CHRYSANTHEMUMS, FERN PROVIDE CHURCH SETTING AT CORMAN-JARVIS NUPTIALS

Omaha Presbyterian Church near Milton, decorated with white mixed chrysanthemums and fern, was the setting for the wedding of Miss Edythe Jarvis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Jarvis, of Milton, and Mr. Stanley Corman, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Corman of Burlington, on October 6, 1951 at 3 o'clock. Rev. J. N. McFaul conducted the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white satin gown with fitted bodice and collar of lace and very full skirt trimmed with lace and ending in a short train. She wore a finger tip tulle veil with cap style headress and carried a bouquet of sweetheart roses and chrysanthemums.

Her only attendant, Miss Charlene Jarvis, sister of the bride, wore a gown of turquoise net over taffeta of the same color, with headress of turquoise and carried a bouquet of yellow tea roses and chrysanthemums.

The groomsmen was Mr. Gordon Corman, brother of the bride. The ushers were Mr. Archie Jarvis and Mr. Harold Jarvis, brothers of the bride, and Mr. Robert Brownridge, all of Milton.

Mrs. Robert Brownridge played the wedding music and Miss Christena Marshall sang "I Love You Truly" before the ceremony and "O Perfect Love" during the signing of the register.

The reception was held at Hawthorne Lodge for 55 guests. The bride's mother received in a dress of royal blue silk crepe with black accessories and a corsage of pink roses. Mrs. Corman, the groom's mother, wore a dress of wine velvet with matching hat, black accessories and a corsage of Talisman roses.

Guests attended from Detroit, Oakville, Strathroy, Paris, Hamilton, Toronto, Burlington, Milton and other nearby points.

The happy couple left on a wedding trip to the United States by motor the bride wearing a Kelly green wool dress, grey coat and grey accessories. On their return, they will reside on the Guelph Road near Burlington.

IN A COUNTRY LANE

By Lillian Collier Gray

Another big Agricultural event is over — the International Plowing Match, which this year was held on the farm of John Hargreave in Oxford County. That is, the Tenth City shot up there, while the plowing took place on several of the sixteen farms which had been made available for the competitions.

It is some years since I've been at the big match, and during that length of time it has grown unbelievably in size and interest. It is something to just see the thousands of people that throng the area—35,000 on Wednesday when I was there. But as a good many of my readers will probably have visited the event and seen it all for themselves, I think I shall just devote this space to incidents and impressions that appealed to me.

Aside from the vastness of the whole thing, I think the first thing that impressed me was the efficiency with which the church group, whose tent we sought out for dinner was able to serve up a good hot dinner with apparent ease. It must take a great deal of careful organization and team work to accomplish that feat. And did the food taste good after a long drive and considerable walking!

Early in the afternoon we were on hand for the Official Opening by Agricultural Minister, the Hon. T. L. Kennedy. Mr. Kennedy always gives his listeners a bit of humour, some practical advice and just enough food for the spirit to make a good mixture. In this case, he reminded his farm audience that at this particular Thanksgiving season we have every reason to give thanks unto God for the greatest harvest on record. I am sure all who heard would be in agreement, but I wondered how many would be thinking they would like to reply, as I would have liked to, "Yes, Mr. Kennedy, but gratitude is not enough. Could the Ontario Government help us a little more to get these awful, embarrassing surpluses somewhere where they will not go to waste?"

We are grateful indeed for good crops, but what of the tons of grapes in Niagara that stay on the vines for lack of a market, what of the other fruits and vegetables that are never picked or disposed of? And that in turn reminded me of the lady who was bemoaning about all the peaches going to waste on the ground under trees in Niagara. "But," she said crossly, "if you were to go there they wouldn't give them to you. They'd let them waste first!"

Well, I'm not sure of that. But I am sure this lady could afford to pay for them. And why the peach farmer should give away his peaches, I couldn't figure out. What I think we should do, as a nation, is find some way of "honouring our harvests", of seeing they stretch as far as possible. I don't think God sends bountiful harvests without expecting that provincially and nationally we put them to the best possible use. All this was going through my mind while Mr. Kennedy was talking.

The most romantic thing I saw at the match was a team of oxen. Great, thick, lumbering beasts that weigh 3,600 pounds each. I learned they have plowed at matches for eleven consecutive years, but am not certain of the name of the owner nor of where he comes from. While I was following along behind this team of oxen trying to catch up and speak to the owner, I ran into a friend from another county, armed with his kodachrome camera and also bent on finding out where the oxen would plow, as he wanted to get a picture.

The most incongruous thing I saw at the match was a portly, fiftyish lady in silver fox furs, high heels, and with thickly curled blue hair. I don't mean white hair to which a slight tint of bluing had been added in the rinse water—I mean blue-blue—just as blue as blue can be.

The most pathetic thing I saw at the plowing match was a lady who wanted one of those big, chewy drumstick ice cream cones, which I was munching on at the time. She looked at mine hungrily and said to the man who accompanied her (her husband, undoubtedly), "Let's get one of these cones." "No," he declined, "They've got nuts. I don't want no nuts." "But they look good," she coaxed. "They are," I encouraged. "They're swell." "No," he said, "Get one yourself. I don't want none." "But I don't want to eat it all alone!" she demurred.

Dear me, I thought, as I moved on, "Is it any wonder this is a man's world—when a woman can't even eat a drumstick alone!"

"Beats the old team any day, Dad"

AWHILE back, he figured out just what a new tractor would do for his farm. He didn't have enough cash in the bank to handle the deal. So he talked things over with his bank manager, fair and square.

He got his bank loan — and the tractor. From now on, he expects to work more acreage, increase his farm income. Soon the bank will be repaid.

He looks to his chartered bank for market information, too, and any other banking service he may need.

That's what he wants. That's what he gets. Sound business all round!
