Milton picked up three runs in the first inning on one hit and pair of infield errors. They added another in the third on Phillips triple and Rigo's single.

Bronte fought back to tie the score with their three run third inning rally. They got their front run in the second on doubles by Bud McKay and Alcumbrae.

Startles Bronte

The Red Sox pushed the winner across in the bottom of the eighth. Rigo led off with a single and was sacrificed along by Serafini. Primo moved to third on Joyce's infield out. Pinch hitter Art Melanson came up and Bronte elected to pass him intentionally. Bronte pitcher Mac-Aloney got one too near the strike zone and Melanson grounded out to a startled third baseman Gary Hughes. Hughes' hurried throw got away from first baseman Alcumbrae and Rigo scampered home with the winning run.
