

May Busy Month for Manor Entertainments

By Miss Muriel Thompson
On Sunday afternoon, May 16, the Rev. Dr. T. M. Dustan conducted the church service at the Manor. Mrs. Ray Waters was the organist.
Dr. Dustan spoke of the importance of Pentecost in the calendar of the Christian church. He began his sermon by saying that we are still in the season of Easter and are awaiting through 40 days the anniversary of the coming of the Holy Spirit. In the time between Christ's Resurrection and His Ascension, Christ taught the Disciples many things and prepared them for their work when He would no longer be with them. To the Disciples, the Holy Spirit was very real and His coming was of profound importance. In our own day, He can help us as much as He helped the Disciples at Pentecost.

Friends Visit
On Monday night, May 17, several members of the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Burlington Branch of the Royal Canadian Legion paid a visit to the Manor in order to renew acquaintance with the residents and present bags of candy to them.

Auxiliary Program
A delightful evening, spent in the company of old friends, tried and true, was enjoyed on Tuesday night, May 18, by a large gathering of residents. The visitors who provided this enjoyable evening were a number of ladies belonging to the Evening Auxiliary of St. Luke's Anglican Church in Burlington. It was a pleasure for the residents to welcome, among the visitors, Rev. Canon Heathcote, Miss K. Donkin, the president of the auxiliary, announced the program.
The program began with a sing-song led by Miss Donkin with L. Walker as piano accompanist. During this sing-song, five ladies dressed in old-fashioned costumes took their places on the platform. At the close of the sing-song, these ladies moved among the spectators in order to display their amusing outfits. These ladies were Mrs. B. Brown, Mrs. L. Conrad, Mrs. L. Roberts, Miss A. Fryers and Miss M. Miller.

Miss Nancy Clarke, who possesses a very attractive voice, sang two solos, accompanied by her mother, Mrs. J. Clarke. One of these solos was When Mary Sings. Then Mr. Walker played several piano selections, one of which was the appropriate number, Getting to Know You.

Quartet Sings
At two separate places in the program a barbershop quartet, the Fall Guys, sang two groups of barbershop songs. These songs ranged all the way from a medley of negro spirituals, Shine on Me and Steal Away, to the humorous song With Her Head Tucked Underneath Her Arm and from the old popular song Moonlight Bay to the modern one Autumn Leaves. The costumes of these barbershoppers aroused special interest due to the fact that they consisted of red and white striped shirts, white jackets, black ties and red trousers. These four gentlemen were D. Barr, E. Giddy, B. Pilgrim and D. Smith.

In a very humorous little speech, Canon Heathcote assured the residents that the members of St. Luke's often think of them and look forward to visiting them twice a year. The singing of the hymns The Lord's My Shepherd in unison, with Miss P. Donkin playing the accompaniment, and a closing prayer and benediction by Canon Heathcote, brought the program to a close.
The visiting ladies had brought with them an assortment of delicious sandwiches and relishes and these were served with tea and coffee.
Upon leaving the auditorium, every resident received a novel and useful souvenir of the evening in the form of a French poodle-dog, very cleverly fashioned from a face-cloth and standing on a box containing a cake of soap.
Choir Returns
A very fine choir that had visited the Manor about a year ago came again on Wednesday night, May 19, to present another excellent program. The choir was the District No. 6 choir of the Order of the Eastern Star and their visit was sponsored by the Lakeview Chapter O.E.S. in Burlington.
R. Hilditch, the Worthy Patron, and Mrs. F. Poole, the Worthy Matron, of the Lakeview chapter, and C. Smith, the president of the choir, were all present. J. McKinley directed the choir and announced all the numbers.
While the visitors were assembling, a sing-song was conducted by Mr. Hilditch with L. Rasberry at the piano. Then Mr. McKinley brought his choir to the stage and introduced it to the audience. There were 25 men and women in the choir. They sang 11 choral numbers in four groups.
Their first song, Something to Sing About, was a description of Canada in music. The martial strains of Scotland the Brave, the rousing musical comedy song Oklahoma and the quiet setting of Psalm 23, as well as the other songs, proved the versatility of these gifted singers. A personal tribute to Halton Manor was paid with the singing of Bless This House. The last song presented was Now is the Hour, for which special words suitable to the occasion had been composed.
A. Stringer was the very competent piano accompanist for all the choral numbers.
Piano, Organ Duets
Between these groups of selections, some very delightful piano and organ duets were played, with Mrs. M. Carter at the organ and Mr. Stringer at the piano. Their duets included My Wild Irish Rose and a medley of waltzes.
Two amusing recitations were given by Mrs. Ethel McKinley, the wife of the choir director. Dressed in a Yorkshire costume of ancient vintage, Mrs. McKinley recited 'Erbert, 'Enry, 'Eupelthwaite and, as an encore, Only a Pin.
At the special invitation of Mr. McKinley, Norman Viggers played two numbers on the bones.
Mr. Smith, the president of the choir, expressed the pleasure felt by the choir members in having been able to come to the Manor to entertain the residents and Mrs. Poole thanked everyone who had used his or her talents to produce this fine program.
The visiting ladies had brought refreshments with them and a social hour was spent at this time. The refreshments were bun halves spread with a variety of fancy spreads, relishes, fancy small cakes, tea and coffee. All in all, it was a delightful evening.

May Birthday
Many hearty laughs and happy chuckles could be heard on all sides in the auditorium on Thursday night, May 20, when a large group of ladies who are members of Evening Star Rebekah Lodge in Milton conducted the May birthday party for those residents who celebrate their birthdays in May. The Noble Grand, Mrs. Elsie Stover and the Vice-Grand, Mrs. I. Gilbert were present.
The head table looked lovely with its three bouquets of chrysanthemums, carnations and other fresh flowers.
Mrs. Stover opened the proceedings by extending birthday greetings from the lodge to the residents. Then she handed over the program to Mrs. Isabel (Paddy) Wilson, who acted as mistress of ceremonies in her own informal, witty and capable fashion.

Rhythm Band
Mrs. Wilson read an encouraging article on the subject Old Age. She then called on the Rhythm Band to come upon the stage to provide entertainment.
About 15 ladies dressed in old-fashioned or comic costumes and carrying kitchen gadgets or toy instruments came to the stage from the wings to the music of Scotland the Brave. Their first song was an appropriate parody of the song McNamara's Band with Mrs. Gilbert playing the part of the leader, McNamara.
With Mrs. Wilson announcing the numbers and playing the accompaniments, the ladies presented a program full of fun and entertainment. They sang old-time ballads, read funny poems and anecdotes and waltzed to the music of the Rhythm Band. Mrs. A. Cairns and Mrs. L. Dixon evoked much laughter by singing two humorous songs, Who Threw the Overalls in Mrs. Murphy's Chowder? and Aunt Jemima's Plaster. The Rhythm Band's part of the program ended with the hymn How Great Thou Art.
Two duets came next on the program. They were Night of Nights and You'll Never Walk Alone sung by Margo Clarkson and Sharon Hume. Their piano accompanist was Bill Brush who later sang a solo In The Garden of Tomorrow. All of these solos were greatly enjoyed. Mrs. Wilson read a comical description of the human anatomy. Karen Ricketts and Margo Clarkson, dressed attractively in the fashion of the Twenties danced the Charleston in nimble fashion.

Birthday Presents
The guests of honour were then asked by Mrs. Stover to take their places at the head table. A very tempting birthday cake was placed on the head table and its candles were lighted. At each guest's place a paper cracker and a novelty corsage had been placed. When the crackers were pulled each guest found himself provided with a paper hat. Each guest also received a birthday card and a $2 bill. The Happy birthday song was sung. Very tasty refreshments, sandwiches, relishes, tarts and angel food birthday cake, all donated by the Lodge ladies, were served with so received a roll of lifesaver before leaving the auditorium as a "sweet" reminder of this very evening spent with the Milton Rebekahs.

The four guests of honour were Mrs. B. Lantz, Mrs. E. Pearson, Mrs. C. Vannatter and Miss Agnes Reid.
C.G.I.T.
A very pleasant evening was spent on Friday, May 21 with a group of 12 young girls who are members of the C.G.I.T. Group of St. Paul's United Church in Oakville. The girls were under the direction of their two leaders, Mrs. J. Bullen and Mrs. J. Thompson.

Mrs. Bullen opened the program by introducing the girls to the residents and explaining that the play Crash Landing, which they were about to see performed on the stage had been written by the girls themselves from the book of the same name.
The three-act play opens with the take-off, from Salvador airport, of a passenger plane bound for Brazil. Before it reaches Brazil it is forced to make a forced landing.
Act 2 finds the passengers sitting beside their wrecked airplane in the jungle. During this period of waiting, a young boy Jorge, one of the passengers, played by one of the girls, confesses that he is a young thief wanted by the police and this sets the girls to thinking about living conditions in that part of the world. A solo Nearer My God to Thee in this act by Sandra Bergquist.

To Be Missionaries
Act 3 witnesses their rescue by another plane. While waiting for the rescue plane to land two girls discuss the beauties of Brazil and the work of Christian missionaries there. They decide that they too want to be missionaries like their parents.
At the conclusion of the play, which was greatly to the credit of the young girls, Jane Bebenec and Valerie McDonald. One of Jane's solos was The Parade of the Wooden Soldiers and one of Valerie's was Sonatina.
All the girls then came on the stage to sing a number of hymns. Mrs. Bullen led the singing and Mrs. Thompson played the piano. As a tribute to the Manor, Mrs. Bullen sang a solo, Bless This House. The favorite hymn of many of the residents, Abide with Me, was sung as the last hymn.
A cold drink and cookies were served to bring this inspiring evening to a close. This was the second time at which these girls and their leaders had visited the Manor and it is sincerely hoped that they will come again.

Musical Talent
Two talented musicians provided the music for the church service on Sunday afternoon, May 23. These musicians were Mrs. K. O. Foster and her son Ralph Foster, both of Milton. They had come with the Minister of their church, Rev. J. L. Graham of St. Paul's United Church in Milton, who conducted the service. Mrs. Foster played the organ for all the accompaniments and Mr. Foster sang a very fine solo, the hymn Pass Me Not, O Gentle Saviour.
Mr. Graham's comforting sermon was based on verses in Deuteronomy, Luke and Isaiah. This sermon had been originally delivered by Mr. Graham at the Mother's Day service in St. Paul's Church and it stressed the maternal qualities of God's love for Man.

The verse taken from Deuteronomy describes the ways of the mother eagle with her young. She cares for them while they are young and helpless and then drives them from the nest to make them fly. This sometimes happens to mortal men and to the church when God wishes certain things to be accomplished.
The verse from St. Luke teaches us about the compassion that God feels for us by means of the analogy of the mother hen and her brood.
The third verse, from Isaiah, shows us the comfort that God can give us, similar to the comfort that a mother can give her child.

teronomy, Luke and Isaiah. This sermon had been originally delivered by Mr. Graham at the Mother's Day service in St. Paul's Church and it stressed the maternal qualities of God's love for Man.
The verse taken from Deuteronomy describes the ways of the mother eagle with her young. She cares for them while they are young and helpless and then drives them from the nest to make them fly. This sometimes happens to mortal men and to the church when God wishes certain things to be accomplished.
The verse from St. Luke teaches us about the compassion that God feels for us by means of the analogy of the mother hen and her brood.
The third verse, from Isaiah, shows us the comfort that God can give us, similar to the comfort that a mother can give her child.

teronomy, Luke and Isaiah. This sermon had been originally delivered by Mr. Graham at the Mother's Day service in St. Paul's Church and it stressed the maternal qualities of God's love for Man.
The verse taken from Deuteronomy describes the ways of the mother eagle with her young. She cares for them while they are young and helpless and then drives them from the nest to make them fly. This sometimes happens to mortal men and to the church when God wishes certain things to be accomplished.
The verse from St. Luke teaches us about the compassion that God feels for us by means of the analogy of the mother hen and her brood.
The third verse, from Isaiah, shows us the comfort that God can give us, similar to the comfort that a mother can give her child.

teronomy, Luke and Isaiah. This sermon had been originally delivered by Mr. Graham at the Mother's Day service in St. Paul's Church and it stressed the maternal qualities of God's love for Man.
The verse taken from Deuteronomy describes the ways of the mother eagle with her young. She cares for them while they are young and helpless and then drives them from the nest to make them fly. This sometimes happens to mortal men and to the church when God wishes certain things to be accomplished.
The verse from St. Luke teaches us about the compassion that God feels for us by means of the analogy of the mother hen and her brood.
The third verse, from Isaiah, shows us the comfort that God can give us, similar to the comfort that a mother can give her child.

teronomy, Luke and Isaiah. This sermon had been originally delivered by Mr. Graham at the Mother's Day service in St. Paul's Church and it stressed the maternal qualities of God's love for Man.
The verse taken from Deuteronomy describes the ways of the mother eagle with her young. She cares for them while they are young and helpless and then drives them from the nest to make them fly. This sometimes happens to mortal men and to the church when God wishes certain things to be accomplished.
The verse from St. Luke teaches us about the compassion that God feels for us by means of the analogy of the mother hen and her brood.
The third verse, from Isaiah, shows us the comfort that God can give us, similar to the comfort that a mother can give her child.

teronomy, Luke and Isaiah. This sermon had been originally delivered by Mr. Graham at the Mother's Day service in St. Paul's Church and it stressed the maternal qualities of God's love for Man.
The verse taken from Deuteronomy describes the ways of the mother eagle with her young. She cares for them while they are young and helpless and then drives them from the nest to make them fly. This sometimes happens to mortal men and to the church when God wishes certain things to be accomplished.
The verse from St. Luke teaches us about the compassion that God feels for us by means of the analogy of the mother hen and her brood.
The third verse, from Isaiah, shows us the comfort that God can give us, similar to the comfort that a mother can give her child.

teronomy, Luke and Isaiah. This sermon had been originally delivered by Mr. Graham at the Mother's Day service in St. Paul's Church and it stressed the maternal qualities of God's love for Man.
The verse taken from Deuteronomy describes the ways of the mother eagle with her young. She cares for them while they are young and helpless and then drives them from the nest to make them fly. This sometimes happens to mortal men and to the church when God wishes certain things to be accomplished.
The verse from St. Luke teaches us about the compassion that God feels for us by means of the analogy of the mother hen and her brood.
The third verse, from Isaiah, shows us the comfort that God can give us, similar to the comfort that a mother can give her child.

teronomy, Luke and Isaiah. This sermon had been originally delivered by Mr. Graham at the Mother's Day service in St. Paul's Church and it stressed the maternal qualities of God's love for Man.
The verse taken from Deuteronomy describes the ways of the mother eagle with her young. She cares for them while they are young and helpless and then drives them from the nest to make them fly. This sometimes happens to mortal men and to the church when God wishes certain things to be accomplished.
The verse from St. Luke teaches us about the compassion that God feels for us by means of the analogy of the mother hen and her brood.
The third verse, from Isaiah, shows us the comfort that God can give us, similar to the comfort that a mother can give her child.

teronomy, Luke and Isaiah. This sermon had been originally delivered by Mr. Graham at the Mother's Day service in St. Paul's Church and it stressed the maternal qualities of God's love for Man.
The verse taken from Deuteronomy describes the ways of the mother eagle with her young. She cares for them while they are young and helpless and then drives them from the nest to make them fly. This sometimes happens to mortal men and to the church when God wishes certain things to be accomplished.
The verse from St. Luke teaches us about the compassion that God feels for us by means of the analogy of the mother hen and her brood.
The third verse, from Isaiah, shows us the comfort that God can give us, similar to the comfort that a mother can give her child.

teronomy, Luke and Isaiah. This sermon had been originally delivered by Mr. Graham at the Mother's Day service in St. Paul's Church and it stressed the maternal qualities of God's love for Man.
The verse taken from Deuteronomy describes the ways of the mother eagle with her young. She cares for them while they are young and helpless and then drives them from the nest to make them fly. This sometimes happens to mortal men and to the church when God wishes certain things to be accomplished.
The verse from St. Luke teaches us about the compassion that God feels for us by means of the analogy of the mother hen and her brood.
The third verse, from Isaiah, shows us the comfort that God can give us, similar to the comfort that a mother can give her child.

teronomy, Luke and Isaiah. This sermon had been originally delivered by Mr. Graham at the Mother's Day service in St. Paul's Church and it stressed the maternal qualities of God's love for Man.
The verse taken from Deuteronomy describes the ways of the mother eagle with her young. She cares for them while they are young and helpless and then drives them from the nest to make them fly. This sometimes happens to mortal men and to the church when God wishes certain things to be accomplished.
The verse from St. Luke teaches us about the compassion that God feels for us by means of the analogy of the mother hen and her brood.
The third verse, from Isaiah, shows us the comfort that God can give us, similar to the comfort that a mother can give her child.

teronomy, Luke and Isaiah. This sermon had been originally delivered by Mr. Graham at the Mother's Day service in St. Paul's Church and it stressed the maternal qualities of God's love for Man.
The verse taken from Deuteronomy describes the ways of the mother eagle with her young. She cares for them while they are young and helpless and then drives them from the nest to make them fly. This sometimes happens to mortal men and to the church when God wishes certain things to be accomplished.
The verse from St. Luke teaches us about the compassion that God feels for us by means of the analogy of the mother hen and her brood.
The third verse, from Isaiah, shows us the comfort that God can give us, similar to the comfort that a mother can give her child.

teronomy, Luke and Isaiah. This sermon had been originally delivered by Mr. Graham at the Mother's Day service in St. Paul's Church and it stressed the maternal qualities of God's love for Man.
The verse taken from Deuteronomy describes the ways of the mother eagle with her young. She cares for them while they are young and helpless and then drives them from the nest to make them fly. This sometimes happens to mortal men and to the church when God wishes certain things to be accomplished.
The verse from St. Luke teaches us about the compassion that God feels for us by means of the analogy of the mother hen and her brood.
The third verse, from Isaiah, shows us the comfort that God can give us, similar to the comfort that a mother can give her child.

teronomy, Luke and Isaiah. This sermon had been originally delivered by Mr. Graham at the Mother's Day service in St. Paul's Church and it stressed the maternal qualities of God's love for Man.
The verse taken from Deuteronomy describes the ways of the mother eagle with her young. She cares for them while they are young and helpless and then drives them from the nest to make them fly. This sometimes happens to mortal men and to the church when God wishes certain things to be accomplished.
The verse from St. Luke teaches us about the compassion that God feels for us by means of the analogy of the mother hen and her brood.
The third verse, from Isaiah, shows us the comfort that God can give us, similar to the comfort that a mother can give her child.

teronomy, Luke and Isaiah. This sermon had been originally delivered by Mr. Graham at the Mother's Day service in St. Paul's Church and it stressed the maternal qualities of God's love for Man.
The verse taken from Deuteronomy describes the ways of the mother eagle with her young. She cares for them while they are young and helpless and then drives them from the nest to make them fly. This sometimes happens to mortal men and to the church when God wishes certain things to be accomplished.
The verse from St. Luke teaches us about the compassion that God feels for us by means of the analogy of the mother hen and her brood.
The third verse, from Isaiah, shows us the comfort that God can give us, similar to the comfort that a mother can give her child.

teronomy, Luke and Isaiah. This sermon had been originally delivered by Mr. Graham at the Mother's Day service in St. Paul's Church and it stressed the maternal qualities of God's love for Man.
The verse taken from Deuteronomy describes the ways of the mother eagle with her young. She cares for them while they are young and helpless and then drives them from the nest to make them fly. This sometimes happens to mortal men and to the church when God wishes certain things to be accomplished.
The verse from St. Luke teaches us about the compassion that God feels for us by means of the analogy of the mother hen and her brood.
The third verse, from Isaiah, shows us the comfort that God can give us, similar to the comfort that a mother can give her child.

teronomy, Luke and Isaiah. This sermon had been originally delivered by Mr. Graham at the Mother's Day service in St. Paul's Church and it stressed the maternal qualities of God's love for Man.
The verse taken from Deuteronomy describes the ways of the mother eagle with her young. She cares for them while they are young and helpless and then drives them from the nest to make them fly. This sometimes happens to mortal men and to the church when God wishes certain things to be accomplished.
The verse from St. Luke teaches us about the compassion that God feels for us by means of the analogy of the mother hen and her brood.
The third verse, from Isaiah, shows us the comfort that God can give us, similar to the comfort that a mother can give her child.

teronomy, Luke and Isaiah. This sermon had been originally delivered by Mr. Graham at the Mother's Day service in St. Paul's Church and it stressed the maternal qualities of God's love for Man.
The verse taken from Deuteronomy describes the ways of the mother eagle with her young. She cares for them while they are young and helpless and then drives them from the nest to make them fly. This sometimes happens to mortal men and to the church when God wishes certain things to be accomplished.
The verse from St. Luke teaches us about the compassion that God feels for us by means of the analogy of the mother hen and her brood.
The third verse, from Isaiah, shows us the comfort that God can give us, similar to the comfort that a mother can give her child.

teronomy, Luke and Isaiah. This sermon had been originally delivered by Mr. Graham at the Mother's Day service in St. Paul's Church and it stressed the maternal qualities of God's love for Man.
The verse taken from Deuteronomy describes the ways of the mother eagle with her young. She cares for them while they are young and helpless and then drives them from the nest to make them fly. This sometimes happens to mortal men and to the church when God wishes certain things to be accomplished.
The verse from St. Luke teaches us about the compassion that God feels for us by means of the analogy of the mother hen and her brood.
The third verse, from Isaiah, shows us the comfort that God can give us, similar to the comfort that a mother can give her child.

teronomy, Luke and Isaiah. This sermon had been originally delivered by Mr. Graham at the Mother's Day service in St. Paul's Church and it stressed the maternal qualities of God's love for Man.
The verse taken from Deuteronomy describes the ways of the mother eagle with her young. She cares for them while they are young and helpless and then drives them from the nest to make them fly. This sometimes happens to mortal men and to the church when God wishes certain things to be accomplished.
The verse from St. Luke teaches us about the compassion that God feels for us by means of the analogy of the mother hen and her brood.
The third verse, from Isaiah, shows us the comfort that God can give us, similar to the comfort that a mother can give her child.

teronomy, Luke and Isaiah. This sermon had been originally delivered by Mr. Graham at the Mother's Day service in St. Paul's Church and it stressed the maternal qualities of God's love for Man.
The verse taken from Deuteronomy describes the ways of the mother eagle with her young. She cares for them while they are young and helpless and then drives them from the nest to make them fly. This sometimes happens to mortal men and to the church when God wishes certain things to be accomplished.
The verse from St. Luke teaches us about the compassion that God feels for us by means of the analogy of the mother hen and her brood.
The third verse, from Isaiah, shows us the comfort that God can give us, similar to the comfort that a mother can give her child.

teronomy, Luke and Isaiah. This sermon had been originally delivered by Mr. Graham at the Mother's Day service in St. Paul's Church and it stressed the maternal qualities of God's love for Man.
The verse taken from Deuteronomy describes the ways of the mother eagle with her young. She cares for them while they are young and helpless and then drives them from the nest to make them fly. This sometimes happens to mortal men and to the church when God wishes certain things to be accomplished.
The verse from St. Luke teaches us about the compassion that God feels for us by means of the analogy of the mother hen and her brood.
The third verse, from Isaiah, shows us the comfort that God can give us, similar to the comfort that a mother can give her child.

teronomy, Luke and Isaiah. This sermon had been originally delivered by Mr. Graham at the Mother's Day service in St. Paul's Church and it stressed the maternal qualities of God's love for Man.
The verse taken from Deuteronomy describes the ways of the mother eagle with her young. She cares for them while they are young and helpless and then drives them from the nest to make them fly. This sometimes happens to mortal men and to the church when God wishes certain things to be accomplished.
The verse from St. Luke teaches us about the compassion that God feels for us by means of the analogy of the mother hen and her brood.
The third verse, from Isaiah, shows us the comfort that God can give us, similar to the comfort that a mother can give her child.

teronomy, Luke and Isaiah. This sermon had been originally delivered by Mr. Graham at the Mother's Day service in St. Paul's Church and it stressed the maternal qualities of God's love for Man.
The verse taken from Deuteronomy describes the ways of the mother eagle with her young. She cares for them while they are young and helpless and then drives them from the nest to make them fly. This sometimes happens to mortal men and to the church when God wishes certain things to be accomplished.
The verse from St. Luke teaches us about the compassion that God feels for us by means of the analogy of the mother hen and her brood.
The third verse, from Isaiah, shows us the comfort that God can give us, similar to the comfort that a mother can give her child.

teronomy, Luke and Isaiah. This sermon had been originally delivered by Mr. Graham at the Mother's Day service in St. Paul's Church and it stressed the maternal qualities of God's love for Man.
The verse taken from Deuteronomy describes the ways of the mother eagle with her young. She cares for them while they are young and helpless and then drives them from the nest to make them fly. This sometimes happens to mortal men and to the church when God wishes certain things to be accomplished.
The verse from St. Luke teaches us about the compassion that God feels for us by means of the analogy of the mother hen and her brood.
The third verse, from Isaiah, shows us the comfort that God can give us, similar to the comfort that a mother can give her child.

Mrs. Kay President Of Nurses' Chapter

Mrs. Hugo Kay was elected president of Halton County Chapter, Registered Nurses Association of Ontario, for 1965-66.
Other officers elected at the annual meeting, held at the Oakville-Trafalgar Memorial Hospital include Mrs. D. J. Butson of Burlington, first vice-president; Miss Kathleen Hagerty, Burlington, second vice-president; Mrs. H. G. Colpitts, Burlington, secretary and Miss Elaine Drobot, Oakville, treasurer.

Highlights of the Provincial annual meeting, held in Toronto recently were presented.

RECEIVE MEMBERS

Four new members were received at Knox Presbyterian Church on Sunday, May 30th. They were Mr. and Mrs. Mervin Colling, 36 Kingsleigh Ct., and Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Roberts of 400 Campbell Ave, all of Milton.

teronomy, Luke and Isaiah. This sermon had been originally delivered by Mr. Graham at the Mother's Day service in St. Paul's Church and it stressed the maternal qualities of God's love for Man.
The verse taken from Deuteronomy describes the ways of the mother eagle with her young. She cares for them while they are young and helpless and then drives them from the nest to make them fly. This sometimes happens to mortal men and to the church when God wishes certain things to be accomplished.
The verse from St. Luke teaches us about the compassion that God feels for us by means of the analogy of the mother hen and her brood.
The third verse, from Isaiah, shows us the comfort that God can give us, similar to the comfort that a mother can give her child.

teronomy, Luke and Isaiah. This sermon had been originally delivered by Mr. Graham at the Mother's Day service in St. Paul's Church and it stressed the maternal qualities of God's love for Man.
The verse taken from Deuteronomy describes the ways of the mother eagle with her young. She cares for them while they are young and helpless and then drives them from the nest to make them fly. This sometimes happens to mortal men and to the church when God wishes certain things to be accomplished.
The verse from St. Luke teaches us about the compassion that God feels for us by means of the analogy of the mother hen and her brood.
The third verse, from Isaiah, shows us the comfort that God can give us, similar to the comfort that a mother can give her child.

teronomy, Luke and Isaiah. This sermon had been originally delivered by Mr. Graham at the Mother's Day service in St. Paul's Church and it stressed the maternal qualities of God's love for Man.
The verse taken from Deuteronomy describes the ways of the mother eagle with her young. She cares for them while they are young and helpless and then drives them from the nest to make them fly. This sometimes happens to mortal men and to the church when God wishes certain things to be accomplished.
The verse from St. Luke teaches us about the compassion that God feels for us by means of the analogy of the mother hen and her brood.
The third verse, from Isaiah, shows us the comfort that God can give us, similar to the comfort that a mother can give her child.

teronomy, Luke and Isaiah. This sermon had been originally delivered by Mr. Graham at the Mother's Day service in St. Paul's Church and it stressed the maternal qualities of God's love for Man.
The verse taken from Deuteronomy describes the ways of the mother eagle with her young. She cares for them while they are young and helpless and then drives them from the nest to make them fly. This sometimes happens to mortal men and to the church when God wishes certain things to be accomplished.
The verse from St. Luke teaches us about the compassion that God feels for us by means of the analogy of the mother hen and her brood.
The third verse, from Isaiah, shows us the comfort that God can give us, similar to the comfort that a mother can give her child.

teronomy, Luke and Isaiah. This sermon had been originally delivered by Mr. Graham at the Mother's Day service in St. Paul's Church and it stressed the maternal qualities of God's love for Man.
The verse taken from Deuteronomy describes the ways of the mother eagle with her young. She cares for them while they are young and helpless and then drives them from the nest to make them fly. This sometimes happens to mortal men and to the church when God wishes certain things to be accomplished.
The verse from St. Luke teaches us about the compassion that God feels for us by means of the analogy of the mother hen and her brood.
The third verse, from Isaiah, shows us the comfort that God can give us, similar to the comfort that a mother can give her child.

teronomy, Luke and Isaiah. This sermon had been originally delivered by Mr. Graham at the Mother's Day service in St. Paul's Church and it stressed the maternal qualities of God's love for Man.
The verse taken from Deuteronomy describes the ways of the mother eagle with her young. She cares for them while they are young and helpless and then drives them from the nest to make them fly. This sometimes happens to mortal men and to the church when God wishes certain things to be accomplished.
The verse from St. Luke teaches us about the compassion that God feels for us by means of the analogy of the mother hen and her brood.
The third verse, from Isaiah, shows us the comfort that God can give us, similar to the comfort that a mother can give her child.

teronomy, Luke and Isaiah. This sermon had been originally delivered by Mr. Graham at the Mother's Day service in St. Paul's Church and it stressed the maternal qualities of God's love for Man.
The verse taken from Deuteronomy describes the ways of the mother eagle with her young. She cares for them while they are young and helpless and then drives them from the nest to make them fly. This sometimes happens to mortal men and to the church when God wishes certain things to be accomplished.
The verse from St. Luke teaches us about the compassion that God feels for us by means of the analogy of the mother hen and her brood.
The third verse, from Isaiah, shows us the comfort that God can give us, similar to the comfort that a mother can give her child.

teronomy, Luke and Isaiah. This sermon had been originally delivered by Mr. Graham at the Mother's Day service in St. Paul's Church and it stressed the maternal qualities of God's love for Man.
The verse taken from Deuteronomy describes the ways of the mother eagle with her young. She cares for them while they are young and helpless and then drives them from the nest to make them fly. This sometimes happens to mortal men and to the church when God wishes certain things to be accomplished.
The verse from St. Luke teaches us about the compassion that God feels for us by means of the analogy of the mother hen and her brood.
The third verse, from Isaiah, shows us the comfort that God can give us, similar to the comfort that a mother can give her child.

teronomy, Luke and Isaiah. This sermon had been originally delivered by Mr. Graham at the Mother's Day service in St. Paul's Church and it stressed the maternal qualities of God's love for Man.
The verse taken from Deuteronomy describes the ways of the mother eagle with her young. She cares for them while they are young and helpless and then drives them from the nest to make them fly. This sometimes happens to mortal men and to the church when God wishes certain things to be accomplished.
The verse from St. Luke teaches us about the compassion that God feels for us by means of the analogy of the mother hen and her brood.
The third verse, from Isaiah, shows us the comfort that God can give us, similar to the comfort that a mother can give her child.

teronomy, Luke and Isaiah. This sermon had been originally delivered by Mr. Graham at the Mother's Day service in St. Paul's Church and it stressed the maternal qualities of God's love for Man.
The verse taken from Deuteronomy describes the ways of the mother eagle with her young. She cares for them while they are young and helpless and then drives them from the nest to make them fly. This sometimes happens to mortal men and to the church when God wishes certain things to be accomplished.
The verse from St. Luke teaches us about the compassion that God feels for us by means of the analogy of the mother hen and her brood.
The third verse, from Isaiah, shows us the comfort that God can give us, similar to the comfort that a mother can give her child.

teronomy, Luke and Isaiah. This sermon had been originally delivered by Mr. Graham at the Mother's Day service in St. Paul's Church and it stressed the maternal qualities of God's love for Man.
The verse taken from Deuteronomy describes the ways of the mother eagle with her young. She cares for them while they are young and helpless and then drives them from the nest to make them fly. This sometimes happens to mortal men and to the church when God wishes certain things to be accomplished.
The verse from St. Luke teaches us about the compassion that God feels for us by means of the analogy of the mother hen and her brood.
The third verse, from Isaiah, shows us the comfort that God can give us, similar to the comfort that a mother can give her child.

teronomy, Luke and Isaiah. This sermon had been originally delivered by Mr. Graham at the Mother's Day service in St. Paul's Church and it stressed the maternal qualities of God's love for Man.
The verse taken from Deuteronomy describes the ways of the mother eagle with her young. She cares for them while they are young and helpless and then drives them from the nest to make them fly. This sometimes happens to mortal men and to the church when God wishes certain things to be accomplished.
The verse from St. Luke teaches us about the compassion that God feels for us by means of the analogy of the mother hen and her brood.
The third verse, from Isaiah, shows us the comfort that God can give us, similar to the comfort that a mother can give her child.

FOR A NEW DAD

... an "Old" DAD

... a GRAND DAD

ON

Sunday, June 20th

the GIFT For ALL DADS

IS A GIFT FROM KNIGHT'S MEN'S WEAR

It's the thought that counts! So if you have only a dollar to spend on Dad, or $100, you'll be welcome at Knight's Men's Wear. We have a lot of excellent gifts in all price ranges... the kind of gifts Dad would pick out for himself because they offer style, quality and value. If still in doubt, give him a gift certificate, he will find things here he will proudly wear.

- () SPORT SHIRTS
BY CURRIE AND TED LIPSON
- () SPORT DRESS SHIRTS
BY ARROW
- () COOL SLACKS
BY NASH AN CANA DAY
- () SOCKS
BY WOLSEY
- () PYJAMAS
BY ARROW
- () NECKWEAR
BY CURRIE AND ABBEY

Fathers are the Nicest People ... Don't Forget Yours — Sunday, June 20

Bus Knight's MEN'S WEAR

IT'S OUR FIRST ANNIVERSARY IN MILTON

... and we sincerely wish to thank all of you

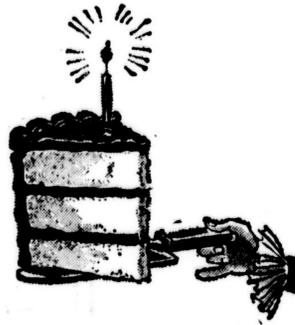

For Your Patronage!

Pure Food Bakery

254 Main St. E.

MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM H. GILLIES

Milton

STILL THE BEST AUTOMOTIVE