

THE MILTON RED CROSS officials are busily preparing for next Monday evening's house-to-house blitz in town, and this week Mrs. Paul Kent was busy distributing signs and posters to local business firms. Gary Graham and Carol Mills of the Bank of Montreal staff look over some of the posters with Mrs. Kent (centre). The bank will serve as headquarters for over 100 canvassers in next Monday's blitz, when they hope to raise $1,500 to further the work of the Red Cross.

HARLEY ... to HALTON

By DR. HARRY HARLEY, M.P.

Schizophrenia or split personality—this appears to be what ails Parliament at the moment, or at least split behavior. It gets an acute attack at intervals—sometimes daily, sometimes every other day. It is a strange phenomenon to watch. It is unpredictable, both in how it starts, what triggers it and what ends it. There is usually no warning before it strikes. It occurs, if it is going to, at the beginning of the day just before or during the question period when the Opposition may ask urgent questions of national importance to the government.

It more recently boiled up out of a declaration by the Leader of the Opposition that a statement by the Minister of Justice was false. This is considered unparliamentary language and Mr. Diefenbaker refused to withdraw the word. Cooler heads prevailed and everything calmed down before the Speaker was forced into any stern action.

Then the other side of the schizophrenia appeared—the business of the House of Commons (The Canada Pension Plan) was started and progressed sanely (apart from one minor blow-up) and quickly and efficiently without any evidence of the previous ill feeling and ill will. So much so that probably by the end of another day we will see the final passage of the Canada Pension Plan. I will not go into detail on this nod but I will devote one column to it after it has passed in order that my discussion of it will be completely accurate.

It is now hoped that one day will be devoted to a motion dealing with some improvements and modernization of the parliamentary procedures. Three days next week are expected to be taken up by the "opting out" legislation. If the schedule is adhered to, the second session of this 26th Parliament will end on Wednesday, the 17th March, 1965, and the new session will start the following day, the 18th March, 1965. This will start in the usual way with a throne speech on that date, by the Governor-General. There of course will be no recess, merely the closing of the old session one night and the new session beginning the next day. After the Throne Speech, which takes 10 days of debate, it is expected that the 1965-66 Budget will be introduced. The Throne Speech debate will allow the Opposition to move one, two or three various amendments or sub-amendments which will really be votes of non confidence in the government.

ATTEND CONVENTION
Mr. and Mrs. Howard Schuyler of Milton's Canadian Tire Corporation store attended the Canadian Tire dealers' convention last week at the Inn on the Park, Toronto. A banquet and dance Thursday at the Royal York Hotel was one of the highlights. On Wednesday afternoon the local staff attended a products parade at the Sheppard St. warehouse.

D.M.A. Approves Loan For Nassagaweya Office

George A. Kerr, M.P.P., announced this week that the Provincial

Department of Municipal Affairs has approved the application of the Township of Nassagaweya for a loan under the Municipal Works Assistance Act. This is for the construction of new Municipal Administration offices to be located in the Township at a cost of $51,093.

Henry Baverstock Enjoys Life at 98

Hale and hearty at 98, Simon Henry Baverstock is still able to go for walks on his own and enjoys life as one of the senior residents at Halton Centennial Manor. Mr. Baverstock, a farmer in the Lowville area before he moved to the Manor, celebrated his 98th birthday on March 10.

Born near Kingston he has lived in Michigan, Sarnia, Allandale, Elmvalle and Alliston before moving to the Lowville area in 1948. At Elmvalle he worked for 40 years in the lumbering mill. He started working in the bush when he was 12 because, "I wouldn't go to school."

Longevity isn't a common occurrence in his family. Mr. Baverstock, whose wife died about a year and a half ago, was married for 65 years and had five children.

mated cost of the Township of $45,843.

The new building is to contain 2,640 square feet, one storey of block and brick construction and it is estimated that construction of the new building will commence sometime during the next few weeks, as soon as weather permits.

Mr. Kerr also announced that the Department of Energy and Resources Management has approved a 75 per cent grant in the amount of $5,625 to the Halton Region Conservation Authority for a preliminary engineering survey of the middle branch of the Sixteen Mile Creek, under the Provincial Water Supply Reservoir Program.

Michael Aikenhead Wins Contest Writes Best Centennial Slogan

A slogan for use in Milton during the 1967 Canadian Centennial celebrations was announced today by the Centennial Committee: "Take pride in the past, start today and build for the future."

The slogan was judged the winner from close to 100 entries submitted in the committee's recent slogan contest, and it was written by Michael Aikenhead, the son of Dr. and Mrs. D. Aikenhead of 388 Highside Drive and a student in the Grade 8 class at Bruce St. Public school.

"Unfortunately, only three prizes were to be awarded," said Roy Downs, chairman of the slogan contest. "But these nine students also deserve a lot of credit for the originality and the thought they put into their slogans."

This evening's dinner meeting was planned to promote the Centennial Committee's plans to transform the mill pond area into a parksite as a Dominion centennial project, and to hear reports from the various sub-committees on their work to date in preparing for a local celebration in 1967.

Indicates Action

The contest was open to students in all Milton's elementary schools, and judges had a tough time picking out a winner. They liked Michael's best, because it indicated Miltonians should take a special pleasure in the town's early days, yet we should not rest on our laurels but start today — immediately — to develop the town for the future generations.

The winning slogan earned Michael the $10 cash first prize in the contest. He and his parents will be attending a special open meeting and dinner of the Centennial Committee tonight (Wednesday) at the Legion Hall, where Committee chairman Norman Pearce will make the presentation.

The judges also awarded "honorable mention" prizes of $5 each to two other students whose slogans came the closest to winning the coveted top prize. The awards will be presented at their schools to Ronald Gullis of Grade 7, J. M. Denves school, and Karen McEachern of Grade 8, Bruce St. school.

Others Excellent

In addition to the cash prizes, the judges also made note of nine other excellent slogans submitted by Christine Selisizzi and Joseph Multari of Holy Rosary; Karen Wright and Barry Beeton of J. M. Denves; John Penson of Bruce St.; and Debbie Aikenhead, Susan Pearce, Wayne Emms and Maureen Magee of W. I. Dick.

NEW VESSELS

Just as living plants grow new branches, the human arterial system may grow new blood vessels to take blood to the part of the heart injured by a heart attack or deprived of its normal blood supply, the Ontario Heart Foundation says.
