FARM SCHEME AIDS UNEMPLOYED BOYS

PRETORIA, South Africa (CP)—A scheme to apprentice boys between the ages of 16 and 18 years to farmers is being worked out by the Pretoria Juvenile Affairs Board. It is hoped that this scheme will open up an avenue of employment to the city's unemployed youths. If adopted, it will probably be administered by the department of labor in co-operation with the department of agriculture and the Transvaal Agricultural Union.

These youths will not be used on farms merely as cheap labor, but at the end of their apprenticeship, which will probably be two years, they will be skilled farmer foremen. They will be sent to financially sound farmers, with the necessary facilities and capabilities for providing a sound training, and the period of apprenticeship will include short-term courses at agricultural colleges.

The returning soldier this time wants a hand in building a world that works—not a hand-out from one that doesn't.

SOCKS COMMEMORATE FOUNDING OF TOWN

RICHMOND, B. C. (CP)—A pair of socks knitted by Mrs. Hugh Boyd, 91, resident of Ireland and widow of Richmond's first reeve will be preserved in a glass case to commemorate the town's founding. Mrs. Boyd sent the socks to Maj. J. S. Matthews Vancouver archivist, and he suggested they be kept as a memento.

Major Matthews said: The same hands that made coffee and sandwiches for the "mudflatters" who came in gumboots to found in her home the municipality of Richmond, made these socks.

SOCIALISM BY TAXATION

In drawing up the new budget the Minister of Finance will have to consider that while during the war the payment of taxes was held out as a patriotic duty, taxation in peacetime becomes exclusively a social and economic problem.

The methods on which taxation, and especially income tax, is levied in the future may decide whether free enterprise can continue, or whether state bureaucracy will take its place.

There has been a small reduction in income tax. Yet, receipts from that source have increased nearly 12-fold since 1933, and while the purely wartime "normal" tax continues there does not seem to be much prospect of real relief. Nor is industry likely to get really under way while the excess profits tax tends to destroy all vital initiative.

On the administrative side, reforms have been long overdue. It is an old principle of taxation that "the tax each individual is bound to pay ought to be certain, not arbitrary." The opposite is the case in Canada.

The deputy minister of national revenue—which, in practice means his official subordinates—has such discretionary powers that taxation is sometimes a matter of whim rather than of precise law.

This is not overstatement. The deputy minister himself, giving testimony before a Senate committee, has stated that for the fiscal year ending March 1, 1945, assessments of income tax declared by tax payers were increased by $38,000,000.

These increases of assessment, whether justifiable by fact or not, were purely arbitrary. The War Income Tax Act, "in computing the amount of the profits or gains to be assessed" permits no deduction except "as the minister in his discretion may allow." The minister, furthermore, "may disallow any expense which he in his discretion may determine to be in excess of what is reasonable or normal . . ." For the purpose of determining earned income "the minister may reduce the amount of any salary, wages, fees, bonuses, gratuities or honoraria which, in his opinion, are not commensurate with the services actually rendered."

Here we have a situation that has grown up almost imperceptibly since the original Act was drawn in 1917. The amounts involved 30 years ago were comparatively negligible. Today they are crushing.

The first appeal allowed the tax payer is to the deputy minister, who, since he makes the orders against which appeals are usually made, is a definite party to the case and a judge in his own cause. The aggrieved tax payer may appeal further to the Exchequer Court of Canada, but he must post a bond of $400 in order to do so.

In business there is still inequality in taxation. There is the double taxation of corporation profits and the question of the preferred position enjoyed by co-operatives and Crown corporations.

All these problems have been satisfactorily tackled in other countries. Before excessive taxation entirely destroys the incentive to work and take risks in Canada, attention must be given to them here. A socialistic state can be created, it might be observed, just as easily by taxation as it can by the ballot.—Reprinted from the Halifax Chronicle, Tuesday, Apr. 2nd, 1946.

ARMY FARM SUCCESS INTRIGUES INDIANS

NEW DELHI (CP)—Inquisitive farmers of Jharcera, near here, are flocking to the Rajputana Rifles Regimental Centre wanting to know how the Army farm yields twice as much barley per acre compared to the yield on their farms.

The soldiers tell them the "magic" is better seed well used, and fertilizer from manure which the villagers bake into discs and burn. And the troops show them how.

Ten months ago the "Rajrif's" 16-acre farm was a barren waste. Now it is gaining fame as a pre-release school in agriculture, where men of the Rajputana Rifles are getting a nine weeks' course in better farming. The farm has successfully experimented in growing different kinds of wheat and fodder.
