

The Week at OTTAWA

By H. L. JONES
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—There was a hot debate in Parliament this week on an issue which has been a live one in Canadian political life for half a century or more—the question of a distinctive flag. It arose when the government introduced a resolution for establishment of a special committee which would seek a suitable design for such a flag.

Other pressing business was laid aside momentarily as members took the floor to express their views. Many thought this was no time for such discussion when Canada was in the throes of getting back on her peacetime feet. Others wanted adoption of the Union Jack and still others an entirely new flag.

A segment of Progressive Conservatives came out strongly for adoption of the Red Ensign, even to the point of proposing an amendment to the government's motion to that effect. The amendment was ruled out of order by the Speaker and when the decision was appealed he was upheld by the House by a vote of 93 to 70.

Jean Francois Foubiot, French-Canadian Liberal from Temiscouata, was one of those strongly supporting a new flag. He said one reason he supported the move was the fact that the Canadian coat of arms, which appears on the Red Ensign, was "full of animals a circus in a garden where it is not wanted." The only reason for adopting the Red Ensign would be to "appease a little group of jingoes who have not the sentiments of Canadians."

Canada's Nationhood

C.C.F. Leader, M. J. Coldwell supported the resolution and he went even further and called for two other measures he said were essential to Canada's nationhood—a national anthem and the "right to amend our own constitution."

When the House rose that night the resolution was still unpassed. It will come up again sometime this week, probably along with another measure relating to Canada's national life—the citizenship bill.

Canada's wartime growth to more mature nationhood in the world scene can be noted almost every day in parliament. Discussions which before the war concerned the expenditure of millions of dollars now are in billions. There is talk now of Canada's defences, her place in the peace and in the family of Allied nations as well as within the Commonwealth and of affairs within her borders.

Fresh evidence of this was Justice Minister St. Laurent's announcement during the week that a joint party parliamentary delegation will represent Canada at the forthcoming meeting this month of the preparatory commission of the United Nations in London. The chairman will be L. D. Willgress, Canadian ambassador to the Soviet Union.

The justice minister said that the delegation will consist of Senator A. K. Huggesson, Liberal from Quebec; Howard Winkler, Liberal member of the Commons for Lisgar, Man.; Gordon Graydon, former Progressive Conservative House Leader; Philip Picard, Liberal from Bellechere, Quebec and Stanley Knowles, who represents Winnipeg North Centre for the C.C.F.

Thus Canada, which sent to San Francisco, a delegation representing all sides of her political life, will send the same kind of representative delegation to London. At the British capital, in a meeting expected to last about three weeks, the nations which signed the San Francisco charter will put it to work for the peace it was designed to bring.

Cartel Report

Another international issue during the week was that of cartels. Tabled in the Commons was a 30,000-word government sponsored report which charged that cartels had assisted formation of private industrial empires which tended to supplant government in the determination of national commercial policies. It called for both national and international curbs on monopolistic abuses.

The document charged that cartel manipulations limited production and impeded the most efficient use of world resources, raised consumer prices, restricted import and export of certain commodities and created patent pools of monopolies covering wide fields of endeavor. It charged further that cartels were "part of a network of restrictive trade practices prejudicial to Canada's welfare, dependent as she is upon a revival of world trade."

There was no discussion on the report. Nor were there any indications if any party in the House would move to bring the subject to the debate stage for possible action.

The state of Canada's farming industry will come in for some lengthy and studied discussion in Ottawa during the first week in December. That is when the first peacetime conference of Dominion and provincial agriculture experts is scheduled to be held, bringing together agriculture ministers and experts of provincial departments with Agriculture Minister Gardiner and authorities of the government's agricultural departments.

Following these talks farmers are advised regarding the best types of crops on which to concentrate the following season, and this conference is considered of more than usual importance because peace and its reactions on farm communities will have to be carefully weighed in the light of Canadian responsibilities to help feed the world and maintain rural prosperity at home.

CANADA GETS DOCKS

PRINCE RUPERT, B. C. (CP) — About $16,000,000 dollars worth of American built port facilities at Prince Rupert are being turned over to Canadian authorities under the terms of an agreement between the two governments.

MEAT SHIPMENTS ALL-TIME HIGH

Commenting on reports that British dock strikes have interfered with Canadian meat shipments, the Meat Board announced on October 31 that meat shipments are now at an all-time high and that it has ample refrigerated ocean space booked to handle all meats now available for shipment.

The Meat Board is shipping so much meat overseas that plain figures fail to convey the size of its operations. The 110,000,000 pounds of meat which the Board has cleared or booked for clearance overseas since October 1st would fill a freight train stretching half way from Toronto to Hamilton, Ont., or halfway from St. John to Fredericton, N. B., or all the way from Calgary west to the foothills of the Rockies.

Of this unprecedented quantity of meat exports, some 60,000,000 pounds were carried overseas by 15 steamers clearing Canadian ports in October. These October shipments include 28,000,000 pounds of bacon and 28,000,000 pounds of beef.

German Waxings Sold in London

Refugees Brought Pre-War Records of British and American Artists

LONDON (CP)—Phonograph records of British and American artists manufactured in Germany now are on sale in secondhand stores in London's "Tin Pan Alley", Charing Cross Road. They are believed to have been brought to London by refugees fleeing to England from Germany.

The records have German titles on the labels appearing over the names of such artists as Bing Crosby, Gracie Fields, Jack Hylton, Paul Whiteman, and George Formby.

"There was a big sale in Germany for records by British and American star performers before the war," one storekeeper said. "Master recordings were sent to Germany so that copies could be manufactured by German labor."

BOMBER CRUISER DOCKLAND THREAT

GLASGOW (CP) — A 250-pound German bomb which crashed into the cruiser Sussex and set her aflame during an air raid September 8th, 1940, caused 2,000 people along Glasgow's waterfront to be evacuated as it was feared the ammunition aboard might explode.

Had the cruiser, just loaded with shells and torpedoes, exploded it is estimated that an area within a half-mile radius would have been flattened. But after a 12-hour fight firemen succeeded in quenching the blaze and saving the harbor.

Repairs to the Sussex took two years to complete.

LURE OF BRIGHTON

FARNBORO, England (Reuter) — Pte. O. Benoit, Montreal, who pleaded guilty to 34 days absence without leave, told a Canadian army court martial that Brighton was so attractive he had been reluctant to leave.

The BANK of NOVA SCOTIA

Over a Century of Banking Experience

EMERGENCIES arise in any family

Banks are continually making small loans to meet these emergencies which can upset the best-planned budgets.

Three out of every five bank loans are for less than $500. Many of these are used to take care of such expenses as doctor or hospital bills, temporary embarrassment at tax-time, a sudden journey, the winter's coal bill.

Again, educational needs of the family often are financed by small bank loans.

These small loans enable individuals to consolidate debts, and to pay back from income.

Small loans furnish just one more example of the service available to you at your bank.
