Wellington Sutton, Chairman of the Ontario Farm Radio Forum, recently announced the appointment of Clifford Waite of Toronto to the position of Ontario Secretary to succeed Clare Burt.

Mr. Waite who is 31, was born in York County. He worked as a farm hand in his youth and has had experience in rural education as fieldman for the Ontario Folk School Council. Mr. Waite conducted the Halton Folk School held for the second year at the home of Mrs. R. Coulter this year.

The newly appointed secretary is a graduate of McMaster University, Hamilton, and Acadia University, Wolfville, Nova Scotia. He holds the degrees of Master of Arts and Bachelor of Education.

A Flying Officer in the R.C.A.F. during World War 11, Waite was awarded a DFC for "devotion to duty" while flying with Bomber Command over Europe.

As assistant director of the Hamilton Community Chest in 1948-49 and as director of instructors for Frontier College 1950-51, Waite has had experience in administration and public relations. His wife the former Beth Holder from Oxford County is a trained librarian. They have no children.

In taking up his new position the new secretary of the Ontario Farm Forum has 793 listening and study groups to serve in rural Ontario. Factual information is sent regularly to the local forums who in turn, send in their findings on questions pertinent to Canadian Agriculture. Among his duties it is the secretary's responsibility to summarize and report farm forum opinion to government and other authorities; thus the Ontario farmers have a voice that can make itself heard in precipitating democratic action.

TUB THUMPERS

When His Lordship Mister Justice So-and-So said recently of another judge that when they were lawyers, "He was my most worthy opponent," it brought to mind a couple of like sallies.

One was by an elderly lady with shining white hair. She said of another woman, "She has lovely white hair too." And then there was the pastor who stated "It is my opinion and that of other eminent divines . . ."—The Printed Word

Fine Weather for Halton County Show Nov. 1864

All fears of the weather proving unfavourable were dispelled by the glorious sunbeams on the morning of the 13th. The weather was all that could be hoped for. The turnout of people was large, probably in excess of any former year, although the merchants of Milton felt the failure of the crops by the diminished amount of cash exchanged show day.

We must congratulate the Society on the receipts which were $427.00 of which about $225 will be given in prizes, leaving a handsome balance after deducting a small amount for expenses.

The show ground presented a fine appearance. Although the crowd was large there was no jamming owing to the amount of space in the enclosure.

The Floral Hall was magnificent. We had no idea Halton would be so well represented in the arts.

In the centre of the Hall, on the ground floor, was a beautiful stand, rising tier after tier, covered with flowers and flower-bearing shrubs. Somewhat after the style of that at the Provincial Exhibition.

Canadian Champion

Is Beaten At Judo, But Wins At Chess

Trevor Pryce Leggett is the BBC's Japanese Program Organizer. Few people could be better fitted for the post, for he has had long and extensive experience of Japan, speaks the language fluently and is an expert at Judo and Japanese chess.

Leggett is a Londoner who was educated at London University, and from the age of seventeen he studied Judo, completing his training in Japan. He has the distinction of having attained "Fifth Dan," the highest grade of Judo held by any non-Japanese and one rank below the present champion, T. Daigo. Leggett recently took on Daigo, the all-Japan Judo champion in an exhibition match at London's Albert Hall. He had frequently met the runner-up in the championship, Yoshimatsu, but this was Leggett's first meeting with Daigo, who proved too good for him, which is not surprising as the Englishman was giving him twelve years. Leggett gained his revenge later on when he beat Daigo soundly at Japanese chess, and after the matches Daigo, R. Kano, President of the Japan Judo Association, and Leggett all broadcast together in the BBC's Japanese Service, a program which was relayed in Japan to stations all over the country.

Leggett was serving with the British Embassy at Tokyo and was interned when war broke out. He was released in a diplomatic exchange in 1942 and 1943 joined the South East Asia Command as a Japanese language expert. Now his unique experience of the Far East is at the disposal of the BBC, where he has worked for the past five years.

BE-CAWS

Two motorists stopped beside the road to eat lunch. The crows were especially noisy, prompting a discussion as to whether the "caws" which varied so in tone constituted a language. Over the stone wall a farmer was doing some planting, and they asked his opinion.

"Sure, they talk," he said. "Just had a conversation with one."

"You mean to say you can talk crow talk?"

"Nope, crow spoke English. He flapped onto a branch of that elm over there and looked down at me and asked, 'Caw-n?' I looked up at him and said, 'Nope. Beans.' 'Aw,' he said, and off he flew." — The Reader's Digest.

BUG KILLER

Here's a new gadget for destroying bugs. It's a vase like affair for indoors, says The Financial Post. It plugs into an electric outlet. Inside the fixture a special insect powder is turned into a vapour and—good-bye bugs.
