Well over 1,000 people strolled across the grass buying up bargains at the Milton Hospital Auxiliary's annual lawn party held Saturday on the lawn of Dr. and Mrs. C. A. Martin, Martin St.

Fourteen booths were set up and everything from used toys to new clothes passed over the counters during the afternoon fund-raising event.

The women also unveiled their new cook book at the sale and it sold well. Auxiliary women spent over a year and a half compiling different recipes for the book which sells at $3. a copy.

Many Auxiliary members convened the booths and they included Mrs. E. B. Clements—"Unique Boutique", Mrs. John Beverley—wool booth, Mrs. L. Dirksen—apron booth, Mrs. R. F. McCuaig—cook book booth, Mrs. M. Hatherley—library booth, Mrs. O. K. Van Sickle—preserves booth, Mrs. H. Brown—tea table, Mrs. D. O'Dell—and the hospital Candy Strippers—fish pond, Mrs. D. Green—candy booth.

Mrs. E. Joyce—bake booth, Mrs. R. W. Heard—used toys, Mrs. K. Elsley—soft drinks and food, Mrs. G. Stark—penny table and Mrs. K. Young—white elephant.

Mrs. William Rowney was the convener of the mammoth affair while publicity was handled by Mrs. J. Conway and the draw and ticket sales were handled by Mrs. R. Frame.

Businessmen's fall course not yet full

The course for Milton businessmen on marketing products and service is slated to begin Monday night and to date, the register is not yet full.

It is being conducted jointly by the Milton Chamber of Commerce and Sheridan College and runs each Monday night for 10 weeks. Subjects covered by the course include consumer behavior, pricing and grouping for profit, the salesman's role and advertising.

Cost for the 10 week course is $35 which covers the materials used and a graduation reception. This year the course is being conducted at Milton District Hospital's lecture hall by Fred Irwin, a private consultant in marketing.

The sessions run from 7.30 to 9.30 p.m. Interested applicants can contact the Chamber secretary Earl G. Black.

THE UNVEILING of the Milton District Hospital Auxiliary's new cook book took place at the garden party on Saturday. Mrs. R. F. McCuaig and Mrs. J. M. Ledwith examine the book which they helped to sell. The book took one and a half years to compile and will be on sale in the future in stores around Milton.—(Staff Photo)

Guide training teams to travel share recreation, culture skills

"Operation Out-Look", a project of the Girl Guides of Canada—Guides du Canada, will take 13 young women from across Canada to the Northwest Territories and Newfoundland this summer. Chosen as outstanding representatives of the Guide association the girls, aged 16 - 20, will form two training teams to share their recreational and cultural skills with young people at opposite ends of their country.

Seven young women from eastern Canada will lead two week-long training camps for young adults at Prelude Lake, 22 miles from Yellowknife.

They will help their trainees plan camp programs, menus, buying of supplies, teach health and safety rules and share cultural skills such as folk-singing, dancing, puppetry, crafts, nature and games. Trainees who will come from all over the Territories, will learn how to organize youth activities in their own communities on their return. Their visiting leaders also hope to learn from them.

Guide-in-charge is Dr. Mary Habgood of Inuvik, N.W.T. and her assistant is Mrs. A. E. Hayden, Whitehorse, Y.T.

Six girls from western Canada will travel by boat to such Newfoundland outposts as Port aux Basques, Burgeo, Ramea, St. Albans, Harbour Breton and Terrenceville, and by car and bus to Grand Falls, St. John's and Cornerbrook. They will be billeted in local schoolhouses and will bring their crafts, songs and leadership training skills to people of all ages.

Guide-in-charge is Phyllis Reid, a public health nurse from Newfoundland, and her assistant is Marjorie Pike, of St. John's, Newfoundland.

"Operation Out-Look" has been planned for more than a year, and the girls are thoroughly briefed by monthly letters from leaders. Also being circulated are training kits containing records, tapes, slides, books, craft assignments and scrapbooks to familiarize the girls with their respective areas. Teams will meet in Toronto en route to both projects for a complete briefing and later for evaluation sessions.
