MRS. KEN MOORE, one of the mothers who assisted during the first week, is shown helping Earl Essery solve one of the school's many jig-saw puzzles. Many educational games and toys have been purchased for the school. The school is designed to meet the needs of children and youngsters learn to get along with children their own age. Also shown in this photo is Sharon Cramp.

THE CO-OPERATIVE NURSERY school in Campbellville opened last week at St. David's Church, with 12 children enrolled. Because of parent effort and participation, the enrollment fee at the school is considerably lower than at a regular private nursery school. Mrs. J. R. Ridgeway, the teacher and director at the school, is shown watching four-year-old Annette Schriel do some painting.

417 Out of Work

Employment Level High Here

The employment situation in Oakville and Milton is at a high level. At the beginning of November only 1.6 per cent of the labour force were seeking jobs which is well below the national average. During October over 500 men and women were put to work and the over-all picture for the coming month is expected to be good.

"From information we have obtained concerning Municipal Winter Works programs in the area, we anticipate better conditions in the construction industry than last year," said Mrs. E. L. Hartwell, Manager of the Oakville National Employment Bureau.

Of the 417 persons registered at October 31, 1964, less than 30 per cent were males. On the same date for the prior year 1963 there were 600 persons seeking employment. 40 per cent of whom were men.

An intensive follow-up to find out how young people are adjusting to the world of work is presently being conducted by the staff of the N.E.S. Special Services Branch. Employers are being most co-operative, and learning of the pitfalls of which young people should be aware. Motivation and a sense of responsibility are still the two most important factors which are required to satisfactorily integrate into the labour market.

"It is clearly indicated that industry is raising its entry standards up to a minimum Grade 10 and in most cases Grade 12, so that technological advances take place, employees well be capable of retraining."

Shortages still exist in the majority of skilled trades and for domestic service, particularly for those who would live-in. Key-punch and IBM operators are specifically in short supply.

AT ANNUAL

William J. Fisher, chairman of New Toronto Public Utilities Commission, was re-elected president of District No. 4 Ontario Municipal Electric Association, at the annual meeting held in Toronto, at the Westbury hotel. Milton Hydro Manager O. L. Hadley attended the meeting. Among the officers re-elected to serve in 1965 was John T. Armstrong, Commissioner of Georgetown Hydro as first vice president.
