up small grit, which reinforces the sole surfaces and helps to resist wear. Never put shoes close to a fire or radiator. Heat ruins leather. Don't sit with your feet close to a fire. Lay your damp shoes on their sides and let them dry slowly.

Vineyard Pruning

A good method of pruning the Bill Latham was at the wheel of commercial vineyard is the Singleinches above the lower wire. Four vigorous one-year-old canes growing from the main trunk are selected and left as fruiting canes, one trained to grow in each direction on each wire. The most productive are from six to nine feet long. If there are less than four good vigorous canes, the pruning should be more severe and less than 12 buds should remain per cane. Weak growing canes should carry from five to ten buds. depending upon the vigor. In addition to the four canes, two renewal spurs of two buds each are left near the level of each wire. The home gardener should use the Kniffin system where a trellis is practical and an arbor is not especially "Ye Gods!" yelled Billy. "She's desired. For the home gardener who does have an arbor, the principles of pruning are the same as with the Kniffin system.

DREW 22-POINT PROGRAM BACKED BY HOUSE RECORDS

Constructive Proposals In Public Interest

Speaking over the C.B.C. network Friday night, July 16th, Leslie M. Frost, M.P.P. for Victoria and Haliburton, one of the the fact that the 22-point program recently enunciated by George Drew, Leader of the Progressive Conservative Party, was the product of extended consultation with his followers; and that it was unanimously adopted at a largely attended meeting of party candidates and officials from all over Ontario held at the Royal York Hotel on Saturday, July 3rd. Not only this, said Mr. Frost, the platform given out after that meeting was the natural sequence and outcome of constructive proposals made in the legislature by Mr. Drew and his associates. Ever since the war began the Opposition, led by Mr. Drew has at each session put forward a series of resolutions conceived in the public interest These proposals, added the member for Victoria and Haliburton, have been either voted down at the instance of the Liberal Government or declared out of order by a Liberal Speaker. On February 15th, 1941, the Opposition, submitted a resolution, calling upon the Government to move for a conference of representatives of the Dominion and of all the provinces for the following purposes: To adopt such measure by inter-provincial

TOWN AND COUNTRY PLANNING The advisability of planning beforehand

The Opposition renewed the attack with That the proposed St. Lawrence levelopment and other public undertakings throughout the province, in the opinion of this Legislature, call for the mmediate creation of an Ontario Town and Country Planning Commission. with authority to recommend and supervise plans for the reconstruction, reclamation, and development of rural This and similar Opposition proposals were voted down by the Liberals, including

RECONSTRUCTION PLANS

In the late session of the Legislature (1943) the Opposition kept up the pressure for action by submitting this resolution: -This House regrets that the Liberal Government has introduced no legislation to provide for the re-establishment in civilian occupations of the members of our forces, for after war reconstruction, and for work, wages, and social security for our people.

The Liberals, including Mr. Nixon, voted Still on the same drive for action the Opposition proposed: That the Government should undertake (with special reference to the constitutional relationships between the Dominion and Provincial Governments) a survey of existing social schemes here and elsewhere; and with due regard to the probable course of events after the war. make recommendations for a unified workable plan which will assure a proper standard of work, wages, health, education, and living standards,

DREW PLANS A DYNAMIC ONTARIO

(Essex County Reporter, Kingsville, Ont.) Social security, full employment, and economic planning are prominent topics of the day. George Drew's approach to the discussions forms a stimulating contribution . . . Ontario's planning problem, according to George Drew, is not a static one, but is dynamic in character, designed to develop to the utmost our Nature-given potentialities ... his view at first may sound like old-line thinking, but one must admit that his approach is more than an echo of Laurier and Macdonald. He adds something new . . . our planning for the future must be dynamic.

DREW APPEALS TO THE BEST IN ONTARIO (Ottawa Journal)

For the Progressive Conservative Programme offered the people of Ontario by George Drew, one thing must be said at the outset. It is that here at least is a pronouncement by a public man who reveals understanding of the gravity, and the faith and hope, of our times . . . He (Mr. Drew) offers us a programme within the framework of freedom; a programme that must appeal to Ontario's tradition of individual independence and self-reliance. He would have government control and superintendence for the citizen: he would not subject men to the deadening hand of bureaucracy, nor plan us all into puppets under drill sergeants of the state. That he leaves as it should be left to the Socialists of the C.C.F.... No Ontario leader in years has advanced a more progressive, a more humane, or a more hopeful programme.

DREW'S GREAT SOCIAL DOCUMENT

Progressive Conservative Leader, George

(Toronto Globe and Mail)

Drew has raised the present campaign far above the picayune things of the little politician. By it all the carping, all the sneers, the inuendo and the petty slander of his critics were swept aside. In that address George Drew has given the people of Ontario a great document, the finest social document in Ontario's history; one which should be read, studied and thought upon by every citizen . . . Point by point it is a massive thing. Even in the skeletonized form . . . it is a dynamic and constructive programme. Almost every point offers a practical approach to fundamental problems. . . It is essentially a programme of work, a series of well integrated steps calling for the creative use of all our resources and all our skill . . . George Drew is publicly pledged to these 22 points. What is more, he is pledged to implement them with the guidance and assistance of the chosen representatives of each group directly concerned. . . . If some concrete evidence of the genuineness of the Party were needed there is the record. Many of the records of the points Mr. Drew itemized in his address are not new. He has offered them to the Legislature of the Province and as Opposition Leader offered to assist the Government in

HELP FOR AGRICULTURE

The members of this legislature express their regret that the Government has failed to meet the critical needs of our agricultural producers; and they insist that the Government immediately take whatever steps are necessary to assure stability of prices, and an adequate supply of manpower and machinery for the rapidly increasing demands of war

This was a move on behalf of the farmers of Ontario which the Liberals were afraid to veto directly. The Liberal Government members, including Mr. Nixon, got around this difficulty by adopting a resolution oraising the Government for the admirable work done by the province in assuring manpower, prices and machinery for the

The next resolution submitted by the Opposition asserted that the Hydro Electric resources of the Province belonged to all the people; and that it is therefore desirable that the Hydro Electric Power Commission Act be amended immediately to equalize rates for electric energy and remove the present service charge in rural areas.

FINANCIAL PROTECTION FOR SOLDIERS The next Resolution, introduced by the Opposition at the recent session of the louse, proposed that all members of the Canadian Armed Forces from Ontario should be given effective legal protection against the normal economic consequences of their service; and that all those, whose ability to meet their financial obligations has been materially reduced by such service, should be sheltered against the forfeiture of nstalment contracts, cancellation of life insurance policies up to $10,000.00, and adgments or other legal proceedings for debts incurred before entering military service. British Farming Spurred

To Offset Import Losses British food production has increased from 40 per cent of the needs to 66 per cent of the needs at home, largely through the plowing up of six million acres of grassland to grow crops for human food instead of for livestock feed. Livestock has been greatly reduced.

This great increase in production has come about in spite of a 25 per cent decrease in the usual farm labor, he says, by mechanizing the method of farming and by formation of a Women's land army of more than 40,000 workers.

Accumulated fertility of the six million acres of rich grasslands is now being used to produce cereals. potatoes, and other wanted vegetables. Each farm is becoming more nearly self-supporting, as fewer high-protein feeds can be purchased for feeding livestock. Use of all grains for livestock has been cut.

Temporary pastures and meadows are taking the place of the permanent sodded pastures, to provide livestock feed of high quality, and to improve fertility of the soil for the other food crops grown in rotation. British farm production has been greatly spurred by the importation of American equipment.
