An impressive service of dedication was held in Acton United Church on Friday evening, October 29th, when the church was reopened for regular church services after a period of renovation during which time a new choir arrangement of seating was brought into effect and a semi-chancel suggestion was given the front of the sanctuary.

Acton's oldest church, the Baptist Church, celebrated its 106th Anniversary on Sunday, October 31. The guest speaker for the occasion was Rev. Frank Patch of Wentworth St. Baptist Church, Hamilton.

This community was indeed saddened by the sudden passing on Sunday of Mrs. Neil McDonald at her home on Bower Avenue. She had been about as usual that day and attended the service in the United Church on Sunday morning. During the afternoon she died suddenly as she was busy writing letters to her family.

Crown Disposes Of Almost All War Plants

Virtually all the industrial buildings constructed or financed directly by the Crown during the war have now been disposed of permanently or temporarily. Of their 33.5 million square feet of floor space, 84 per cent has been more or less permanently disposed of through sale to industry, transfer to government departments or to Crown corporations, or has been dismantled or demolished. An additional 15 per cent has been leased to industry, in part on a multiple tenancy basis, or temporarily transferred to the War Assets Corporation for war surpluses. The balance of only one per cent is now available for disposal. The Canadian Government financed the construction of 170 new plants during the war, at a cost of over $200 million, excluding an expenditure of $500 million on equipment.

The plants turned over to private industry, and being adapted to peacetime production are expected to employ more than 50,000 people. They will be turning out almost every major type of manufactured product, including automobiles, aeroplanes, communications and electrical equipment, paper and wood products, chemicals, pharmaceuticals, plumbing and heating equipment, and textiles. Many of these commodities are being produced in Canada for the first time, and are thus contributing to the diversification of Canadian industry and the maintenance of a high level of employment.

SERVICE

Among several inconveniences attendant upon life in a city is the difficulty of finding anyone who can do ordinary little jobs quickly and well.

Witness the sad case of the summer bachelor, who received instructions on a Friday morning from his wife that he was to be sure to have the grass shears sharpened and bring them with him to the summer cottage when he visited her that week-end.

The commission did not seem too difficult to execute, and he took the shears with him as he drove to the office. He stopped at the first hardware store en route, and asked if the shears could be sharpened there. They could not.

A little discouraged, he drove to the next hardware store. The answer to his inquiry was the same.

The third store seemed better. At least the clerk was willing to accept the shears for sharpening. But when the customer asked if he could pick them up that evening, the clerk smiled in the tolerant manner that has become fashionable for dealing with intelligent members of the public who expect service in return for their money. "Oh, no," he said. "Call back in ten days."

The customer then remembered that there was a maintenance department in his own office building, so he took the shears there. The maintenance man had a grindstone and was willing and able to apply the shears to it. The job took three minutes.—The Printed Word.

To be judged the best Six of the Pack is a real honor. It means that, in the opinion of the leaders, the boys in the group so chosen are the most neatly dressed, the cleanest, the best behaved, and the most regular in attendance. Each week the Sixes are inspected and given points according to the way they measure up in this regard, and at the end of the season there will be a special reward for the Six with the highest total.

This week the honors go to the Brown Six, who merited 21 points out of a possible 24. The boys in this group are: Kenneth Riddell, Fred Dyer, Ted Brazier, Jimmie Auger and Peter Robinson. Congratulations boys. Keep up the good work.
