NEW YORKERS GAPE AT WOODEN INDIANS

NEW YORK (CP)—People running from store to store in a frantic hunt for wooden Indians were relieved to learn recently that a Fifth Avenue emporium had enough of them to supply the average household for several weeks.

Priced between $300 and $500, these were standing in front of tobacco stores 100 years before the rest of us—are causing more interest than a shipment of girdles that really would gird.

"People come in just to stare at them" said a red-haired salesgirl. "They offer to swap cigarettes for the Indians' wooden cigars."

The store rounded up its supply from Long Island and New Jersey antique collectors. It used them for display purposes at first, then decided it would be nice to be the only store in New York where a wooden Indian could be bought.

Of those on sale, a papoose-size Indian attracted attention while another would out-weight some men. Expressions range from soulfulness, in the case of one squaw, to a don't tell-me-there-isn't-any-meat grimace on the face of another.

"They make excellent companions," the salesgirl volunteered.

BELLVILLE, Ont. (CP) — John Webb, 101, of Honarlaw, cast his first vote in the recent Ontario election. Mr. Webb said he liked voting so well that he intended trying it again in the federal election the following week.

CHARLOTTETOWN (CP)—Prince Edward Island farmers rushed seeding operations in June. Reports indicate that except in wet land areas, the bulk of the grain had been planted, but there were about 20,000 acres still to be planted in potatoes.

SCIENTISTS STUDY TROPICAL FATIGUE

CANBERRA (CP)—Australian scientists, working in association with the British Admiralty and United States medical authorities, are investigating tropical fatigue among servicemen.

A former professor of psychology, now a major in the Army, is visiting Royal Australian Air Force units in New Guinea and the Solomons as part of this work. More than 1,000 R.A.A.F. men at Morotal have been examined by another research worker, a biologist. Valuable data has been collected by a fatigue research laboratory at Queensland University.

The Australian Army staff in London has learned that an Australian psychologist, Robert Owen, of Melbourne has conducted fatigue research for the last three years at Stalag 383 in Germany. Owen, a sergeant, has worked with an Army corporal from Palestine. Together, they have carried out 2,200 measurements on 200 fellow prisoners.

The results have been sent in a 37-page report to Edinburgh University. The psychologist improvised apparatus from biscuit tins, tooth brushes, string, football bladders and other contents of Red Cross parcels.

MAIN STREET MILKING

COLCHESTER, England (CP) — Farmer William Strang can't stand black coffee. That's why he took his cow, Bessie, along when he went into town. Strang milked Bessie outside a restaurant while main-street shoppers crowded about, then entered with a bucketful and ordered plenty of strong coffee. The feat won him a $25 wager.

POST WAR PLANNING

ABERDEEN — Plans now being made for post-war development will make the famous shipbuilding area of Teeside, Scotland, one of the most diversified industrial centres in the world.

This district which, through too great dependence on ship-building, suffered heavily in the depression period between the two wars has today become the centre of a huge, varied complex of industries.

While shipyards are working to full capacity—one firm alone employing 2,400 workers including 10 per cent women, has turned out half a million tons of tankers and other vessels — new industries include armoured cars, special steel and water-proofing for tanks, Bailey bridges, petrol storage tanks, hangers, grain silos, radar huts, hydrogen plants and aircraft components.

One engineering firm in the area is building the equipment for Britain's biggest penicillin plant.

Teeside factories have also produced a huge fleet of landing craft and a large part of the vast pre-fabricated port through which Allied supplies passed for the Battle of Normandy—a local man, Mr. J. Gibson, was in charge of the work on the port.

The Teeside area has thus become a model for the diverse industrial developments of the future. A special delegation from China and a group of Indian scientists came especially to study the advanced technological practices in the Teeside industrial plants.

The Teeside Development Board is now planning the further development of sites, communications and dock facilities in order to preserve and extend the industrial efficiency and diversity of the area for post-war production.

Will you help build health for countless children?

ABOVE is the architect's drawing of a new Hospital for Sick Children which the people of Ontario must begin to build in the immediate future. This task cannot be delayed. Scores of little children today are awaiting the specialized hospital attention which only this institution can give.

During the past 70 years, hundreds of thousands of sick and crippled Ontario children have been treated. 95 per cent. of the beds are in the public wards. The 88 doctors in attendance make no charge for these patients.

The research laboratories are among the largest of their kind in the country. All Canada benefits from this research. It has been effective in the prevention and cure of disease.

WHY IS A NEW BUILDING NEEDED?

The present hospital is obsolete and overcrowded. More beds are needed. The total number of patients treated has increased 50% since 1929. No bed is ever empty and there is a continuous waiting list of 200 cases. The estimated cost of the new hospital is $6,000,000. Today, as throughout its history, the hospital must rely on the generosity of public-spirited citizens. Thousands of little children look to you to restore them to health. Whatever you can give will bring rich rewards to you, to Ontario and to the Dominion both now and in the years to come.

FACTS Tell the Whole Story • Hospital founded 1875—six beds. • College Street Hospital built 1889, with 190 beds. Extended later. • Present capacity, City hospital, 320 beds, 300 in public wards. • Constant waiting list, 200 patients. • Hundreds of Thousands of Ontario children treated since foundation. • Treated last year: Cot patients, 9,730; Out-patient treatments, 60,858. • Research Work benefits whole of Canada and other countries. • Over 3,000 problem cases admitted from outside of Toronto each year. • 88 doctors give free services, totalling over 45,000 hours yearly. • Hospital treats more children than any other hospital in North America. • 600 beds urgently required, with all related services.
