

Deaf School Carpenters Still Seeking Contract

Striking carpenters picketed the Frid Construction firm at the new Ontario School for the Deaf on Ontario St. again this week, as the company-union disagreement stretched into its second month.

The Toronto Carpenters' local and the Hamilton-based construction firm are deadlocked in the jurisdictional dispute, and a conciliation board in June failed to make recommendations for a contract settlement. Instead, the board asked both company and union to revise their rigid stands in the interest of the project.

The carpenters seek to have Frid recognize the Toronto district rates and agreement, but the company refuses. Frid earlier held negotiations with the Guelph local of the carpenters, believing the Milton job lay within the Guelph district.

Milton construction jobs were apparently outside the Toronto district area, but the Toronto carpenters' local applied for certification for this job before the company completed an agreement with Guelph officials, and the carpenters' union has allowed the Toronto local to have jurisdiction over at least this part of the town of Milton.

The contractor, however, is not prepared to be bound by any Toronto area agreement, although he will negotiate with the Toronto group.

The union's basic demand of $3.15 per hour and the company's offer of $2.51 was the biggest difference found by the conciliation board in the eight issues still yet unsettled. Others are third shift payments, overtime, request for closed shop, compensation for lost tools, travelling time, change in management rights, and shop stewards.

Meanwhile a charge was issued by G. G. Heym, president of the Oakville and District Labor Council, that Frid was using outside carpenters at a lower base rate of pay. H. D. Frid, president of the company, said the facts have been distorted to suit the labor movement. "In cases where 'outside' help is required, it means that local carpenters are not available," he said. "Why should we hire men from outside the county? We understood the project was designed for the employment of local people."

MILTON COUNCIL BRIEFS

Milton Council Monday:

- Approved construction of a counter with glass separation for the clerk's office at a cost not to exceed $125. Fred J. Bennett was to carry out the work.
- Petitioned the Department of Highways for an interim payment of grants on road expenditures between January and August of this year.
- Issued a cheque to the Milton Recreation Committee for $1,639.50 as the balance of their grant for 1962.
- Heard a complaint from Councillor J. Bell that the contractors at the new county building were watering the new lawn there all day while residents in town were prohibited. Councillor C. Johnson reported it had been shut off there once for that reason. Reeve Martin promised the water committee would be reviewing the bylaw to make it applicable to those outside the town using town water.
- Received a letter from the local branch of the Legion inviting members of council to participate in the annual Decoration Day service September 23.
- Filed a letter from Robin Hood Flour Mills noting they had adopted certain changes in their system following complaints of air pollution. The letter suggested the firm felt improvements had resulted and they were willing to co-operate in every way possible.
- Referred to next week an invitation from United Gas Limited to visit the Gas Genie Gift Home in Hamilton on September 20.
- Agreed to consider next week the request to Alex. Pennick for water to his Given Road lot outside the town limits. Mr. Pennick pointed out the area would probably be in Milton in a few months and the water main already passes the property. The water committee agreed to bring in a recommendation.
