just around playoff time it becomes particularly noticeable. Although we can't always agree with the way the poor men in blue are treated, it's sometimes quite obvious they are a little slack on the job. Last Wednesday evening in Georgetown was an ideal example. According to the coaches of both the Georgetown Giants, Dude Lindsay, and the Milton Red Sox, Dick Clement, the men in blue were just plain "horrible". Dude phrased the situation nicely Tournament to be staged on August 21. One of the main features of last year's tourney was the flinging of Ray Judd, veteran ringer who's available to any club if the price is right. Evidently the price was right in the States this year since the righthanded star has him, that was the role of Hamilton hurler Dan Cherwaty on Sunday as he continually levelled blasts at Brantford playing manager

Bob Salvisburg. Cherwaty is a regular church-goer with a squeaky voice, no doubt gained through years of experience with the choir.

Dan, nearly everyone agreed, could add plenty of color to almost any event and the only question on Sunday was whether or not he was carrying the fun a little to far. Although he was loud and vociferous, he was never profane but boy did he holler. One of the most interesting comments on his performance came from

More than 20 people are active scuba divers in this area and one gentleman has hopes of arranging the cruise. All he needs is the names of 10 or 12 people who are interested in renting a boat for a Saturday or a Sunday in early September. Several boats can be rented in the Georgian Bay area and each one is outfitted with a compressor on board.

Divers interested in the cruise should have their own equipment. Anyone interested in the proposed cruise should contact Roy Downs at The Champion office as soon as possible and he will forward the names to the organizer.
