WHY SASKATCHEWAN POPULATION DROPS

Post, it has been apparent that Mr. Dave Frazer. Saskatchewan agriculture, by long odds the greatest single industry in the province, could not possioly hope to maintain the number of people it once employed, let alone absorb any natural increase. Mainly, Saskatchewan agriculture produces wheat and in this line, mechanization has scored its greatest advance. Wheat farms are getting steadily larger, the number of men employed in grow- OF FARM ing the wheat, steadily smaller.

To hold its present population, to provide sufficient jobs for the young people now reaching maturity, Saskatchewan must have new industries. To provide these new industries there must be new capital. And capital will not venture where there is no hope of reasonable security and a reasonable

WOULD LIKE YOUR HELP I came to Canada last September, and I am trying to establish a nation-wide business to make useful, reliable, high value for money, furniture for the masses of Canada, that is, those with incomes between $1500 and $5000 p.a. My capital, some $6000., I have put into getting here from England and starting the business, although I knew that this would be insufficient to capitalise the job, as the job is a big job and much bigger than I, as one man, could possibly handle single-handed. took the course I did in full confidence that I should receive the necessary support from those who like to see a good job of work done, and who appreciate the crying necessity to provide the people of Canada with useful, reliable, high value for money furniture. I have started production and selling and have already received valuable financial support locally. This naturally encourages me to ask for financial help on the wider scale. The present help has been given as personal loans, and I think this is more satisfactory than forming a company and issu-
