OWRC Report

Oakville Fighting Pollution, Algae

A water pollution survey in the Town of Oakville revealed that while sources of pollution were found to exist, the municipality in practically every instance had plans prepared to eliminate these sources, it is stated in a survey report prepared by the Ontario Water Resources Commission. The report has just been released publicly.

The report added that the OWRC had received full co-operation from the municipal officials in its pollution abatement program. It noted that the municipality had been and was actively engaged in a program of sewer construction and in improving its water pollution control plant facilities.

Watch Quality

Report recommendations included:

(1) That certain water quality and effluent objectives be observed in the development of remedial and pollution preventive measures now underway in Oakville. These objectives should apply to both existing and new sources of wastes.

(2) That all sewer outfalls within Oakville be recorded by the municipality and sampled where a polluting discharge has been indicated or is suspected of discharging to the lake proper or contributing watercourses.

(3) That the selection, construction and operation of sanitary landfill sites with possible drainage to local waters be performed in a manner to prevent these from discharging polluting material to the adjacent watercourses.

(4) That the Town of Oakville advise the Ontario Water Resources Commission of any changes that are made affecting the sewer outlets, discharges and conditions referred to in the report.

The report mentioned the problem caused by algae in Lakes Ontario and Erie and said it is important in a pollution control program that the control of algae also be included, particularly if the waters are to be used for recreational purposes. However, the report added, such control will not necessarily completely result from the remedial measures taken in controlling sewage discharge and storm overflows.

Seek Algae Solution

The fact that the Ontario Water Resources Commission was actively engaged in an algae control research program was pointed out. Algae problems in both lakes were being assessed in an endeavor to determine a practical solution for control of algae blooms.

"When a practical solution through chemical treatment or mechanical means is ascertained, it will then be the responsibility of the municipalities to effect these control measures," the report said.

It also noted that one of the locations for Commission research studies was in Lake Ontario, offshore from Oakville.

C.V.C.A. - Esqueing May Split Bill for Glen Cemetery Erosion

The Credit Valley Conservation Authority will offer to pay half an estimated $2,000 to repair river erosion undercutting the hillside below the Glen Williams Cemetery.

Robert R. Parker, Acton representative, will present the plan to Esqueing Township Council.

The total cost has been "brought down from $8,000 to $4,000 or possibly to $2,000 or $3,000," Mr. Parker told a CVCA meeting at Terra Cotta, Thursday.

"It would not do any fancy job but it would protect the cemetery for a considerable number of years," Mr. Parker said. "Caledon and Chinguacousy all send water in there," CVCA Chairman R. K. McMillan pointed out. "Esqueing should get some help from somewhere."

LIBERAL DANCE

A crowd of about 300 filled the Agricultural Hall at Milton Fair Grounds on Friday evening, for a dance sponsored by Milton Liberal Association. Owen Mullin, candidate, attended and met the crowd.

—Linda Coulson and Paul Foster gave the Scripture readings Sunday morning during a rally day service at St. Paul's United Church.

Murray Wells' Homer Gives Lowville Win

Murray Wells' three run homer gave the Lowville Bantams the margin of victory as they defeated Queensway 5-4 Tuesday night and won the best of three Burlington Bantam playoff series.

With Queensway leading 4-0 in the bottom of the fifth, Lowville managed two runs as Wayne Watson scored on a triple by Doug Risk and then Risk stole home.

Wells' three run homer came with Brian McMillan and Stu Hepburn on base following singles.

Lowville will now play Central for the Burlington Bantam championship.

Friday night the Bantams lost the first game of the O.R.S.A. final series against Gore 6-1. Murray Harris was the only Lowville batter to get a hit off the offerings of the Gore hurler.

The second game of that series will be played Friday night in Lowville, starting at 8 p.m.

Our Readers Write

COMMENDABLE PROGRAM

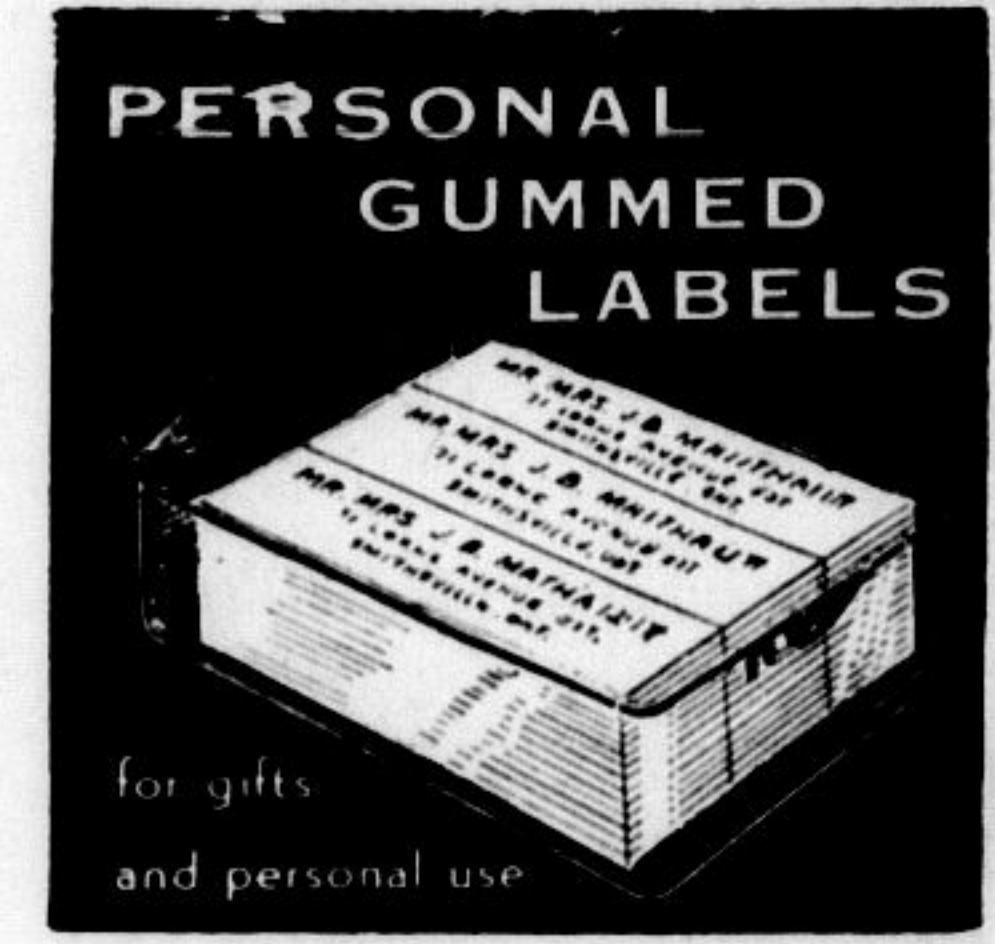

Dear Editor,
On behalf of the many Milton and district mothers I would like to commend the Recreation Committee and especially Ted Jennings for their excellent summer activities program held at the Rotary Park and the J. M. Denyes playgrounds.

Our thanks go to Miss Jill Cannon, Terry Deslauriers and their helpers for keeping the children interested for the entire summer vacation.

All the children enjoyed a varied, well organized and conducted series of hikes, games and visits to Kelso swimming pool and High Park zoo. The sleep-outs and costume parades were also a big success.

We do hope this past summer's activities can be repeated and expanded in 1964.

Yours truly,
Theresa (Mrs. S. E.) Petersen,
R.R. 1, Milton.
