The Week at Ottawa

By ALAN DONNELLY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Ottawa (CP)—The thoughts of many government officials turned last week to the Prairies where farmers are struggling to harvest their crops in the face of bad weather and one of the heaviest infestations of rust in many years.

Pending a new estimate of the size of the various crops, there were predictions that the mid-summer estimate of a 513,000,000-bushel wheat crop would have to be revised drastically, cut by possibly 100,000,000 bushels or more.

A telegraphic report of crop conditions said prospects have deteriorated from heavy rains, rust, hail and sawfly damage.

Some fields were so wet that harvesting machinery could not be used. Many crops still were immature and vulnerable to frost damage.

Major Rust Damage
Rust, however, is the chief menace to the main crop, wheat. Authorities said the wheat rust loss may amount to 85,000,000 bushels.

One expert, Dr. C. H. Goulden, termed the rust epidemic the worst since 1916.

The infestation meant that scientists had lost out by a year in their race to produce a wheat strain resistant to rust.

Dr. Goulden helped create the new Selkirk wheat, which is resistant to the current strain of rust. Some of the Selkirk wheat by seed farms working at top speed, was produced for planting this year but apparently there was not enough.

Dr. Goulden said about 3,000,000 bushels will be in the hands of farmers next year, enough to cover the critical wheat areas. By 1956, farmers probably would have all the Selkirk wheat seed needed.

The crop report said "grain yields have been seriously reduced over wide areas of Saskatchewan, Manitoba, and to a lesser extent, eastern Alberta. Harvesting was very late and few of the west's crops had been gathered, with the exception of Manitoba, where 25 per cent of the threshing was completed, and southern areas of Saskatchewan and Alberta which were making fair progress."

Although the maritimes had ideal harvesting weather, other parts shared the Prairies' bad weather. Ontario's spring wheat harvest was slow; Quebec completed haying under poor conditions and harvesting was slowed up in British Columbia.

Wheat Supplies
A small wheat harvest would disappoint farmers, but it would take some of the pressure off the problem of marketing present supplies, which still are formidable.

On Aug. 1, Canada had a carry-over of 587,000,000 bushels of unsold wheat into the new crop year, only 7,000,000 bushels below the wartime record of 1943.

Federal authorities said they believed the anticipated production drop, combined with a strengthening of overseas markets, will help stabilize wheat price.

Britain was already increasing orders for wheat and reports said she had run through her grain reserves and was also experiencing bad harvesting weather.

By-Elections Later
The cabinet met last week but did not fix a date for six federal by-elections. They could have been held Oct. 25 if the decision was made last week. The date may be announced after the next cabinet meeting this Friday, Sept. 17.

Two of the vacancies are in Montreal constituencies of St. Lawrence-St. George and St. Antoine-Westmount, three in Ontario in York West, Toronto Trinity and Stormont, and one in the Manitoba riding of Selkirk.

Prime Minister St. Laurent left reporters wondering whether there will be a fall session of Parliament.

Opposition Leader

Hon. George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, returned from a two-month summer tour of western Europe with his family.

At a press conference here Mr. Drew said he welcomed joint development and operation of the St. Lawrence seaway by Canada and the United States. He did not echo the criticism voiced recently by George Hees, national president of the Progressive Conservative party, that Canada had "missed the boat" in permitting the U.S. to build a four-mile link of the seaway on the American side of the St. Lawrence.

Mr. Drew indicated he does not take too seriously the vote of non-confidence in his leadership passed in July by a party faction in British Columbia headed by the party's B.C. leader Deane Finlayson.

He said it was a local dispute which had resulted from a "misunderstanding" of the duties of the provincial party association.

Commenting on the release of German S.S. Maj.-Gen. Kurt Meyer once sentenced to death for responsibility in the killing of 18 soldiers taken prisoner in Normandy, Mr. Drew said Canadians should have a complete statement on the reasons for his release.

He also indicated he will continue his demands for an investigation of the immigration department at the next session of Parliament. He said many Europeans seeking permission to emigrate to Canada were forced to wait for months at considerable expense, without getting an answer as to whether they would be permitted to move to Canada.

Lively Issue

Post-war immigration policies may be one of the most controversial issues in the next session. Criticism of the government may be based on a charge by a Canadian Bar Association committee of "shocking" procedural practices in departmental offices overseas.

The committee's report to the recent annual convention of the CBA at Winnipeg was particularly critical of the handling by clerks in immigration offices overseas of persons claiming to be Canadians seeking return to this country. It said the committee had evidence of Canadian citizens not being able to get back under present regulations. But the report also had criticism of procedure affecting all types of immigrants.

Issue 34 Permits For Nelson Homes

With 34 permits issued during August for private dwelling units, new home building in Nelson township reached $1,820,750 for the first eight months of the year. Value for August alone amounted to $309,000. There were 192 permits issued since January.

Detached garages and house additions accounted for eight permits valued at $10,600 in August, for a total of 79 for the period with values set at $85,175. These were the only issued during the month, although permits for churches, stores, industry and farm buildings brought the total to 290 for the year to date with values set at $2,113,725.

Fees collected for various types of permits in August amounted to $948 for 11 permits with the eight-month total standing at $6,476. The 42 building permits brought in $660 during the month with $4,732 to date; plumbing permits totalled 16, with fees of $164, and a total of $1,438; basement drainage, 31, fees $93 and $483; septic tanks, 21 fees of $21 and $171; sewer connections, 1 at $10.

"I saved money on my life insurance because I bought a Mutual Life policy..."

"When I took out most of my life insurance, my first thought was 'How big a premium will I have to pay?' Then a representative of The Mutual Life of Canada said: 'The real cost of life insurance is the premiums less the amount you'd receive in dividends.'"

"He showed me the outstanding dividend record of The Mutual Life of Canada. That convinced me."

"Over the years, I'm already several hundred dollars to the good because I took out a Mutual Life policy."
