Presbyterians Enjoy S. S. Picnic, Minister Rescues Child in Creek

By Mrs. Cecil Patterson
Miss Betty Lawrence enjoyed a week's vacation with her aunt, Miss Lillian Pickard of St. Catharines.

Mr. and Mrs. George Bryant of Laurel were recent Sunday visitors with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Price.

Happy Birthday greetings to Mr. and Mrs. Will McFadden and David Peacock.

Two in Family
We are sorry to report that Mrs. Wilfred Snow of Oakville fell at her home and broke a bone in her arm and her son, James Snow, now of Hornby, fell from a load of baled hay and injured his back. He was a patient in Milton District Hospital but is now convalescing at his home.

Frank Cowan was taken from Milton Hospital to Oakville-Trafalgar Hospital for further tests and treatment.

Gifts for Couple
An enjoyable evening was spent in North Trafalgar Community Centre (McCurdy's School) on Friday when friends and neighbors of the S.S. No. 7 gathered for a presentation party for Arnold Howden and his bride-to-be, Miss Marie Marshall. Eucher was enjoyed with high scores held by Mrs. Tom Bousfield, Mrs. Craig Royce and Art Peacock.

Mr. Peacock was m.c. for the evening and read an address to the young couple. This wishing them all joy and happiness in the years ahead. The gifts were a handsome desk with lamp and a matching combined telephone table and chair.

Arnold and Marie expressed their sincere appreciation for the gifts and good wishes. A delicious lunch brought the evening to a close.

Misses Ann and Isabel Stout of Guelph were recent visitors with friends in the district.

Tragedy
The annual Sunday school picnic for Omagh Presbyterian church was held on Saturday at Lowville Park with a large attendance. Following the dinner meal a good program of races for old and young was held. J. C. Marshall, superintendent and other officers worked hard to make the day a really enjoyable one. Norman Clark guessed the nearest correct number of buttons in a jar. Mrs. Fred Wright was winner of the ladies' spot race.

While watching children swimming, Rev. B. A. Nevin noticed a small youngster from another picnic party in trouble. The child had apparently slipped in the water and was being carried by the current into very deep water. Mr. Nevin, fully clothed, ran into the stream and brought the child to safety. Fortunately the little one showed no ill effects, thanks to Mr. Nevin for his presence of mind in averting what would likely have been a tragedy.

Sympathy is extended to Mrs. Kenneth Kieran on the recent passing of her step father, Clarence Gillop of Georgetown and also to his widow, the former May Brown Patterson.

In Hospital
Emmerson Ford is still a patient in Milton District Hospital for further treatment. His many friends join in wishing him a speedy recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. William Booth entertained at their home the Guernsey Breeders and their families of Halton and Peel Counties at their annual strawberry social on Saturday. A large number attended this event. Other attractions were bingo, barbecue, garden croquet and the younger crowd enjoyed a ball game.

A number from this district attended the Orange Parade, held in Georgetown on Saturday, and the Horticultural Society picnic at Lowville on Sunday.

Miss Ann Peacock and a party of friends returned home from a week's vacation at Port Elgin.

Farm is Sold
The one hundred acre farm on the Fourth Line near Omagh owned by Miss M. McCartney has a "sold" sign on the gate. This property has been in the McCartney name for a long time.

Mr. and Mrs. Mark Mervin of Elmwood were Sunday visitors with their daughter, Mrs. Lillie Campbell.

Marlene Eccles of Georgetown is holidaying with her cousins, Patsy and Eddie Ford.

TREES AND SQUIRRELS is the name of the game, and it is thoroughly enjoyed by the little folk. Doing temporary supervisory work at the Rotary Park is Gloria McKellar of Kingsley Court. Beside her being trees are Kathleen Bodler and Sheryl Patterson. In the centre as a squirrel is Regina Renke.

Reserves Decision . . .

20 feet; the church wanted a 14 foot rear yard while the Committee of Adjustment had allowed 20 feet and the by-law asked 35 feet; the church asked permission for a 40 per cent lot coverage while the by-law specified a maximum of 35 per cent; and the church planned to provide 30 parking spaces where 60 were required.

Opposition to the application was launched by the town of Milton, represented by solicitor K. V. Dick, and by church neighbors Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Houston, Jim and Alf Waldie, represented by solicitor George E. Elliott, P. K. McWilliams, chairman of the St. Paul's building committee, represented the church.

Mr. McWilliams based his case for variations to the by-law on the fact there were several other non-conforming uses in the immediate neighborhood, on the fact that "several flagrant violations" of the town's zoning by-law had been allowed by the town, and on the church's need for expanded facilities.

Not For Trustees
In argument, Mr. Elliott tried to show that Mr. McWilliams was not acting at the hearing for the church board of trustees, who he claimed owned the church property and should have approved the action of this hearing.

Mr. Dick claimed there was a question of jurisdiction of the law, stating the O.M.B. had no right to rule on the hearing. He said according to the section of the municipal act under which the appeal was filed, the church would be asking for an amendment to allow a church — which is not prohibited by the town's by-law. He warned if the Municipal Board allowed the appeal under this section, then "every Tom, Dick and Harry wanting to build a garage two feet from the lot line" would be running to the O.M.B. with an appeal.

Architect Robert Hanks, whose firm had drawn the plans for the proposed $150,000 building that is to be erected of the present church, said they would lose 420 square feet of space on each floor if the committee was held to the by-law. Mr. Elliott suggested the architect had been told to ignore the town's by-law when requested to draw the plans.

Pressing Need
Rev. J. L. Graham, minister of St. Paul's pointed to the pressing need of better Sunday school facilities at the church. He declared the fire hazard in the present Sunday school was imminent.

Sunday school superintendent Larry Arbie told how some classes were meeting in a cold, unheated portion of the cellar and in the church sanctuary because sufficient classroom space wasn't available. He also pointed to the need for better recreational facilities in the town and suggested the auditorium facilities would be beneficial to the teen-aged children of the town. There are presently 38 classes of Sunday school students in the junior and senior divisions, he added.

Cliff Houston, whose home will be next door to the addition on Main St., claimed the building would stand close to his home the whole depth of his lot. He said, he had been church caretaker for 11 years and had earlier agreed to allow the building 15 feet from the lot line because he wasn't anxious to cause any long, drawn-out proceedings. However, when the building committee earlier asked for a 10 foot side lot, he had strenuously objected because the building would cut out his sunlight and circulation of air.

Can't Blame Town
In summing up his case, solicitor Dick said the town welcomed the addition, "but the Committee of Adjustment permitted variations that are far from minor, and it should end there." The Committee of Adjustment went a long way to meet the church officials' half way, he said, and you couldn't blame the town for not wanting any further violations of the by-law.

Board members A. H. Arrell and R. L. Kennedy announced they would reserve their decision until later so they could give the arguments full consideration.

Waldie said his blacksmith shop on James St. was erected in 1867 — before the church — and claimed the church had no more right to have the by-law changed than anyone else. He said he wasn't happy about having a 30 foot high building bordering a lot he owns at the rear of his shop.

Mill St. home owner H. Cavell protested the building, claiming it would shut him off from sunlight.

Taking the witness stand himself, Mr. McWilliams claimed that since the town zoning by-law was passed in 1957 it had not been enforced to any degree. He said there were numerous breaches of the by-law, some too flagrant to overlook.

"The church is being held to the letter of the by-law, yet everyone else gets away with it," he claimed the building committee chairman. He cited the case of the Liquor Control Board store further up the street, where the Committee of Adjustment allowed the building less than five feet from the rear lot line, while the by-law calls for a 45 foot rear yard. "Surely if that can be done for the sale of liquor it could be done for a church educational centre," he said in closing.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Templin and Shirley of Falconbridge, and Mrs. Vina Miller and Doug of Toronto visited last week with Mr. and Mrs. Harold Gowland.

Mrs. Harold Gowland, Danny and David are spending this week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. Templin of Falconbridge.

Mr. and Mrs. James Vansickle and Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Fretz of Kitchener are holidaying up north this week.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Bob Shillum Jr. on the arrival of their son on Wednesday of last week.

Carole Bogosloski of Cedar Springs Road, spent a few days last week with Margie Pelletterio.

MISS MARION JOHNSON

OBITUARY
1924 Halton Warden William Irving Dies
William Anderson Irving of 4283 Dundas Street Burlington died at his home on June 25 at the age of 92 after an illness of two months.

He is survived by his wife, the former Ethel J. Sinclair; a son, John; two daughters, Mrs. Ervin Gunby (Marjory) and Mrs. James Lees (Jean) of Oakville; a stepson, Ken Gunby of Orillia; and two sisters, Mrs. R. E. Gollins and Miss H. Irving, both of Milton.

Also surviving are seven grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren.

Born in Nassagaweya Mr. Irving came to the district in 1896. He was a farmer and retired in 1945.

Nelson Elder
He was active in several local organizations including the Burlington Masonic Lodge and the Nelson Presbyterian Church for which he was an elder for 47 years.

Mr. Irving was elected to Nelson Township Council around 1913, for which he served as deputy-reeve and reeve. He became Halton County warden in 1924.

The funeral service was held on June 27 with Rev. W. Jackson officiating. He was buried at St. Paul's Presbyterian Church. Pallbearers were Orville Watson, Morley Watson, Albert Hunter, Delbert Nixon and Erwin Gunby of Burlington and James Lees of Oakville.

385 Crowd
A crowd of 385 attended the Kinsmen-Legion weekly bingo at the arena Monday. Service club sponsors report the crowd is increasing steadily each week, and after a couple of weeks of losing money, they are now beginning to clear a profit from each night's operation.

No jackpots were won this week so next week the chances of winning are made easier. A Brampton lady won the Kinetite club's door prize, an outdoor hammock.

Car Leaves Scene Driver Apprehended
The Milton OPP detachment and the Milton police combined to set up roadblocks and begin a search for a hit and run driver who collided with a car driven by Mrs. Isabel Sinnett at 5 p.m. on Thursday of last week at the Main and Bronte St. intersection.

Mrs. Sinnett of R.R. 3, Esquesing Township was proceeding north on Bronte when she collided with a car which was moving west on Main. The other driver failed to remain at the scene and the two police departments immediately went into action.

Police Called
Pete Blinco of 151 Court St., Milton, was apprehended by police about 20 minutes after the accident. He told police that he had momentarily panicked and drove to the farm of a friend. The friend told him to give himself up and the police were called.

Damage to the Blinco car amounted to $250 while damage to the Sinnett car was estimated at $300. Constable Len Pickett and Sergeant Bob Moreau of the Milton detachment and Corporal Charles Wilkinson of the OPP investigated.

Choir Presents Colorful Musicales Members Garbed in Native Costume

By Mrs. C. E. Davenport
Boston Church choir gave a delightful and colorful musicale on Wednesday night of last week in Boston church. This concert was given in three parts. The first group was sacred songs given as solos, quartets and by the choir.

The second group was songs from many lands and those taking part were dressed in native costumes or formal dress which made a colorful picture. The third part was songs depicting the twelve months of the year.

The organist and choir leader Mrs. Sloski and the choir deserve a lot of credit for making possible a pleasant evening for music lovers. At the conclusion of the concert strawberries, cake, ice cream and coffee were served.

At Wedding

Mrs. J. Gorman and David Gorman, Hamilton, spent Saturday afternoon with their cousins, Mrs. A. McKenzie and Nancy.

Area Men Win Parade Prizes

More than 2,500 men, women and children including over 70 lodges paraded in the Orange-Mens parade in Georgetown Saturday. Out of all these people, Charles Brooks of the Hornby Lodge won the prize for being the oldest man in the parade.

Mr. Brooks was 86 years old.

Another man from this area, Willis Hamilton of Milton got a $50 bond prize when his name was pulled out in the first lucky draw.

See Colored Slides On "God's Garden"

The colored slides coming once a month to Dad's Restaurant, Campbellville, are being enjoyed by many from near and far. Mrs. Laure Davis of Toronto brought the July group of pictures, under the name of "God's flower gardens of the World."

Some of these studies had never been on film before. Each month's display is different and educational for the whole family. The local group of the Bahai World Faith sponsors the free picture showings.

Tape Recorded Rotary Speech

A tape recording message to Milton Rotarians from president Joseph A. Abbey of Rotary International urged members to aim for action, Communicate for understanding and Test for leadership at the weekly meeting Tuesday.

The R.I. president urged clubs to aim for action in each of the four avenues of Rotary service; he asked members to communicate with sincerity making service the most important objective; he asked members to provide leadership by example and to accomplish a year of Action.

Need for Men
Guest speaker at the meeting was D. Craighead, principal of the Hamilton Institute of Technology who outlined the desperate need for well trained technologists. Mr. Craighead outlined the courses available in Hamilton as well as the Ryerson Institute of Technology in Toronto. Graduates are technologists bridging the gap between skilled technicians and professional engineers he noted.

The speaker noted the need of three to four technologists for every professional engineer if Canada's growth need. The difference is indicated by the fact that last year 2,100 engineers were graduated while only 500 technologists were graduated.

The speaker concluded with a film on the institute and was thanked by Bob Reed. Chuck Copeland had introduced him.

—Summer haying continues in the farm land surrounding town.

and it should end there." The Committee of Adjustment went a long way to meet the church officials' half way, he said, and you couldn't blame the town for not wanting any further violations of the by-law.
