A SUCCESSFUL AUCTION SALE of contributed items was staged Saturday by the Optimist Club of Milton. Following two earlier rainy sessions, the club had excellent warm, sunny weather for the sale, with a good attendance. Three auctioneers, Chris Schouten, Tiny Hopkins and Jack Elliott handled the sale in relays.

Dozens of buyers picked up bargains and the club raised an estimated $500 from the proceeds. Our third eye view shows auctioneer Tiny Hopkins coaxing the crowd into upping their bids on the china he holds. The sale featured everything including the kitchen sinks — two of them. Staff photo

Halton-Wentworth riding Liberal John Morison confident winning as good Trudeau salesman

Cool and confident describes John Morison, Liberal candidate for Halton-Wentworth, at last Friday's press conference in an air-conditioned room at the Estaminet Inn, Burlington.

"There's no chance in the world that we won't have a majority government in Ottawa. I think I will probably have a larger majority here in Burlington."

Although Mr. Morison has served as elected representative twice in the former riding of Wentworth, this is his first venture in the new riding of Halton-Wentworth. He lives in Dundas.

"I was concerned at first, that many Conservatives would go home, but Mr. Stanfield has come across so poorly, that I think they'll swing with us."

Mr. Morison wasted few words in summing up his opposition.

He called Conservative criticism of his record in Parliament, "irresponsible campaigning."

"They are getting desperate because they can't talk about their own product, so they start throwing dirt."

He accused his PC opponent Jim Swanborough of failing to produce a policy.

Of New Democrat Ted Mac-Donald, Morison commented, "Ted's a fine young man. I hope he continues teaching."

When asked for his reactions to Norman Braden's campaign as an independent Liberal in the northern part of the county he chuckled, "I didn't know if he was coming in as a Liberal or a Conservative. I don't think it's going to make any difference. He may get 50 votes."

Mr. Morison was accused of allying his campaign too closely with Prime Minister Trudeau. "Will John Morison win this riding or will Trudeau?" a reporter asked.

In reply Mr. Morison stated, "I certainly will help, but it doesn't matter whether the votes are for me or for Trudeau, as long as he wins."

"I'm winning this area as a good salesman — Trudeau is a good product."

In explaining why he has allied so closely with the Trudeau image after going to the nomination convention as a strong Winters supporter, Morison said, "I did support Winters and I was disappointed when he wasn't elected."

"However, in retrospect and having gotten to know Trudeau, I think he is the best leader we could have chosen."

The question was raised whether

Norm Braden, 22

Independent Liberal tosses hat in ring

Norman Braden, 22, of Waterdown became the fourth candidate in the Halton-Wentworth riding federal race when he entered as an independent Liberal last week.

Braden says he is 100 percent behind Trudeau. He said he felt homosexuality and prostitution should be legalized. Braden goes even further in his beliefs, and says abortions and birth control should be made available to those who need them.

He calls for a general overhaul in legislation dealing with sex and birth control and stands his case for "liberating sex." Braden is very critical of violence on television or in the movies.

The youngest of four candidates in Halton-Wentworth, Braden has lived all his life in Waterdown. He went to school in Hilliard College and Waterdown and District High School and later studied a one year course at the Institute of Political Science in Toulouse, France and a three year course on a similar subject at Simsbury University in Massachusetts.

If elected, Braden plans to give a leave of absence from Simsbury and return home to graduate. While in the states he worked on a campaign for Sen. Eugene McCarthy in New Hampshire. Braden has a crew of 40 young men here for great constituency representation for industry, which I will give."

Under the leadership of Peter Cadeau, Campaign Manager, the Morison campaign will wind up with a visit from Pierre Elliot Trudeau in Burlington on June 24, followed by a Young Liberal Trudeau barbecue dinner in the Central arena.

"I would hope that the people of Burlington would be above this type of racism," he replied.

Mr. Morison feels that this election will bring an end to the Social Credit party. "I think it's a mistake to nominate them as a party and that they should get equal time to speak in the house when they have three members. They should be put off in a corner," he added.

What would be done for Burlington if elected MP?

Morison stated, "There is a people canvassing in Burlington and Dundas on his behalf.

Fred Brown, 22, of Oakville teacher in Milne before he moved to Oakville 33 years ago, Fred Brown is planning to retire from the profession at the end of the school term and friends are holding a special night in his honor on Wednesday, June 15.

Mr. Brown is presently principal of Oakville's Brookwood P.S. The appreciation night will be held at New Central Public School, starting at 7 p.m. Organizers have issued a special invitation to former pupils and associates in Milton and district to attend and join in congratulating Mr. Brown on his years of service.

With the exception of a presentation by his Oakville co-workers, the entire evening will be on a social basis without a program.

Auditor warns Nassagaweya tax arrears reach $68,260

Nassagaweya's operating losses at the end of 1981 reached $8,260 or 23.6% per cent of the current tax, auditors Lewis, Rosska, Chapman and McGillivray warned the township council in their year-end report on financials.

The auditors noted this was quite an increase over the 18.17 per cent figure of two years earlier.
