Speaker Describes Visit to Africa For the Boston Presbyterian Women

The September meeting of Boston Presbyterian Church Women's group was held on a recent Wednesday afternoon at the home of Miss C. Turner, with the group president in the chair.

The meeting opened with Doxology and prayer and then the minutes of the last meeting were read by Mrs. Jefferson. The treasurer's report was read and it was followed by the offering dedicated by Mrs. G. McGibbon. The roll call for the day was answered by using the word "sea".

The program was followed from the Glad Tidings and the call to worship and a prayer was given by the president Mrs. E. McGibbon. Following the singing of a hymn, Mrs. Murray read the meditation and Mrs. Smith read from the First Corinthians Chapter 13. An invitation was read from the ladies of Nassageweya Presbyterian Church asking the Boston Church women to attend the 70th Anniversary of their W.M.S. to be held on September 13. Miss Shirley Dredge who has just returned from Nigeria will be the guest speaker.

Thank you notes were read from Rev. Mrs. McFaul and Mrs. Willie. Mrs. Jefferson gave a reading entitled "The Venture into the Inner City" and Mrs. E. McGibbon gave a short reading on the Cecelia residential school. The reading was followed by the singing of a hymn and Mrs. H. Michie closed the meeting with the benediction.

The Ladies' Aid meeting was opened with a prayer by the president Mrs. N. McCready and was followed by the singing of Psalm 31.

Minutes were read and approved and thank you notes were read from Mrs. Robert Thomson, Mrs. Frank McKerr and Susan Smith.

The offering was taken up and the roll call was answered by naming a Canadian article in a home. Mrs. Murray introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Wills of Pinbrook.

Trip To Africa
She told of her trip to Africa and the president and the ladies thanked her for coming. Two verses of a hymn were sung and the Mizpah followed. The lunch committee served lunch and tea.

Development of Hospitals Explained

The development of hospitals from early Egyptian and Indian times to the present, was the subject of a classification talk given at the weekly meeting of the Milton Rotary Club on Tuesday evening of last week.

Hospital administrator Dalton McQuaig noted reference to hospitals had been found in Hindu literature dating from the sixth century B.C. In hospitals in the 13th century two patients shared the same bed, with no segregation of serious and minor illnesses.

Significant changes came when the clergy or monks were prohibited from blood letting as a medical activity, but it was taken over by the barbers.

First Near Montreal
Canada's first hospital was built in the 1600's near Montreal.

The speaker credited Florence Nightingale as being the first hospital administrator supervising laundry, cleanliness, and instituting sanitary conditions in hospitals.

Turning to the local hospital, the administrator told members of the plans underway to expand to approximately 85 beds with two thirds of the cost being born by federal and provincial governments. The balance comes from local campaigns or accumulated surpluses. Tenders for the addition are to be called in January 1966 for completion later that year.

Introduced by John Ostler, the speaker was thanked by Bob McQuaig. The meeting was held in the cafeteria at the hospital.

But it will take some time to retrieve the money spent, in the sale of tickets to boys.

After thinking about the matter, I have concluded that my neighbor and I were wrong in our views about the purpose of the fence. It will prevent boys from carving their initials in the supporting posts. It is difficult to do any carving on steel posts, although they will provide a smoother surface to write on.

THE NEW FENCE AT THE FAIR GROUNDS

The new wire fence at the Fair Grounds has given some entertainment to the residents on Thomas Street. It has also evoked conversation on the street, which is a pleasant pastime in summer. There have been divergent views on the purpose of the fence and various theories have been suggested. Some have wondered if the persons responsible for the erection of the fence, had it placed in position to keep persons in, or to keep little boys out.

One of my neighbors was disturbed when I asked him when the elephants and other wild animals would arrive. He had concluded that the fence gave the grounds an appearance of a concentration camp, as he had seen a similar fence in Germany during the First Great War. He had been soliciting information as to the date of the arrival of internees.

Well, anyway, the planners forgot to take into consideration the ingenuity of youth. When a few boys convene, they can frustrate the well laid plans of men. Early this morning I noted that six little boys had gone over the fence, notwithstanding the double row of barbed wire on the extended arms. How did they do it? Simply, by climbing a tree on the outside of the fence, and dropping off a limb on the inside. They were also ingenious enough to scoop out sufficient earth from the bottom of the fence to afford an easy exit, in case of an emergent desire to escape.

So what will the fence planners do now? They know that Rivard got over a high wall. Now they know that little boys can get over their fence. The residents on Thomas Street hope the beautiful trees will not be cut down to restrict boys from gaining free admission to the Fair Grounds.

Your published report that the fence cost about $3,000, indicates that one thing has been accomplished by the new fence. It is obvious that the expenditure has been a benefit to Canadian economy, especially where fence contractors come into the picture.

Big Boom in Building Permits Issue $366,084 During August

August was a booming month for building in the community, according to totals released this week by building inspector Jack Charlton. Permits with a total value of $366,084 were issued during the month and that total is second only for 1965 to the January total of $969,604 which included the new Manor.

Biggest item for the month was a permit for the construction of the New Holy Rosary Church on Martin St. A permit was also issued for renovations to the Martin St. high school by the Milton Public school board. An addition to Milton Machine Shop on Mill St., a car port, a garage, a storage building and residence accounted for the remainder of the total.

Permits issued for construction and alterations do not include the estimated costs for mechanical trades and are therefore considerably less than the actual cost of completing the building.

Like the best baseball umpire, Sinclair calls 'em as he sees 'em and if toes are trod on . . . well, that's life. Want Arena Program

Santa Claus Gets Shot in Arm

Santa's arrival in Milton this Christmas will be on a greatly reduced scale, if he arrives at all.

During a meeting of Milton Council Monday, Mayor S. G. Childs told members the committee organizing the event for the past many years had received only one letter of interest when they wrote the local service groups asking help with the project.

Floater Problem
The mayor explained the committee was able to obtain the necessary manpower for the project, but the chief difficulty was the floats for the parade.

Reeve C. A. Martin wondered if the arena program could be continued and the actual parade dropped. Councillor G. Addison agreed the cost and effort in a float, good for only about half an hour, was perhaps not really indicated. Indicating its interest in continuing the project, the councillors agreed to have the mayor advise the committee they would make some funds available to them if even the arena program could be continued.

Right Building

A Champion identification of an old Main St. building in last week's "Peeking into Milton's Past" Editorial Page feature, was in error and Joe Waters has put us straight.

The building was identified as "Charlie Chugg's Laundry" and a Champion staffer guessed it was what is now Fashion Beauty Lounge. Mr. Waters says it's the present Park Farm Dairy Bar and the building shown in the background was the Clements block. He thought the parade in the picture was probably a fair day parade.
