Council to protest school sale to board

A letter outlining proposed developments on Bronte St. will be forwarded to the Halton County Board of Education and three councillors will attend the Board's April 9 meeting to express opposition to the sale of a piece of the J. M. Denyes school site.

Milton Council approved the action Monday and Deputy Reeve P. Barr and Councillors C. Johnson and A. Melanson were named to meet with the Board. The action came following council protests as well as ratepayer opposition to an application for a land separation. The Board proposed to sell a strip of land from the school site to Peter K. McWilliams who already owns a slice. The one holding is not adequate for building without the other. Councillor Johnson noted proposals for extensive apartment and condominium projects on Bronte St. lands. This would increase the population attending the Denyes school and he expressed opposition to selling a section of the site.
