Omagh, Boston W.A. Ladies Meet Mrs. J. C. Marshall is Hostess

By Mrs. Cecil Patterson
Mrs. J. C. Marshall was hostess on Tuesday afternoon, August eighth to the ladies of Omagh Presbyterian W.A. and their guests, the members of the sister church, Boston W.A.

Mrs. T. Snow presided and welcomed the ladies. After the opening hymn and prayer, the meeting was turned over to Mrs. Clifford Brown, who was chairlady and the visitors gave a most interesting programme.

Talk on Lesson
Mrs. Stark read the scripture lesson and gave a short talk on the lesson. Mrs. Robt. Irving gave the prayer. Mrs. G. Jefferson gave a reading of interest and left one with much food for thought. Mrs. M. Michie and Mrs. G. McGibbon rendered a delightful duet in their usual pleasing manner. Little Miss Susan Currie in her Scottish costume delighted all with her sword dance and highland fling. Mrs. D. Irving read a very humorous monologue. Miss Mary Anderson rendered a pleasing piano selection. Mrs. H. Michie sang a solo and also led in a sing song of popular songs of yester years.

Serve Lunch
A hymn and prayer brought a very pleasant afternoon to a close. Mrs. C. Patterson expressed appreciation to the Boston ladies for the fine programme. A lunch was served and all enjoyed a social half hour over the tea cups. Forty-two attended this event.

Miss Janice Doane of Norval is visiting with her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Colin Marshall.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Ellsmere and children of Barrie were Sunday visitors with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Marshall.

Use Illustrations
The third meeting of the Sunshine Mission Band was held in the Sunday School rooms on Wednesday afternoon with 18 children and three leaders attending.

Patsy Ford read the scripture lesson and Cynthia Clark gave the prayer. Miss Marion Marshall told the story of "David and Goliath" using flannelgraph illustrations. Marion also was in charge of the story hour and showed umbrellas, dolls and Japanese lanterns that children in Japan use.

Lunch was served by Karen Marshall after which the children made cat dolls and scrap books.

Parade in Lindsay
Many from this district will be attending the Black Knights' parade on Saturday to be held in Lindsay, a bus is scheduled to leave Hornby about 9 a.m.

Sincere sympathy is extended to Mrs. Peter McGibbon of Burlington in her sad bereavement in the passing of her husband very suddenly on Sunday last. Mrs. McGibbon was the former Hilda King and the couple had only been married three months.

On Bus Tour
Miss Joanne Patterson holidayed last week with Miss Mildred Edmonson at Arthur, Ont. On Monday Joanne with her friend was a guest on the North Wellington 4-H bus trip. About 200 young people motored to Stratford and visited the White Meat Packing Co., also the Stratford Festival grounds. At Goderich they were shown through the Sifto Salt Co., the W. Schaeffer Pen factory and toured the Pioneer Museum. This was a very interesting place to visit, as they have on display farm implements from early times to the modern day. They were shown 18 different methods used years ago to make flour, old fashioned ladies' clothing, bicycles, typewriters, furniture. At Goderich, the group toured the harbour. After the supper meal at Seaforth, the group returned home having had a very enjoyable trip.

Attend Wedding
Mr. and Mrs. Jack Trisler and Miss Hertha Brucker motored to Detroit last weekend and attended the wedding of a friend on Saturday.

Miss Sharon Donaghey of Scarborough is visiting with her cousin, Beverley Brandenburg.

Miss Aileen Fullerton of Burlington is holidaying with her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Campbell.

Gideons Speak
Last Sabbath, Wm. Milligan of the Gideons of Bronte and Mr. Reimer of Lakeshore Road, were in the pulpit at Omagh Presbyterian church. The address on "Christians" had a fine message, stressing that Christians have more temptations than anyone else. Giving a brief outline of the history of the Gideons, the speaker noted it was started 50 years ago in the U.S.A. by three lonely men who were staying in a hotel. They realized how much comfort the Bible could be to those away from home and they started an organization to donate Bibles to motels, hotels, hospitals and schools.

In the last week of July, 1961, the three millionth copy had been given. The speakers also explained how a bible could be given to a church or hospital in remembrance of a friend or loved one instead of a floral tribute.

Next Sunday a representative from the Bible Society will speak at the regular church worship in Omagh church.

PROJECT MANAGER S. B. (Sy) Moro, appointed by Shell Oil to head up engineering and construction of the company's recently-announced refinery in Trafalgar Township (Ontario), points to location of refinery process units on aerial map of the site. Process area (white patch) is at extreme north end of Shell's 750-acre site and will be bordered at many points by wide, landscaped buffer strips to provide a pleasing view to the general public. The refinery will produce a wide range of products including gasolines, jet fuels, heating oils and diesel fuels to supply Shell's Ontario markets west of the Ottawa Valley.

Announce Provincial Grant $143,500 to Finish Kelso

A $143,500 provincial government grant toward completion of Kelso Dam and reservoir three miles northwest of Milton was announced today by Stanley L. Hall, M.P.P. (Halton). Mr. Hall was informed of the grant by Hon. W.M. Nickle, Minister of Commerce and Development.

Begin In 1960

A project of Sixteen-Mile Creek Conservation Authority, construction of the dam, in Kelso Conservation Area in the Township of Nassagaweya, was begun in the fall of 1960. The government has paid $22,500, or half the cost of work done in 1960.

Over-all cost of the dam and reservoir, which will be completed this year, will be $332,000 and the province will have paid 50% with the additional grant announced today.

Trafalgar Township will pay just over half of the Authority's costs and Oakville 25.8%, the balance to be shared by Esquing and Nassagaweya Townships and Milton.

Legion Assists Students With $75,000 Scholarships, Bursaries Part of Program

Next month over 500 students go back to school with assistance valued at over $75,000 from the Royal Canadian Legion. This is the total amount of Legion scholarships and bursaries given each year at branches, provincial commands and Dominion Command.

Legion officials admit that the amount may be higher, because interest is growing and some of the 2,000 branches may have established scholarships or bursaries without reporting them.

Based On Need
Most of the awards are bursaries, based primarily on need. They are available to children of ex-servicemen and in some cases to ex-servicemen themselves. However, relatively few awards now fall into the latter category.

The Legion's continuing interest in education is an outgrowth of a situation which developed in 1938. When Britain's Neville Chamberlain returned from Munich and announced that we were to have "peace in our time", the Canadian Legion was not convinced. It hoped for peace but prepared for war in a rather unusual fashion.

More Training
The veterans of W.W. I saw that a second world war would call for higher education, more training. Weapons and tactics were far more complex than they had been in 1918. So the Legion's first consideration was to provide personnel with an opportunity for improving their education.

Looking beyond the hostilities, the Legion also saw a need to assist individuals with post-war rehabilitation. This was in 1938, a year before a shot was fired. The Legion then set up a committee under the late Dr. Sydney Smith and went to work.

Legion Ready
When war did come, the Legion was ready. At the government's request, it presented a bold, vigorous educational program for the troops. At the outbreak of war, Lt. Col. Wilfrid Bovey, another noted Canadian educator, was chairman of the Legion's committee. He was also president of the Canadian Education society. This happy coincidence engendered a co-operation between the two groups which assured the success of the venture.

The federal government agreed to finance the educational program, based largely on correspondence courses, which eventually cost about $6 1/4 million.

Devised Textbooks
Dr. J. W. Gibson devised textbooks and correspondence courses which covered work ranging from elementary school to senior matriculation. Dr. A. E. Chatwin organized university leave courses. These were held in every university in England as well as in centres in Scotland, Northern Ireland, Rome, Florence, Paris, Brussels, Ghent and Copenhagen.

The Canadian Legion Educational Services followed the action. Wherever Canadians served, correspondence textbooks were a familiar sight. Some 200,000 servicemen and women enrolled in over 11,000 classes of all grades. Over 8,000 took advantage of the university courses. The C.L.E.S. textbooks were the only ones to reach Canadians in prisoner-of-war camps. Through an arrangement with the International Red Cross, the Legion sent 60,000 textbooks and 34,000 other books to these camps. In addition, 1,900 university courses were sent to the prisoners of war.

Program A Success

The program was an unqualified success. It achieved its two objectives. Thousands of rehabilitated veterans took the first step into a successful future when they first opened a Legion textbook.

From the point of view of educators, one of the most striking features of the program was that the uniform textbooks had the approval of every province. The courses met the entrance qualifications of all universities.

Ironically, today — almost a quarter of a century later — there is still no uniformity of university entrance qualifications.
