Part of the Community Life

One of the community organizations that has been much missed in Milton is the town band. During wartime and through many years, Milton has had splendid service from the Lorne Scots Band and it has indeed been appreciated, since it is a well-known fact that without this service in the past six years this town would have been deprived of band music.

But a band is something which every community needs of its own—not merely for the service it renders to all community functions, but also to develop the musical talent of the young people of the community. Many of us will recall the fine service such men as Richard Gollins and Wm. Dewar and many others gave to maintain Milton Band at a high standard for many years and the backing they received from the twenty to twenty-five members who made up the organization and carried it on for years.

Getting a band re-organized again will require some help of all organizations for a few years. But several experienced and capable bandmen are here and it doesn't have to start from scratch as there are still some instruments. The answer seems to be in the young folks. Boys' bands have shown real strides in a few years in many communities and it is in this youth that the new band will have to seek largely for its members. Experienced bandmen can help by lending a hand. Organizations can help by moral and financial support and citizens generally by appreciation.

The young men are coming back from overseas. The youth have now the assurance of being able to pursue civilian pursuits and will be found enthusiastic for community duties. Milton needs a band. We believe Milton has the talent and experienced leadership right in Milton to have a band. Fall and winter is a splendid time to start the organization. There is no finer hobby for young people. All that seems to be lacking is a starter.

Let's Make Sure of the Roof

After the best architect has produced plans for a beautiful home, the most skillful contractor does not reflect the full beauty of those plans until he has completed the roof and has finished the inside trim.

Capable planners designed a secure financial house to shelter Canadian people during war time. It was built by the Canadian people with eight Victory Loans. Although lacking many conveniences, it compared favorably with shaky wartime financial structures of many other nations.

The Ninth Victory Loan may well be viewed as the roof and inside trim, the finishing touches on a financial structure which will transform the house to provide comfortable living for the vast majority of Canadians in years following the war.

A successful Ninth Victory Loan will provide the means by which the country can help sailors, soldiers and airmen to resettle in civilian life with minimum discomfort and to do her share in the great world task of creating order out of disorder and of hastening a resumption of international trade so necessary for continued prosperity in this Canada of ours.

Having done such an excellent job on the foundation and the walls of this Canadian financial house, let us make sure that the architect's plans for the roof are carried out equally well. They will be if each individual citizen buys Ninth Victory Loan Bonds as enthusiastically as he bought in the previous eight campaigns.

Home and Foreign Policies

It was interesting to read in the papers recently the measures being taken by the occupation forces to stamp out the opium traffic in Japan. It seems Japan has been the biggest sinner in the amount of dope grown and supplied not only to Japanese and Chinese, but in illicit trade to other countries. It is a splendid move to liberate these people from the slavery of the drug habit. We hope Japan appreciates how democracy is going to make her people of the future more super men and women by the elimination of the dope traffic.

But while we're reforming the Japanese and making them leave their bad habits, we aren't doing anything to reform our own people from the increasing habit of drinking intoxicating beverages. In fact, it's being encouraged. We don't know the profit the Japanese made from their opium trade, but we doubt if it compares with what is being made out of our liquor trade. In Russia we are told there is a genuine program being carried on to show the people the folly of drunkenness. Quite likely occupied Germany will have its liquor rations curtailed as part of its rehabilitation.

But we do it differently in our democracy. These big profits in the sale of intoxicating liquor allow us to countenance the degeneration of our young people. Drunkenness is made quite popular in many circles and easy of access by the young people and we're reaping the harvest. Yes, we're doing a good job of reforming the Japanese and who knows what race will in a few years be the super men. Can we afford to continue our home policy in the face of our foreign policy?

Hydro Studies Change of Cycle

A close study of the many technical and economic problems which would be involved in a frequency changeover from 25 to 60 cycles in the Niagara division of Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario is being made by Hydro engineers, in line with the Commission's policy of planning ahead for possible contingencies, Dr. Thomas H. Hogg, chairman, has announced.

Dr. Hogg strongly emphasized the fact that the change was one which could not be made over night but which would involve the careful planning of a long term program which would be carried out over a period of at least 10 years and necessitate the outlay of many millions of dollars. Bearing these facts in mind, he continued, the Commission had to be sure that the majority of hydro users now using 25 cycle current would benefit to an extent which would fully justify the undertaking of such a tremendous program.

Toronto hydro experts estimated recently that it would cost approximately $5 millions to convert Toronto's electric system to 60 cycle and that the cost of converting consumers' equipment, roughly would be around an additional $30 millions.

The actual planning and initiating of a frequency changeover would require considerable time and involve the construction of a major power development at 60 cycles. Such a development would then permit the selection of a certain 25-cycle area to be converted to a higher frequency. Over a period of years, other areas would be converted successively until finally practically all the 25-cycle areas would be eliminated, Dr. Hogg explained.

Indian Summer

If the recent fine weather was not the Indian Summer season, it was pretty close to it.

Most people referring to Indian Summer are not at all technical. They regard any nice stretch of late autumn weather as constituting Indian Summer weather. A formal dictionary definition terming it "a period of calm, dry weather in late autumn in the northern part of North America" generally suits most people. It satisfies a longing for accuracy.

But what is most satisfying about Indian Summer is Indian Summer itself. This short, irregular season really might be called the epitome of autumn.

The sky is cloudless, the atmosphere hazy. Every breath is filled with the sharp, invigorating tang of nature at its best. The calm translucence of the air and the mellowness of the sun shining—sharply contrasting the climatic conditions which precede and follow—have a quality of warmth that helps one to live through the cold winter months.

The first blast of "Squaw Winter," when the thermometer takes its first dip to the cold regions, is forgotten for the time.

This peculiar seasonal warmth—corresponding to what is known as St. Luke's Summer in Britain—probably was discovered about the same time that the Indians were discovered in Canada. When smoke was seen issuing lazily from a wigwam or a hogan in the fall, someone must have said: "This is Indian Summer."

The Indians never had any special name for it, but the relation of the North American aboriginals to this particular little season has spurred many an old-timer to relating that there is a second Indian Summer each year—in fact, there probably is more than one period of fall weather which could be classified in this category. The legend goes that the second Indian Summer comes to give lazy Indians who did no work during the first warm period, a chance to do a little work before winter sets in.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Oddly enough we will never win the human race unless we stop trying to get ahead of each other.

The leaves are nearly all off the trees and the sand piles along the highways are getting bigger—Sure signs that colder weather is coming.

Don't wait until the final week to buy Victory Bonds. Buy all you can now and be ready to help with the extra if needed at the finish—But Buy Early.

It's estimated that 72.4 per cent. of Canada's expenditure for 1945-46 is still war expenditure. War leaves it's responsibilities to clean up long after the fighting ceases.
