

Cancer Society Research Continues, But No Cure

The services, educational program, and research carried out by the Cancer Society were outlined to members of the Rotary Club last week by Professor Townsend of the Ontario Agricultural College.

Professor Townsend, active in the educational work of the Wellington County Unit of the Cancer Society, was speaking in Milton on behalf of the Milton Unit of the Society.

He outlined the program carried on in drug assistance for needy patients, transportation, housekeeping services, nursing assistance and the operation of lodges close to large treatment centres.

85% of Funds
In the field of research, Professor Townsend noted 85 per cent of the research into the causes of cancer was carried on from funds raised by the Canadian Cancer Society in their April campaign.

In 1947 there were three full time people working on cancer research. Now there are over 200 in Canada, the Professor told Rotarians. He stressed the need for early diagnosis in cancer, noting various recent developments that aid in treatment.

The Professor also reviewed briefly experimental work he was carrying out to determine if the royal jelly derived from bees would have any effect on certain types of cancer. He noted the research was continuing but certainly had not produced any cure.

Local President

The speaker was introduced by Kenneth Hassard, president of the Milton Unit of the Canadian Cancer Society, and thanked by Ron Mackay.

Earlier in the program it was reported the peanut blitz held some time ago had resulted in a profit of $622.75. Winner of the club's monthly $50 draw was Ed Gawronski.

Ralph Morton was named chairman of a committee to arrange a family Christmas Party for Rotarians and their families at some suitable date.

Rowe to Present Colors to Lornes

His Honor W. Earl Rowe, Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario, will present new Colors to the Lorne Scots Regiment on behalf of Her Majesty the Queen at 2 p.m. on Saturday, October 12, at Caledon Farms, Caledon, the home of the Unit's Honorary Lieutenant-Colonel, Conn Smythe. The colorful ceremony will be a highlight of the closing day of the Ontario, Canadian, and World Plowing Matches.

Honorary Member

The Regiment takes particular pride in having its Colors presented by Hon. Earl Rowe, who for so many years represented Dufferin County in the Legislature and House of Commons, and has long been an honorary member of the Lorne Scots Officers' Mess. His membership, in fact, dates back to the days of the Peel and Dufferin Regiment, one of the Units which in 1936 was amalgamated with the Halton Rifles to form the Lorne Scots. The Lorne Scots is one of the oldest infantry Regiments in Canada, tracing its history back to the 1790's and is drawn from the counties of Peel, Dufferin, and Halton. Regimental Headquarters, Headquarters and Support Companies are located in Brampton. Other companies are located at Lakeview, Oakville, Milton, Georgetown, and Orangeville.

Massed Bands

Easily the largest and one of the most spectacular military parades in Canadian post-war military history, the event will feature in full Scottish dress the march-past of more than 350 "killies." The Caledon Hills will reach to stirring martial music played by the massed pipes and drums and military band.

Colors have been in use for centuries and were the result of two practical requirements: the need of some mark of distinction between families, and a conspicuous rallying point in battle. To the Lornes on October 12, will be presented two Colors, the Queen's Color and the Regimental Color, upon which are emblazoned the names of the battles in which the Unit has distinguished itself. The counties' militiamen have seen active service from the days of Brock at Queenston Heights to the final surrender of the Axis in 1945.

The Inspecting Party will comprise the Lieutenant-Governor; Hon. Col. J. R. Barber, ED, CD, Georgetown; and Hon. Lt. Col. Conn Smythe. For "Mr. Maple Leaf", a distinguished veteran of both world wars, it will be his first appearance with his unit since his recent appointment as Honorary Lieutenant-Colonel.

Lt.-Col. E. F. Conover, CD, Commanding Officer of the Lorne Scots, extends an invitation to the public to witness the colorful proceedings.

The month of July was called Quintilis Julius by the Romans, in memory of Julius Caesar.

Cross Country Race Passes Near Milton

Only three of 15 participants were able to finish a gruelling 67-mile cross-country motorcycle race that the Yellowjackets Motorcycle Club of Georgetown sponsored recently. The winner was Bill Sharpless of Toronto, formerly one of Canada's top racing drivers.

A heavy downpour of rain added to the problems, as 15 drivers from the local club, neighboring clubs and one visitor from near Buffalo headed out for a tough run through fields, bush and creeks. The route left Georgetown, went to Stewarttown, back close to Georgetown again, then on to Milton and Campbellville before taking the drivers back to Georgetown. Many of the heavy machines got mired in creeks and muddy fields, forcing the drivers to drop out.

The course was originally planned to cover nearly 150 miles, but it was cut in half in view of the weather. The event was one of many annual events sponsored by the club members.

THE BEAT OF THE DRUMS kept Halton's firefighters in step, when they paraded to a church service in Burlington recently. The drummers were members of the Hamilton Firefighters Drum and Bugle Corps. The annual parade, held in a different municipality each year, is planned to focus attention on Fire Prevention Week, October 6 to 12.

Rides to Freedom on Tractor Escaped Convict Hunted Here

Several provincial police officers from the Milton Detachment spent a recent afternoon hunting a young prisoner who escaped from the Ontario Reformatory in Guelph. The search took place in the Sixth Line area of Esquesing.

George Lloyd Smith, 28 of Peterborough rode to freedom on a farm tractor. "He plowed himself right out of the grounds," recounted E. J. Harnoff, assistant superintendent. Smith was a trusted inmate. He was missed about 8 a.m. after checking the tractor out for plowing.

"A farmer on a tractor is a most natural thing at this time of year," Reformatory officials said, explaining Smith's unimpeded two hour trip to the Georgetown area, where he was well known, having worked as a farm laborer. Dressed in the prison garb of faded blue denims with the only distinguishing mark the reformatory stamp on the buttons, the 5'6" 135-pound Smith failed to arouse suspicion.

Car for Tractor
Smith stopped first at the farm of Milton Bird on the Sixth Line of Esquesing Township, explaining he had traded his car for the tractor. He asked for work, but was refused. Then, he stayed for supper and spent the night at the home of former acquaintances Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Egerton on the Tenth Line.

"We didn't know he had been in jail," Mrs. Egerton said.

That same night, Smith visited the B A station of Roy Critchell at Ashgrove and Mr. Critchell agreed to pick up the tractor the next morning at the Egerton farm. The starter needed repairs. The escaped prisoner in his faded blue jeans looked no different from any other farmer, Mr. Critchell admitted.

Critchell said Smith telephoned him later and offered to sell the tractor for $1,200. It was valued at $3,500 by Reformatory officials.

Search Near Norval

Police searched the Norval area Wednesday night for the escaped man. The Stewarttown manhunt was organized after Milton Bird saw him climbing into his hay mow last Thursday afternoon. Bird later found a crowbar and pair of gloves in a "nest" in the hay mow. It was believed Smith had slept in the barn.

Police fanned out to comb the area between the Sixth and Seventh Lines of Esquesing. At one point, they believed they were closing in on the wanted man, after a farm lad reported seeing him. However, it was discovered the youth had seen one of the Reformatory officials in civilian clothes who had joined the search.

Smith made good his escape from the Georgetown area, but was arrested by provincial police in the Peterborough district Sunday.
