IT'S OLD FASHIONED DAYS AGAIN in Milton and here to prove it are Vicki Ervin, Susan Thompson, Wendy Williamson, Diane Thomson, Marion Ervin and Carol Verveeke, all residents of the Kingsleigh Court district. The girls, along with hundreds of other Miltonians, are wearing old style clothes this week to lend support to the Old Fashioned Days theme that builds up to the Steam-Era steam and antique reunion this weekend.

MAIN ST. WANDERERS on Monday, the first day of Old Fashioned Days week in Milton, were Cathy Breen, Emily Pierce, and Cindy Pierce. They had fun showing off their clothes of a bye-gone era.

Steam-Era Committees Work on Fifth Reunion

There's a great spirit of co-operation, and a lot of hard work being put forth to administer this year's fifth annual "Steam-Era" reunion in Milton Fair Grounds. Throughout the past year executive officers and committees have been busy lining up the entertaining features of this weekend's three-day show. These are the men and women responsible for seeing that everyone attending Steam-Era has a happy time:

—A fellow complained that he has trouble with his car — the engine won't start and the payments won't stop. The test of a vocation is the love of the drudgery it involves.

COTTAGE STOVES
As soon as there is enough snow for skiing, many summer cottages become winter ski lodges. Since many of these buildings must be heated by coal or wood burning stoves, it should be remembered that there is danger from carbon monoxide fumes. Whatever the fuel, it should be allowed to burn through before the stove is checked. There should also be adequate ventilation until the top of the fuel is quite red and the gases burned through.

IN THE GOOD OLD DAYS

Grandpa took his best girl courtin' in a buggy. They lived in a gas-lit house with pump-water supply. Grandma made many of her own clothes. Grandpa rode to work on a trolley, and tended the coal fire morning and evening. In 100 years, our way of living is amazingly different. Bob drives Mary miles in a smooth-riding Mercury to catch the latest movie. Their house is push-button electric. Machines do their washing and cleaning, supply heat and amusement. Their food comes from a magic-like freezer. Their clothes, from a store that caters to their tastes and budget. These are the miracles that have been achieved in a century. Advances made so quickly that Mom and Dad, and even Grandma and Grandpa, have lived to see and enjoy them!
