One would travel far to run across another audience rural or urban of 150 young people who would rate as high. To what extent Junior Farmer Work or Church Young People's Organizations have been responsible for their development we do not know, but definitely their home training has been excellent, which augurs well for the future leadership of rural Halton.

Moose Have Long Trip to New Home

The successful transfer of 10 moose, five male and five female, from Elk Island National Park, Alberta, to Cape Breton Highlands National Park, Nova Scotia, by the National Park Service of the Department of Mines and Resources, was announced. The 2,500-mile trip, which lasted nine days, was made over Canadian National Railways lines. The animals were takn by special truck from Little Bras d'Or, near Sydney, N.S., to the Roper's Brook area in the Cape Breton Park, where they were released. Officials of the National Parks Service and the Dominion Wildfire Service had charge of the moose during the entire trip.

At one time moose were abundant on Cape Breton Island, but excessive exploitation resulted in their extermination. In winter, when deep snow made the animals helpless, hunters often slaughtered them in their winter "yards."

Under sanctuary conditions, however, wild animals that were virtually extinct at the turn of the century are once again thriving. The buffalo is a classic example.

The re-establishment of moose in Cape Breton Highlands National Park is regarded as an important project. A recent investigation of wildfire conditions there revealed that the area is excellent moose range. Under these favourable conditions the moose should increase rapidly.

Amazia stands here for what high stands here for wh ligion, and he resents the presence of a teacher independent of influence and patronage who seeks to ave him expelled from the king-

(1) He makes an appeal to the king by bringing against Amos a groundless charge of treason. By a blase slander he endeavors to influence the king against the true teacher. (2) He does his best to alarm the prophet. "Prophesy not again any more at Bethel," he cries, "for it is the king's chapel and the king's court" (ch. 7: 13). It does not appear that Jeroboam took any notice of the message Amaziah sent him concerning Amos: in order to give effect to his purpose he addressed the prophet, saying, "O thou seer, go, flee thee away (v. 12). But Amos does not flee away at the word of Amaziah. Instead he tells the officous priest that he is not a prophet nor the son of one, but, the fact notwithstanding, he was prepared to prophecy against Bethel and against Amaziah. The great point taught here is indicated by Amos' candor. He apes neither manners nor scholastic qualifications which are not his. He had not studied in any prophetic school, and said so (v. 14).

No true prophet is ever ashamed of his origin, however humble. Amos is thoroughly conscious of the divinity of his mission. Amos had no doubt whatever as to the fact that Lord had called (v. 15). When God calls a man to work, that man knows it, and no argument will convince him to the contrary. Amos denounces the conventional priest in the name of the Lord. In return for this rebellion against Jehovah and His messenger Amos fortells for the priest the punishment that will fall upon him when the judgment shall come upon Israel.

111. God's Recipe for Universal

Peace Mic. 4: 1-4. This is a very appropriate passage to show how universal peace is to come; not through great peace conferences—as is sometimes expected by those who are ignorant of the teaching of God's Word, but through the coming of our great King to rule Zion over all nations. The last (or latter) days, v. 1, is used in the Bible as a general expression for future time, but predominantly, with reference to the establishing of Messiah's kingdom, Gen. 49: 1; Isa. 2: 1-3; Ezek. 38: 16; Dan. 2: 28, 44; 10: 14; Hos. 3: 5; Ac. 2: 17; Heb. 1: 2; 2 Pet. 3. 3. By the mountain of the Lord's house is meant Mount Zion in Jerusalem, where the temple was located in the days of Solomon. We have precisely the same prophecy in Isa. 2: 2-4, but a significant change in Isa. 2: 5 from Mic. 4: 5. Similar prophecies are found in Jer. 31: 6; 50: 4, 5; Zech. 8: 20-23. These passages should be studied together. Jehovah incarnate will be the Teacher of all nations in that day (Mic. 4: 2; Isa. 54: 13). All nations then will walk in His paths. The law shall go forth from Zion and the ford of the Lord from Jerusalem, not merely to Israel but to all nations of earth. This will come about, not through the general spread of the gospels, but through the return of the Lord, and the establishment of His kingdom in Jerusalem on Mount Zion. Let us be watching for His coming, and serving while we "wait" (1
