

Night School

200 sign up for classes

With a present potential enrollment of around 200, Milton Night School Classes will be subject to some reshuffling before the opening date of October 18.

Mrs. R. G. King, secretary of night classes, reports tailoring, millinery, smocking, copper enamelling and hostess classes will be discontinued because of insufficient enrollment.

The new General Art Class, requested by the art students, is filled to capacity as is Furniture Refinishing.

There is still room for more in Floriculture, Rugmaking, Intermediate Oil Painting, Needlework, Knitting, Crocheting and both Sewing classes. Welding has been applied for to the point where some applications will have to be refused.

Mrs. King said the general picture still leaves night class enrolment near last year's figures.

County nurses focus attention on problem of bargaining unit

Halton county nurses, who have been given to Oct. 21 to re-apply for their jobs, have threatened they will march to the October 18 meeting of county council. At a conference at the Toronto headquarters of the Registered Nurses Association of Ontario, five of the nurses, headed by Mrs. Flora Hesson, said they would draw attention to their problem by marching to the meeting with their husbands and supporters.

The 22 nurses attached to Halton County Health Unit resigned four weeks ago after attempts to gain a bargaining unit were unsuccessful.

The nurses are seeking various methods of support.

Mrs. Hesson, president of the Nurses' Association of the Halton County Health Unit, met last week with officials of the Registered Nurses' Association of Ontario.

Representatives of about half of Ontario's 1,100 public health nurses are expected to meet in Toronto Oct. 15 to decide how far they will support two associations of public health nurses who have resigned because their employers refused to negotiate collectively with them.

As well as the Halton nurses, the others seeking recognition are from Stormont, Dundas and Gengarry Health Units. The groups have agreed to support each other.

The nurses say they feel it is essential to take a stand now. They ask voluntary recognition as a bargaining unit from their boards. They do not have certification under the Labor Relations Act.

The R.N.A.O. has asked the Ontario government for collective bargaining for nurses.

The R.N.A.O. hopes that when the Halton dispute is settled a pattern of bargaining will be set up that could be copied in other units.

Dr. A. F. Bull and two remaining nurses have continued the work of the Halton unit as best they can. The preventative health measures have been suspended, while immunization continues.

Halton County Health Unit advertised for more nurses and has had about a dozen applications. Halton unit has been grey-listed by the R.N.A.O.

FIRE WARNING TO MOTHERS

Two of the most destructive fire hazards in Ontario homes are the careless use and storage of inflammable liquids, and the ignition of cooking fats and oils.

INFLAMMABLE LIQUIDS—Kerosene, paint, gasoline, naphtha and some cleaning fluids give off highly inflammable vapours; they should be used with caution and carefully stored. Keep a carbon dioxide, foam or dry chemical fire extinguisher near their storage area. Oily rags left in cupboards or corners can burst into flames spontaneously. Dispose of them immediately after use.

COOKING-FAT FIRES IN THE KITCHEN—You can reduce the danger of grease fires by keeping your stove clean. Don't let spattered fats build up. Don't leave hot frying-pans unattended. A grease fire can be extinguished with baking soda or smothered with a lid. Keep both handy whenever you're frying.
