

MILTON ROTARIANS shared an austerity meal with District Governor Gerry Woll when he made his official visit to the local club on Tuesday of last week. Water, celery and sandwiches were shared with the extra funds being raised for a district fund for international aid.

Warns regional government studies will break up Halton

A current study of regional government on a county basis may force the break-up of the county, Deputy- Reeve W. Gillies of Oakville warned Halton County Council last week.

Mr. Gillies noted Burlington had recently studied the possibility of city status and Oakville was currently preparing a similar study. He recounted that Peel county representatives were not satisfied with a proposal from that county which would put regional government at the county level.

"We're only surveying to present the county", he noted. "As an individual I support Oakville and Burlington city status. The Dept. of Municipal Affairs is definite lack of it granting city status declared."

Campbellville plans own fire substation

Nassagaweya Council learned Monday of a plan for the Village of Campbellville to set up a substation for the Milton Fire Department. Trustees of the village Robert Elliott and Gordon Agnew explained they had a suitable building adjacent to Early's Garage and asked permission to put a 1,000 gallon water tank on a truck.

Mr. Elliott said the first 10 minutes of any fire was crucial, and although the Milton brigade has always been prompt a small brigade right on hand could be very helpful.

Mr. Agnew pointed out fire insurance rates would drop for a five mile radius of the village if they had a substation to the Milton Department.

A committee from council was appointed to meet with a delegation from the new brigade and a representative from the Ontario Firefighters Association to set up the substation.

The Oakville deputy proposed a meeting of all members of the county council to receive the views of members. "If we go for a single county unit, all we would be doing is shoring up the county government and I don't think it can be done", he declared.

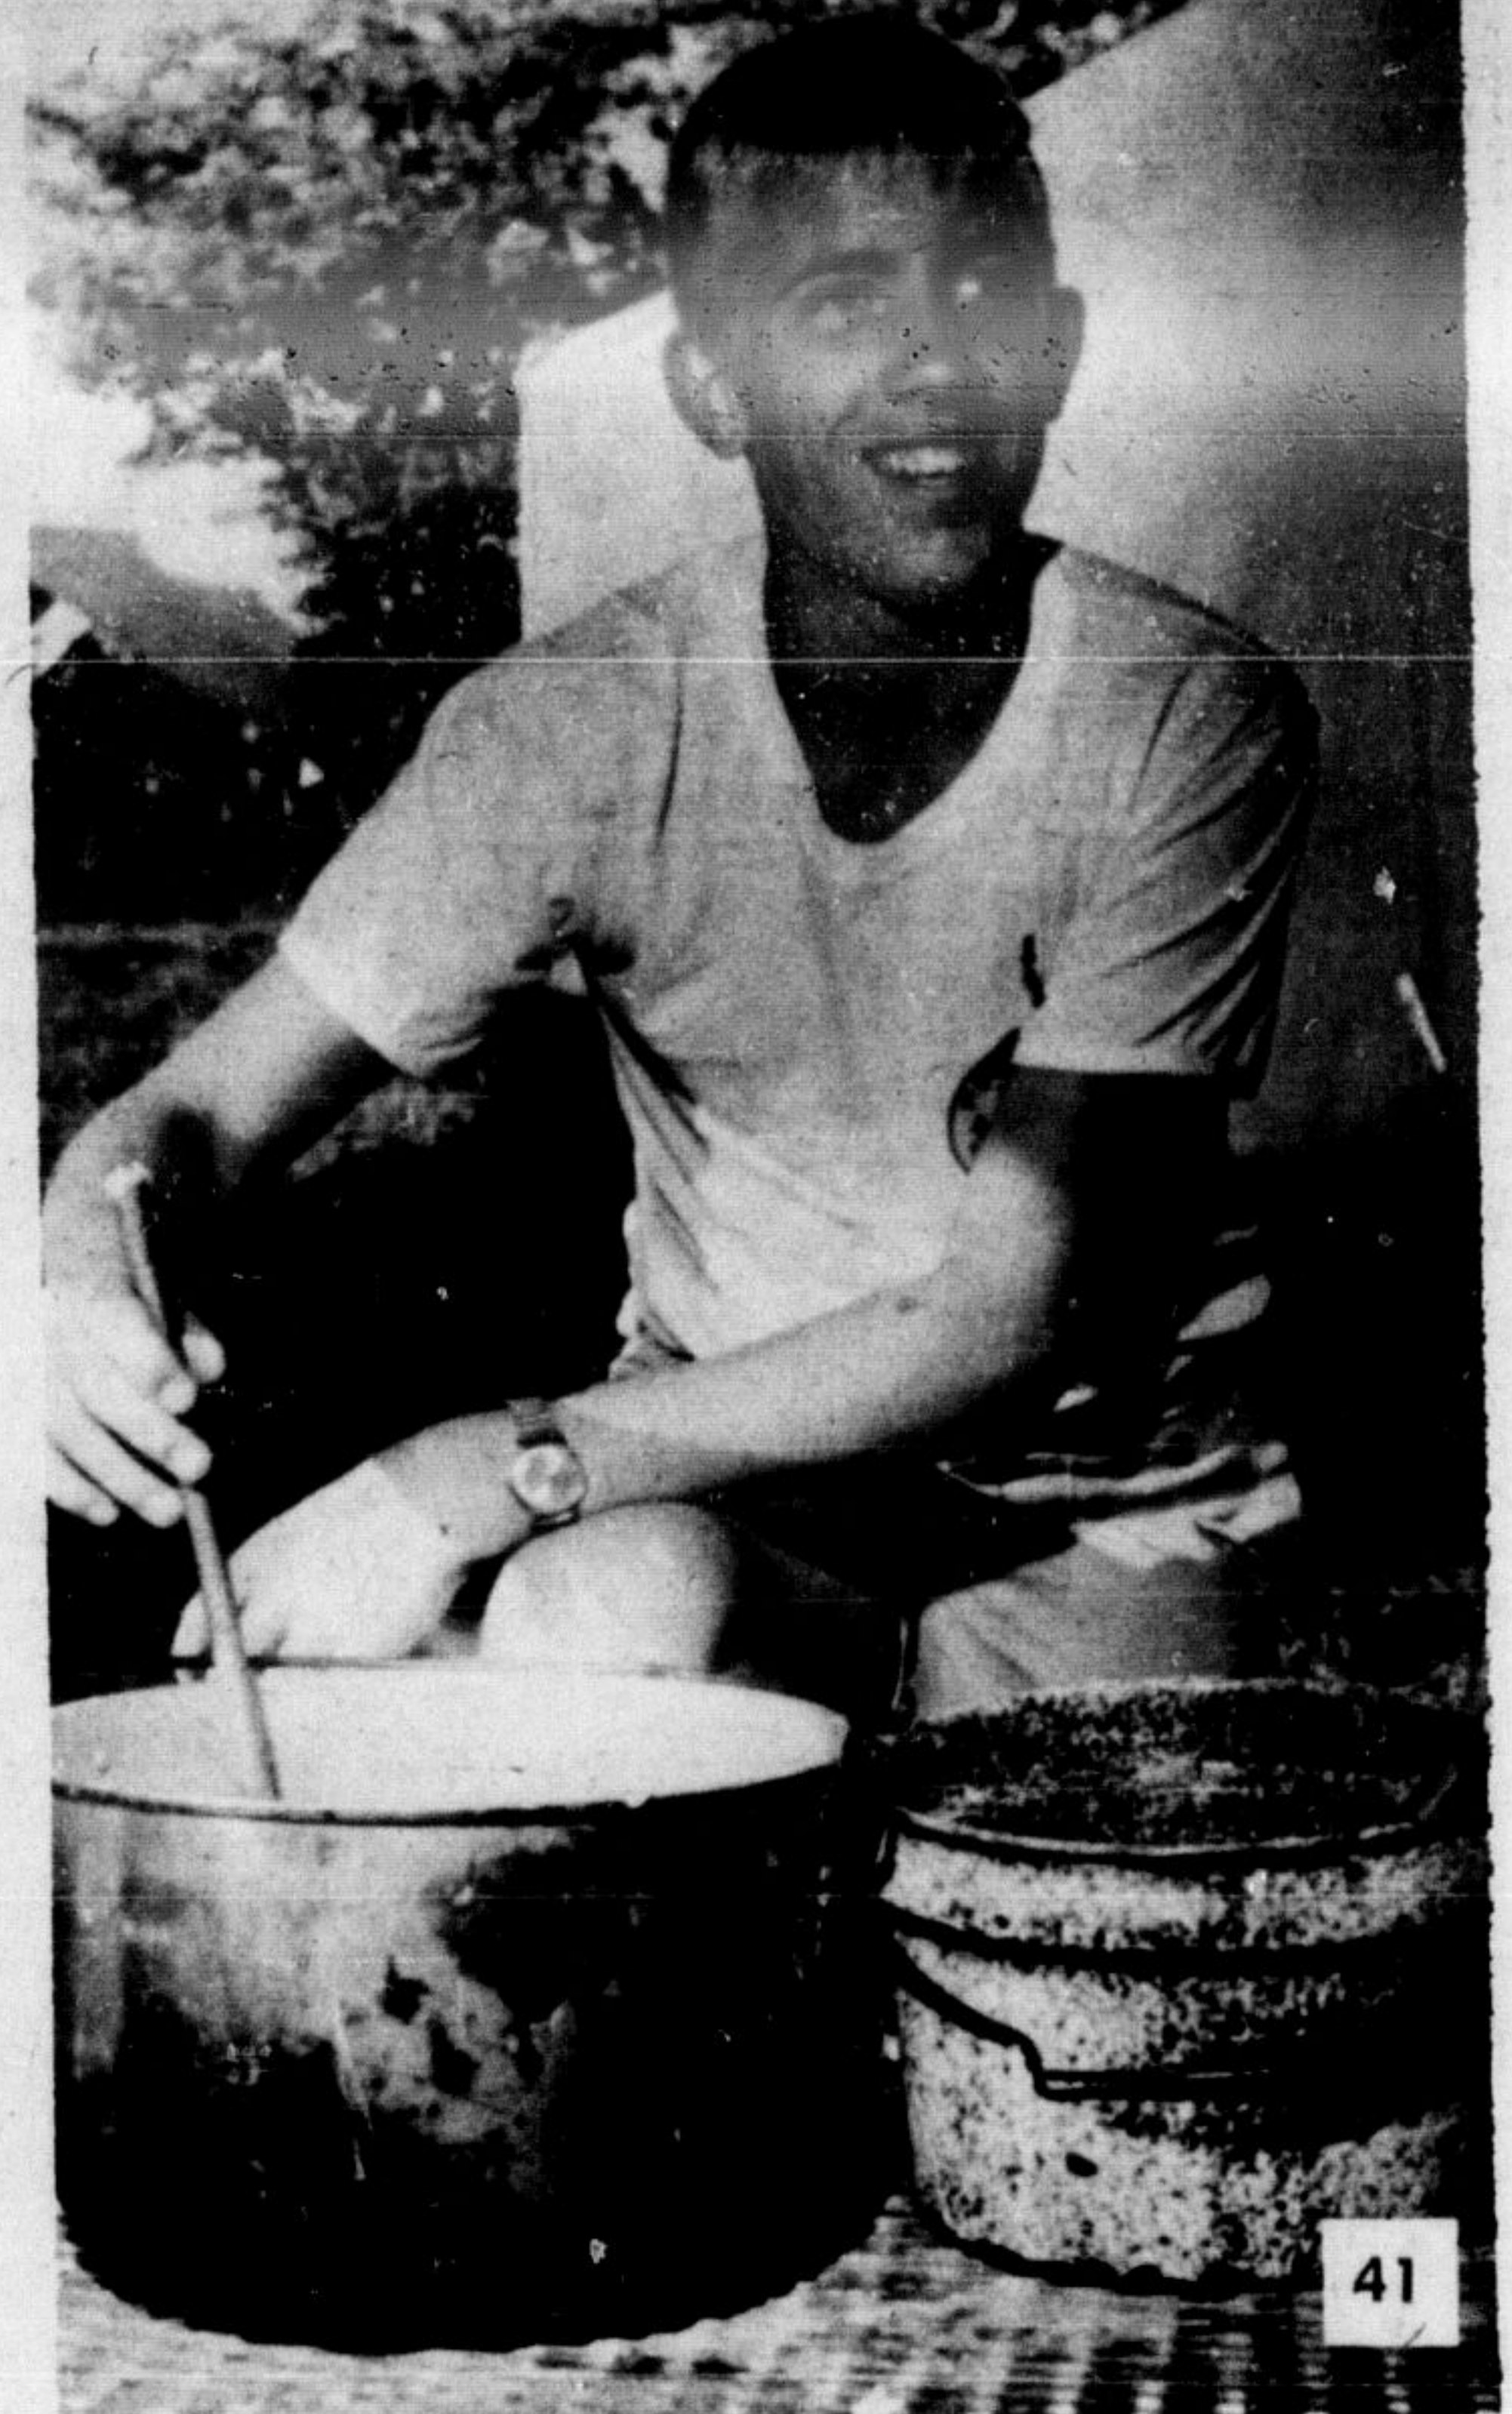

Reeve H. Hinton of Acton defended the county committee's ability to prepare background information for submission to the county

Hey, what's cookin'??

JUST ABOUT EVERYTHING was cooking at the Ontario Jamboree, including a few Scouts who got too close to warm pots and open fires. They ate plenty and they ate well throughout the fun-filled week. Photo 36 - Santa Monica, California "chefs" Bruce Brode and Bob Maxey donned the proper head-gear for one evening meal, consisting of burgers and peas cooked over charcoal. Photo 41 - John Vanderkooy of Acton enjoyed K.P. duties, because that way he got to see what he was eating from start to finish. Photo 20 - South Peel boys dig into instant potatoes and hamburgs. Photo 33 - All set to chomp into a cob of fresh-boiled corn at the Wednesday night cornfeed was Robert Stark, Toronto. Big Creek, Sudbury, Bermuda and Buffalo Scouts went together on this roast. And finally, Photo 44 includes three Milton campers Jim Kosulich, Robert Hawkins and Jeff Phillips plus the cook, Paul Milne of Oakville, shown preparing one lunchtime feast. Well, thank goodness for can openers!
