"W. I. Dick Hi-Lites" Newspaper Staff Proud of Christmas Issue

Students at the W. I. Dick public school have again this year started up a school newspaper, called the "W. I. Dick Hi-Lites". Bruce McDuffe is Editor-in-Chief and the editorial staff of the paper is proud of this year's second issue, a Christmas special.

Besides the principal's message, the issue contains poetry, jokes, for sale advertisements, quizzes and form reports by various students. Contributors include J. Bassett

According to an old legend, animals have the power of speech on Christmas night.

Overheating, Overeating Mar Holiday Pleasure

Overheating is as much a holiday hazard as overeating.

It's the rigorous round of too-crowded parties and the hot, stuffy rooms that cause as many cases of "holiday-itis" as the spicy foods, the rich desserts and the extra "spirits".

To avoid the usual post-holiday letdown, it's wise to protect the comfort and health of your family and guests by keeping your home well ventilated and pleasantly warm—not hot.

If you're expecting a group for a party, turn the thermostat setting down a few degrees as soon as the numbers begin to increase, warn experts. Body heat provided by the guests will contribute plenty of warmth—too much if the room is hot at the start.

By just standing around chatting, experts point out, a person generates almost as much heat as a 200-watt bulb, and in a stuffy room the heat literally has no place to go. The result: a feeling of lethargy and fatigue.

Keep the thermostat setting at 68 degrees while the party is in progress, then as the crowd dwindles and finally departs, reset the dial to the degree you find the most comfortable for relaxing.

Fresh, sufficiently moist air also is a must if you're entertaining a large group, according to the experts. Open the window wide for a moment or two to let the clean air in. To keep it healthfully moist, placing pans of water on a radiator top will help, or arrange flowers and green leaves in deep bowls of water.
