We travelled down some roads we'd never been on before and at one point stopped to tramp through the bush. The boys enjoyed this part as they searched for treasures to bring home such as red leaves, small twigs and pieces of birch bark.

Asked the boys that night, "What's the nicest thing you did today?" The reply was the same from both, "Walking in the bush."

With Hallowe'en coming up next week, we thought you might like to try some candy recipes. Whether they're for trick or treat, Hallowe'en party or the family, they're fun to make and something everyone can help do.

When Elizabeth herself was born. it seemed unlikely that she would ever be Queen. At that time, 1926, it was thought likely that the Prince of Wales, her uncle, would marry and have an heir. If this did not happen, there was a possibility that Elizabeth's parents, the Duke and Duchess of York, would have a son who would in time be King, rather than his older sister. Life is a very uncertain business even for royalty, and the second third or fourth in line of succession never know what the future will hold for them.
