OVERCROWDING CHICKS

Overcrowding chicks is the most common and most costly error in the poultry business. Overcrowding wastes feed, stunts growth, causes not only direct loss but indirect loss through weakened stock. Young chicks soon outgrow their original brooder houses and trouble occurs if room for expansion is not provided. Each colony house should be supplemented with at least two range shelters to ensure adequate growth.

Some breeders and hatcherymen arrange to supply knock-down range shelters to baby chick customers at nominal cost. Other poultry service organizations, suggest the authorities, might usefully arrange to enter this field as well. Some woodworking firm in every poultry community could be approached to offer a line of knock-down range shelters.

INTERNATIONAL SCOUTING INCREASES

Increasing travel facilities between Great Britain and the continent will make it possible for hundreds of Boy Scouts from European countries to camp with British scouts this summer. North of England Scouts are planning to entertain 120 European Scouts in the Lake District, Scottish Scouts are to play host to a similar number from liberated countries, and 300 British Scouts are to attend an International Camp at Granso, the national Scout camping grounds in Sweden. British Scouts will also attend camps in Norway and Denmark.

RIBBONS NOT EARNED

WINDSOR (CP) — Frank Snyder Windsor house painter who wore 8 military ribbons including the Victoria Cross when arrested on the street, was sentenced to a year in reformatory for falsely wearing decorations.

HELPFUL CITIZEN

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal police have been able to cross at least one stolen car report from their books. A resident notified police when he noticed an automobile parked in the same spot for three days. Police investigated and found the automobile parked beside a fire hydrant.

Kowing How to Swim as Important As Walking

Knowing how to swim is as important as knowing how to walk, particularly if you enjoy the many pleasures and the good healthy exercise provided by swimming, fishing or just pleasure boating. Everyone can walk and we learn at an early age. It's important, too, since we depend so much on our ability to walk for our daily existence, yet when the summer rolls around, a good many of us will be spending a lot of time at the beach or the swimming pool or the cottage where there is plenty of water to swim in. It's there that the importance of water safety and knowing how to swim are very often forgotten and as a result, water fatalities increase. Swimming takes on the importance of walking when you pick up your daily newspaper and read about the many and varied water accidents that take place during the summer months.

Every boy and girl likes the water, and every boy and girl will be going in the water sometime during the summer months either at the beaches or up at the summer cottage. If they can't swim, they are not going to have much fun. While others are out at the diving raft swimming around and having lots of fun, they will have to content themselves by staying in the shallow water. If they can swim and are familiar with some of the rules of water safety, they could be one of the gang and be out there enjoying the activities.

The greatest danger on any beach is the individual himself. People often run risks by swimming in water that is contaminated, but by far the greatest risk is taken by those who don't know how to swim or handle themselves in case of emergency. There is a danger to non-swimmers who walk out into unfamiliar waters which may conceal hidden holes and it's dangerous for a poor swimmer to venture too far into deep water without any knowledge of what to do in case of cramps or other dangers.

Carelessness and inability to swim are the two outstanding causes of small boat accidents. Studies of such accidents show that from 50 to 80 per cent. of the victims were unable to swim. Rowing and canoeing is a highly enjoyable and healthful form of recreation. It need not be dangerous if reasonable care is taken. Most fatalities can be prevented if a few simple rules are observed such as: first learn how to handle the boat before going out into deep water in it. Do not use a leaky or otherwise defective boat. Know what hazards are peculiar to the waters on which the boat is to be used. Learn to swim before going out in a small boat.

Following are a few Don'ts and if applied will make swimming a lot safer.

- (1) Don't swim alone.
- (2) Don't swim for at least an hour after eating.
- (3) Don't venture beyond your depth with artificial support such as a board, water wings, inner tubes, or on the shoulders of a well meaning but foolish swimming companion.
- (4) Don't swim for long distances unless accompanied by a boat.
- (5) Don't dive into water you are not familiar with. There may be old tree stumps and hidden rocks.

WHAT SAITH THE SCRIPTURE?

"It's not popular!"

A great many people judge truth by the fiftful gauge of popularity. Many people in Milton have attended our meeting at the Tab. and have said, "I would like to believe the Gospel you preach but I cannot be sure that it is absolutely true."

"Why," they have been asked.

"Well, there are so few people in this town who believe it and they are not the refined element of our community. With practically everybody else, it is unpopular, and so cannot see that it is true."

Truth, however, has no relation to popularity. The discoverers of many basic laws of science were usually unpopular and had to endure the sneers—ofttimes stones—of the populace and some even were executed as "dangerous fanatics." And the old time gospel which has snatched wretched, blinded sinners from the pit of a Christless eternity, transformed them into living epistles of light (2 Cor. 3: 2) refuses to become "popular" for it would then be under the world and the prince of it (John 12: 31) and thus lose the very power which men so deeply need.

The issue is simply "He that believeth on Him is not condemned but he that believeth not is condemned already because he hath not believed in the name of the only begotten Son of God" (John 3: 18).

How foolish, how pitifully foolish to be in the "not" class, simply by looking through a false smoke screen—which leads nowhere but to the pit of eternal fire (Math. 23: 41, 46).

The Lord Jesus Christ died upon the cross of Calvary for you (1 Peter 2: 24).

Return, O wanderer, now return,
 And wipe the falling tear!
 Thy father calls—no longer mourn:
 His love invites thee near—return.

THIS WEEK

BY VIRGINIA FOX
 Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — Rain and lightning storms which disrupted communication and power lines in many sections of Ontario and Quebec late last week were blamed for four deaths in Ontario.

The storms struck along a wide front early Friday evening, extending from Windsor in the west to Ottawa in the east and for a considerable distance northward. Telegraph communications were thrown out of kilter for some time until services were restored.

The rains accompanying the lightning brought an end to the four-week drought in most sections of the province. At Malton airport near Toronto the weather observatory recorded a peak wind velocity of 75 miles an hour at one time—a wind of hurricane strength.

At Acton in Halton County, 21 valuable Jersey cows were killed when struck by lightning as they huddled beneath a tree. Other points in the province reported fires were started by the storm burning down barns in which hay crops were stored.

In some areas hay crops were damaged extensively although, on the other hand, potatoes benefited by the downpour.

Radio stations in the Toronto area went off the air from seven minutes to two hours, due to static charges and power failures, but there was no general power interruption.

The Hydro Electric Power Commission, telegraph and railway officials said the brunt of the storm was from Kitchener to Georgetown. However, a church steeple at St. Mary's was struck. A Campbellford family was forced to seek refuge in a chicken coop when lightning struck their home.

New regulations governing the sale of beer in hotel and club beverage rooms in Ontario have been announced by the Liquor Authority Control Board.

What one board spokesman termed "peddling of beer" in beverage rooms is to be discouraged by a regulation requiring the beer be ordered before it is served. Other regulations limit to one bottle or one glass the amount of beer which may be served to a customer at one time.

The new regulations, which went into effect early this week, reduce the hours beverage rooms stay open by 1½ hours a day. New hours are 11.30 a.m. to 2 p.m.; 4 to 6.30 p.m. and 8 to 10 p.m.

While only a few beverage rooms have been open in the evenings due to problems of supply, the order provides that each authority holder must open on Tuesday and Thursday evenings and arrange his beer supply to remain open for at least an hour.

On Saturdays and public holidays beverage rooms are not required to close in the afternoons.

The Labor Progressive Party in a recent statement said the party "takes no political orders from either Ottawa, Washington, London or Moscow" but "its program, policies and political decisions are hammered out in democratic conventions by LPP leaders and members."

The statement said that the Royal Commission in its report on espionage "has undertaken to judge out of hand and to 'convict' the Labor Progressive party of complicity in espionage activity."

ONTARIO'S LIZARD—

THE SKINK

The blue-tailed skink, the only true lizard found in eastern Canada, occurs in Ontario near Lakes Erie and St. Clair and southern Lake Huron and from Frontenac and Peterborough Counties northwest to Parry Sound district. This skink, like other lizards, has scales. The largest specimen in the Royal Ontario Museum is almost seven inches long.

THE PRECISION FISHING REEL

A dual purpose fishing reel which represents a considerable advance on previous types is now being manufactured by a London firm. One outstanding feature of this reel (known as the "Loncast") is that it is a precision article, modern in conception and using experience gained in the production of precision parts during the war. It is made from duralumin and has an anodic finish which renders it corrosion-proof against fresh and salt water. Its other advantages are: a well-designed slipping clutch which permits the use of fine lines without fear of breakage; a large diameter spool which gives a rapid recovery of line without the complication of gearing. The spool is so designed as to prevent the line "piling" and being badly laid on. Added to this is the simple design, which permits all components to be readily dismantled and adjusted with no more tools than a screwdriver or coin.

IMPOSSIBLE TO ACCOMPANY

The music master, running his hand through his hair, stormed about the studio.

Mademoiselle, it is impossible. Vedder I play on die vite keys or vedder I play on die black, it makes no difference. Always you sing as if I vere playing in der cracks.

FURTHER NOTICE

That the use of Water for Lawn and Garden Service is strictly prohibited to July 31st on account of extensive repairs to water system.
