MEANINGLESS MILL

Outside the narrow limits of the municipality itself, mill rates on which municipal taxes are levied are almost meaningless. The Financial Post says editorially. Two identical properties on opposite sides of the same street, but in different municipalities, may have a mill rate which varies as much as 50 per cent.

Under such circumstances any plan of unification, such as is being considered in Toronto and other metropolitan areas, becomes seriously tangled. Much needed progress in this and other directions is needlessly delayed.

This varying mill rate, or basis for agreement, is also a serious handicap in the administering of municipal grants by provincial and other authorities, says The Post.

CANADA'S POPULATION

Canada's population was only 79,000 short of the 14,000,000 mark on September 1st last, according to estimates of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. Of this figure, Ontario's population was about one-third, or approximately 4,500,000.

The September estimate for the 10 provinces was 13,921,000, a gain of 76,000 over the June 1st figure, and a rise of 285,000 in the last 12 months.

On the basis of average rate of increase in the Bureau's estimates since September a year ago, Canada's population should approximate 14,000,000 by the end of this year.

"Buy by Grade" Is Advice of Experts

Government grading has taken much of the guesswork out of buying and today the Canadian housewife, buying by grade, can buy with confidence, according to home economists in Consumer Section, Marketing Service, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

Many Canadian foods now available on the market are graded according to quality and carry a distinct grade marking either on the container or on the product itself. The grading system is not only of great value to the Canadian consumer, but the producer and the manufacturer also benefit. In many cases the industry concerned has seen the need for standardization and has sought government aid in establishing grade standards. The regulations covering these standards are enforced by government inspection and violations are punishable by law.

Beef is the only meat which as yet may be purchased by grade, but all eggs sold in Canada must comply with Government regulations. Butter is sold according to grade in some provinces only, but 98 per cent. of all fruits and vegetables processed in Canada are in plants licensed and inspected by the Department of Agriculture. Samples of the processed food are checked by Government inspectors before the label with the grade mark is put on the package or can. Size of cans are also standardized by law. Frozen fruits and vegetables and dehydrated fruits also must be graded, which all help the Canadian housewife in preparing tasty and nutritious meals. Buying by grade has real meaning for Canadian consumers and deserves their support.

Your Future Hangs On Dairy Products

The Department of Agriculture, in its desire to promote a better use of food as well as a better use of land, is resuming through its Consumers' Section and other departmental agencies, former peacetime activities in getting Canadian people better acquainted with home produced foods.

Here are a few facts which any producer or consumer should keep in mind:

(1) Dairy products are basic products in any health program, in any health program, in any daily diet, they command priority, whether it be for children or adults.

(2) Dairy industry in Canada is perhaps the best guarantee of stability for the large majority of our farming population—the cow is the home market for grasses and grasses are a "must" in soil conservation.

(3) Canadians are inclined to take for granted the abundance of our dairy products and use them loosely whereas we should take advantage of those abundant supplies to bring our diet into a better balance and improve our standard of living.

(4) For the same amount of money, the consumer cannot get the same essentials from other foods as those supplied by dairy products—calories in butter and protein in milk are cheaper than in most other farm products.

(5) Butter itself takes almost half of our milk production and constitutes one of the best channels—in some cases the only channel—through which milk produced from small farms located far from consuming centres can be marketed.

(6) Cheese is a high protein food the consumption of which could be increased if our population had a better knowledge of this product—our average consumption is 4 or 5 pounds a year whereas it is between 15 and 20 pounds in such countries as Denmark and Switzerland.

These are only a few among many reasons which justify the Department fostering a movement for a more thorough knowledge of dairy products on the part of the consumers as well as of the producers themselves.

Boys usually outnumber girls in Swedish birth statistics.
