

Rotary Club plans music association

Plans of the Milton Rotary Club to start a music association in the Milton area were announced recently. The directors of the club feel that a great deal of enjoyment for many residents, both as participants and listeners, is untapped for the lack of an organization capable of providing direction and promotion in the general area of music participation.

Reg DiCola, Chairman of the Rotary Committee, outlined the purpose of the program to the club this week. It is hoped that various interest in the music field will find an opportunity for development, but that immediate emphasis would be on a choral group. With the co-operation and assistance of Holy Rosary Church, a program of varied Christmas music will be presented by the new group in early December as a combined choir with the Holy Rosary church choir and possibly other groups.

Has support
Mrs. I. A. Hunter, leader of the University Women's Club

Chanssonettes, has expressed her enthusiastic support for the project and numerous others have indicated their expectation to participate. It is expected a choir of 30 to 35 voices will be formed initially.

In his report Mr. DiCola stated that rehearsals would be held at Holy Rosary church starting on Thursday, Sept. 10 and held once a week on either Tuesday or Thursday nights thereafter. Membership for participation in the December concert will remain open until Sept. 24 only, as rehearsal time after that would be insufficient.

Recall efforts
Recalling the efforts of the Rotary Club in initiating the skating club and minor hockey in Milton, Mr. DiCola pointed out that the Club would act as the promoter of the organization in the expectation that eventually an organization would develop that could continue on its own steam.

Rotarians Mike Ledwith, Dick Copely and Ned Glover were named as Committee Members.

No-return bottles to be collected here

A three car garage at the corner of Main and Elizabeth Sts. will be used as a collection depot for the Operation Survival bottle drive. The group plans to sell the old bottles to Glass Container Council of Canada for $15 a ton, to be used as asphalt paving beds. Money collected will be used to purchase informative books for the group.

during August and bring them to the depot during the third week of September, either afternoons or evenings. It would be appreciated if the bottles were washed and stored in cardboard cartons.

Operation Survival members also praised Ledwith's Super Save Market for its decision to convert back to stocking returnable bottles once present non-returnable stock has been cleared out.

Build bigger, better chalet at Glen Eden

Rennovations are expected to get underway this week as Halton Regional Conservation Authority undertake improvements at the ski chalet at Glen Eden ski area. Skiing enthusiasts have operated in crowded conditions at the chalet for several years now. The present facilities are with only a small lounge area and a small kitchenette.

with more washrooms and better kitchen and better eating facilities.

Miss Fines said the present ski patrol lodgings will be torn down to make room for a bigger and better chalet. The chalet is expected to be ready to go for skiing season this year.

Better facilities
Public relations officer for HRCA Dianne Fines said the addition would be in two stores

Nassagaweya seeks action on strip

Dear Mr. Downs

May I once again send my sincere congratulations on your recent award won by The Champion for being the second best weekly paper. As I have said before, it is getting bigger and better every year. The day is coming soon when it will be voted as number one, for with its Editor Roy Downs and his staff it can't help but be the best of them all. Good luck and continued success to all.

Also I want to say at this time, thank you to Mr. Downs for his kindness to me in giving me space for my new column "Philosophy." I have had poems printed in "The Poet's Corner" for a number of years previous and enjoyed that too.

I wish to thank all the kind people who have called and written to me to tell me how much they enjoy my new column in The Champion. I hope I will be able to continue on with it as long as I am able to. Thanks again to you all and especially to The Champion and Roy Downs for their kindness to me.

Yours truly
Edith Sharpe

Alarmed at the heavy accident and death toll on a section of Highway 401, Nassagaweya Township Council has asked the Minister of Highways to investigate the cause.

Council endorsed a resolution noting the four mile stretch of highway had become known as "killer strip" and "we petition the Minister of Highways to ascertain why this stretch of 401 in the 10 years that it has been open should have contributed to the death of many, many persons and countless accidents."

The resolution suggested that "possibly certain curves or areas in these four miles of 401 have not been properly designed or constructed and therefore could be the cause of the very high number of accidents and deaths."

The resolution was directed to the Hon. George Kerr and Premier John Roberts as well as the Minister of Highways.

Fun at Rotary carnival

Attempting a revival the Rotary Club of Milton plans to stage a Carnival in Rotary Park just as they used to a number of years ago.

The carnival is scheduled for a Tuesday night August 18 and will feature "masses of food" plus "all the fun of a fair" according to committee members.

Rotarians and their helpers will be manning a number of events designed for all age group from the fish pond to the nail driving contest.

Everyone is invited to the event which promises fun for the whole family.

"Sure we hope to make some money but we want to provide a bit of mid-summer fun too", Committee Chairman Bob Reed declared in describing the event. He recalled earlier Rotary Carnivals had done just that and it would be the objective again, perhaps paving the way for bigger events in succeeding years.

Corn patch raiders run from gun fire

Three bathing suited corn patch raiders didn't count on a loaded 22 rifle when they "hijacked" the patch of W. Williams on Commercial St., around 6:30 p.m. Saturday evening.

While two fled at the first shot fired into the air, one snitcher was frozen in his tracks and later had to talk the incident over with local police, before returning to the party from which he had arrived.

Mr. Williams wife first spotted the trio from a bedroom window and alerted her husband in the next room. The couple could see the trio further down a row, loading a plastic bag with corn. Later investigation showed 20 ears were on the verge of being stolen. Mr. Williams and a brother-in-law pursued the thieves on foot, but two escaped through a marshy, mosquito infested swamp at back of the barn.

From Toronto

Police investigation revealed the apprehended thief was from Toronto and attending a pool party in the vicinity.

Mr. Williams refused to press charges and wouldn't hear of the thief returning empty handed. He then presented him with a complimentary gift of old, dried corn on the cob, peeled and ready for the pot.

"The other two runaways will just have to make do with their scratches and bites," he laughed.

Brochure to outline Sheridan's programs

For the first time in Halton County, a common brochure containing Sheridan College Continuing Education courses and recreation programs in Halton will be available to the public.

The information contained in the publication was compiled by Sheridan College, Halton County Board of Education, Oakville Parks and Recreation Department and Burlington Parks and Recreation Department.

To inform Halton county residents of what is going on in their community, the publication will include a complete educational and recreational package made up of course and program listings for fall.

The brochure will be approximately 8 to 12 pages published in tabloid newspaper form. The cover was designed in Oakville by Sheridan's Graphic Designer Larry Williamson.

During the first week of September, the brochure will be delivered to approximately 53,000 homes in Burlington, Oakville, Milton, Campbellville, Georgetown, Acton, Hornby and Moffat.

People are requested to retain the brochure for future reference. Registration for the courses and programs outlined in the booklet will be taken the third week of September, however, advance registrations will be accepted.

The publication is expected to be revised two or three times a year in order to help familiarize Halton County residents with courses and activities available in their area.
