The aims of all these parties are alike. We all seek to attain better living conditions for our people and a better and happier country in which to live. The point at which the three parties all sharply differ is as to the best and surest means to achieve this result. The Conservative party and the Liberal party both have a long established record of their policies. Since the early days of the Family Compact in this country the Conservative party has always main-Now the lawn mowers are cutting | tained the right of the favored few to govern and to enjoy a lion's share of the wealth. instruments of production. For all of these reasons it is difficult to prophecy many months in advance just what policies a C. C. F. Government would follow. They might carry out their policy of 100% state ownership of all of the instru ments of production, or they might think up something entirely different.
