Queen of Furrow competition to highlight plowing match at Eden Mills farm Saturday

The scene for the centennial version of the annual Halton County Plowing Match, scheduled for this Saturday, will be the farm of Stan Norrish and Sons. The Norrish farm is situated at Lot 28, Concession 2, in Nassagaweya Twp., one mile south of Eden Mills and four miles north of Moffat.

The "Queen of the Furrow Contest" will once again highlight the event. Farm girls between the ages of 16 and 25 will compete for several prizes and a trophy presented by People's Credit Jewellers, and the opportunity to represent Halton in the International Plowing Match in 1968.

Contestants will be judged a short speech (150 points), plowing ability (250 points) and deportment and appearance (100 points). All contestants should be dressed in slacks and all applications should be forwarded to J. H. Taylor, 1309 Appleby Line, R.R. Burlington, by tomorrow (October 26).

Mrs. Spencer Wilson, Mrs. James Reid and Jack Marchment are members of the Furrow Queen contest committee.

Other features include horseshoe pitching, eight tractor drawn plow matches and one horse drawn plowing event.

Ledwith's Food Market has donated a silver tray as first prize for a special centennial plowing class, open to business and professional men or anyone who has ever participated in a Halton match before. It will consist of two rounds with a walking plow, horses and plows provided.

The horse show, open to plow teams which plowed their respective ridges, will also be held.

All awards will be presented at the banquet at Brookville public school at 7 p.m. Willard Gordon, O.C., of Toronto, will be the guest speaker at the banquet.

Officers of the association are president J. C. Cunningham, first vice George Swann, second vice J. Cameron Marshall, secretary - treasurer J. H. Taylor and past president Lloyd May.

Honorary directors are J. E. Ellenton, Stanley May, Claude F. Pickett, Ross Segsworth, George Readhead, Spencer Plowing and Henry Stanley.

Associate directors are Bert Robertson, Bryan Marshall, John Breckon and Lee Wilkinson.

4-H inter-club competition

Halton wins field crop trophy

At the 37th annual 4-H Inter-Club Competitions held at the University of Guelph on Friday 14 4-H Club members represented seven of the 12 4-H Clubs from Halton. A total of 227 teams from all counties and districts of Ontario competed in 9 classes.

In the Field Crop Section, which includes all Forage, Grain, Corn, Tobacco and Sugar Beets, there were 62 teams entered. The Halton 4-H Corn Club team, consisting of Murray Brownridge and Carl Middlebrook, placed first in the competition, with a score of 888 out of a possible 1,040. The Halton 4-H Forage Club team of Carol Swackhamer and Bob Leslie placed second, with a score of 841. This is the second time in three years that Halton County has won the Field Crop Trophy.

Murray Brownridge was the highest individual in the competition with 459 out of a possible 520. Bob Leslie and Carl Middlebrook were tied for the second highest individual score, with 429 points each. Bob Leslie received the top score in questions, and he and Carol Swackhamer had the highest score in this part of the competition.

The team of Carl Middlebrook and Murray Brownridge had perfect scores of 200 in the placing and reasons for the class of wheat. In the hay class, Carl Middlebrook and Bob Leslie were the only two contestants who placed the class correctly, and Murray Brownridge got 49 out of 50 in his placing.

In the 4-H farm and home electric competition, the Halton 4-H Electric Club placed sixth out of eight teams competing, with a score of 688 out of 1040. The team members were Rosemary Booth and Bob Tarzwell.

In the beef class competition the Halton 4-H Beef Calf Club team of Bill Jackson and Doug Gardhouse was tied for fifth place out of 37 teams, with a score of 879 out of 1040, and the Acton 4-H Beef Calf Club was tied for 23rd place. Team members were Bob and Bill Lasby.

In the dairy calf competition in which 72 teams were entered, the Halton 4-H Jersey-Guernsey-Ayrshire Club team of Murray McCaig and Bruce Pickering was tied for 13th place, and the South Halton 4-H Holstein Calf Club, consisting of Doug Stokes and Paul Bennett was 25th.

At the banquet following the competition, trophies were presented to the winning teams. Pat Kerr, president of the Junior Farmers Association of Ontario, briefly addressed the audience, and congratulated the members from all parts of Ontario. She stressed in her remarks that everyone was a winner, but in life people are not looking at you to see whether you win or lose, but how you play the game.

Ken Lance, Assistant Deputy Minister in Charge of Services of the Ontario Department of Agriculture and Food, mentioned that there were three kinds of people — those who make things happen, those who watch things happen, and those who don't know what's going on. He said 4-H'ers belonged to the first class.

One farm organization rejected by Unionists

Hopes for building one general farm organization in Ontario appear to have been dashed, at least for the time being. But the president of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture says his organization's "search for a basis for building a meaningful single organization will not be stopped by this set-back."

Charles Munro of Embro was commenting on a resolution passed at a recent directors' meeting of the Ontario Farmers' Union. The resolution turned down an offer from the Federation to have the Ontario section of last spring's Ottawa March Committee work on plans for a new single farm organization. (The Federation and the Union were Ontario representatives on the march committee.)

Mr. Munro's comments are in an editorial under his signature in the current issue of the newspaper Farm and Country.

He says it is "with shock and regret that OFA members reacted to rejection of their latest bid for discussion of farm organization unity. "They instructed their executive to keep the door open for future discussions."

ELECTRIC CURRENT

Do you have an electric drill, stove, washing machine or other electrical appliance that gives you a bit of a tingle sometimes? If so, you shouldn't neglect it. This is a warning that some of the insulation has deteriorated and it's getting dangerous. That little tingle could develop into a big jolt the next time you use it. So fix it now.

Liberty is the only thing you cannot have unless you are willing to give it to others.

Drivers all safe? course is cancelled

Due to a lack of response and interest in the proposed course in modern driving that was to be held in the Agricultural office, starting on October 31, this course has been cancelled, the Ontario Department of Agriculture reported this week.

Some of Pontiac's new features buzz, glow, flash, click or reveal themselves on demand, but mostly they just look after you with quiet dependability.

Who said you can't have everything?

(1) Bzzzz. Your Pontiac tells you if you leave your keys in the ignition; open the driver's door and a buzzer sounds. (2) The driver's wiper blade now bends at the elbow to sweep around corners. Neat trick. And hides away when not in use. (3) "Astro Ventilation" on the side windows spells new closed car comfort and no side vent windows—with Grande Parisienne Sport Coupe.

More? How about hideaway headlights standard on Grande Parisiennes? And concealed windshield wipers standard on all full-size Pontiacs? You get the "extras" at no extra cost—when you go Pontiac.
