

THOUGHTLESS HUNTERS LEAVE WOUNDED DEER

This fine young deer, after suffering from gun shot wounds, the result of thoughtless hunters, was found dying a short time ago, by boys who were looking for nuts, about six miles south-east of Milton, along the banks of the Sixteen Mile Creek. Hugh Lerich, one of the boys who found the animal, is shown on the left. J. W. Robertson and Jack Buck, were taken by police to slaughter the suffering animal, but found it had died before their arrival. Provincial Constable Al Lemon, in the rear, investigating officer issued a warning that persons found shooting at or killing deer in the district would be prosecuted.

A YARD OF MACARONI

The astonishing variety of articles left behind by air travellers would indicate that they are "in the clouds" in more senses than one! Hats, a folding perambulator, children's toys, coats, a portable typewriter, books, spectacles and pipes are lying unclaimed in the British Overseas Airways Corporation's Lost Property Office at Airways Terminal, London. But the most, shall we say, unusual item, is a yard of macaroni.

Jean Baptiste Colbert, possibly the greatest of French statesmen, who ruled France in the golden age of Louis XIV, was noted for his extreme skill in providing the gold. His formula was simple. "The art of taxation," he wrote, "consists in so plucking the goose as to obtain the largest amount of feathers with the least possible amount of hissing."
