A VISIT TO MORAINÉ LAKE, ALBERTA

An unforgettable part of one of our Western trips was the visit we paid to a little lake high up in the Rocky Mountain Range in the province of Alberta. Situated northwest of Calgary in the Banff National Park, it is one of the most outstanding pieces of scenery in the area and not to be missed if you are planning a trip to include the Rockies.

Nonetheless spectacular is the approach to Moraine Lake. The way is plainly marked as you motor from Banff to Lake Louise. As we drove carefully around the curves and climbed the steep inclines, we noticed that small streams along the roadway carried the runoff of melted snow from the slopes above. At one point we seemed to be going downhill but observed that the stream was running in the opposite direction. In hopes of more closely viewing the phenomenon of water running uphill we stopped the car. We were disappointed to learn that while the water did run in the opposite direction the driver had been steadily accelerating and had not used the brake at all. The cars ahead though, did seem to be on a lower level than we were; it was an optical illusion not formerly experienced.

At a scenic lookout built for the purpose we stopped to use the camera. The road curved around a mountain and beyond the shoulder was a sheer drop-off of hundreds of feet. Across the valley miles wide gleamed the snowy peaks of many mountains — named years ago by the Indians as The Valley of Ten Peaks — shining icy blue in the hot July sunshine. The altitude was such that we had to breathe deeply or become extremely light-headed.

The scene we beheld was "awful" in the true sense of the word! Never had any sight so filled us with awe and at the same time given such pure joy in the beholding. There were mountains to the right of us so high you couldn't see their tops, mountains to the left beyond miles of valley tree tops as far as the eye could see and mountains behind us with the road carved seven miles through it.

We eventually broke over a hill and looked down at Moraine Lake gleaming in the sun like a large bright aquamarine jewel. Lofty peaks guarded the site on one side right down to the water's edge, giving the impression that the mile-wide lake was much smaller. A fringe of lacy evergreens bordered the two-mile length, then farther back, the blue, blue mountains again.

We couldn't get out of the car fast enough to find a suitable spot from which to take color pictures. Much to our amazement, any place was suitable; no matter where we stood the scene changed enough to make a perfect picture. One time there'd be a background of far-away mountains, perfectly formed cedars in the foreground and the sapphire lake in between. The next move of only a few steps in another direction showed a closer mountain, multicolored rocks in the foreground and a change in the water's color.

A plaque explained that two rockslides had been responsible for the damming up of the waters to make a lake of such unusual formation. The outlet of the lake was over a rough, steep falls which broke the stillness of this hidden paradise.

No noisy outboard motors desecrated the peacefulness of the spot. Instead, two bright canoes were being paddled leisurely across the glassy surface of the unbelievably colorful lake.

Record crowds turn out at Rotary swim pool

Milton and area residents seem to be beating the heat these days with a cooling dip in Rotary Park Pool.

To date a total of 11,500 people have paid admittance to the pool, reports supervisor Bob Martin.

New homes are fewer

Nassagaweya building department issued six building permits for construction valued at $92,600 during July, bringing the total for the year to $579,295. One industrial permit for a $36,000 addition to Ontario Plastics south of Number 7 Highway near the Fifth Line and a $30,000 permit for construction of a Church Camp on the Fifth line were issued in July.

Adult lessons have had a record response this year. Classes run Monday to Friday from 6 to 6.45 p.m. Fee is $2 per week.

The children's morning swim session has proved the largest yet. Approximately 250 youngsters have already registered, and more are still to come. A survival swimming course will also resume Monday evening from 5 to 6 p.m. Fee for this 10 day course is $3.50.

Seven candidates from Milton were present for leadership training program exams of the Royal Life Saving and Red Cross Societies. Result was a 100 per cent pass rate. Receiving Red Cross Awards were Cindy Corp, Pam Branch and Jon Hansen. Bronze Medallions went to Nancy Noble, Van McPhail, Kevin Speicher and Leigh Speicher. Tests were taken at Rotary Park Pool Thursday morning.

With "EARTHA"

When we pour our paint supplies such as turpentine, brush cleaner or (heaven forbid) pesticides or insecticides down our drains we are doing harm to our water systems.

Sewerage plants can only remove oil and solid waste and then treat the remaining water for bacteria. In our case the treated water ends up in Sixteen Mile Creek, still containing all the other goodies we have managed to pour down our sinks or flush away.

While we can no longer use the creek for recreational purposes, we can at least pollute it as little as possible.

Milton Council briefs

During last week's meeting, members of Milton Council:

—Learned the town has been offered a free land fill site on Base Line Rd. west of the CNR embankment.

—Gave third reading to a by-law to ban parking on the north side of King St. from Hugh to Brown Sts.

—Arranged a tour of townhouses in the Toronto area for 4 p.m. this afternoon (Wednesday) in company with officials of Chaingate Investments who propose some of these units in Milton.

—Learned the big tree on Sydney St. which was once ordered to be chopped down, then received a "stay of execution", had been left up but was trimmed by a crew of tree men last week.

—Agreed to place parking blocks at the street line in front of two properties on the north side of Mill St. to alleviate a parking problem. The work is to be done on a trial basis.

—Getting married? Stories and photos on your wedding must be submitted to The Champion for publication within one month after the wedding day.

RECENTLY MARRIED in Ebenezer United Church were Mr. and Mrs. Murray Fatt. The bride is the former Susan Ward, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Ward of Campbellville. —(Photo by Willey and Clarke, Guelph).

Wedding

Fatt-Ward

Baskets of white mums and gladioli decorated Ebenezer United Church for the July 11 wedding of Susan Eloise Ward and Murray Charles Fatt. Rev. W. A. Leeman officiated at the 3 p.m. double-ring ceremony. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl F. Ward of R. R. 1, Campbellville. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Fatt of R. R. 1, Puslinch.

The bride wore a long white empire style gown of lagoda with a lace bodice. It had short sleeves, a stand-up collar and was accented with a large white bow and tiny buttons from the collar to the waistline on the back. The back of the dress flowed into a train.

Her shoulder length veil fell from an orchid accented with stephanotis. She carried a corsage of pink sweetheart roses on a white Bible. The corsage was used to wear with her going-away outfit.

Blue crepe dresses

Mrs. Judy Wilson of Inglewood, aunt of the bride was matron of honor. Miss Elizabeth Wilson of Snelgrove, cousin of the bride and Miss Eleda Ward of Campbellville, sister of the bride acted as bridesmaids. They wore floor length dresses of turquoise blue polyester crepe which had empire style waists and lace bodices with a small ruffle around the neckline and on the short sleeves. They wore white shoes.

They carried bouquets of pink carnations accented with a pink velvet ribbon. Their headdresses were made of a single pink carnation on a background of pink velvet ribbon accented with pieces of lily-of-the-valley. The bride's gifts to her attendants were pearl drops on sterling silver chains.

—Ontario Municipal Board has approved a 12-unit senior citizens' apartment and 18 semi-detached geared-to-income units for the town of Acton. Residents in the area had objected the site was not suitable for senior citizens.

Cargill-Kaiser

In a double-ring ceremony in St. Alban's Anglican church, Acton, Adriana H. M. Kaiser and Brian James Cargill were married. Rev. H. Dawson officiated for the afternoon ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. J. Kaiser, Voorburg, Holland and the groom the son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl F. Cargill, R. R. 1, Campbellville.

Mrs. F. Oakes, Acton, played the organ and Miss Sandra Boles, Burlington sang The Lord's Prayer and Wedding Prayer.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a full length satin gown accented with lace. Her hair was interwoven through her headpiece, and she carried red roses and white carnations.

Maid of honor was Miss Jose Kaiser, sister of the bride, wearing full length green silk and carrying pink and white carnations.

The two bridesmaids, Mrs. Pat Lomborg and Mrs. Hanneke Slingerlandt, Cornwall, wore yellow and also carried pink and white carnations.

Groomsman was Bruce Cargill, brother of the groom; ushers were Brian Bessey of Guelph and Albert Blom of Guelph.

The reception was held in St. Alban's Parish Hall with a dance in the Music Centre afterward.

With the bride's mother ill in hospital, the maid of honor received the guests in her place. The groom's mother assisted in receiving, wearing aqua silk with pink and white carnation corsage.

The couple left on a trip to Ottawa, the bride wearing a green and yellow silk dress and coat with corsage of yellow roses.

They are living in Mississauga. Guests attended the wedding from Guelph, Toronto, Cornwall, Burlington, Hamilton, Windsor and Holland.

Several showers were held for the bride before her wedding and a stag party was held for the groom.

Building permits

Building permits for construction valued at $49,675 were issued by the building department in the town of Milton. Permits issued cover several renovation projects, two demolition projects and one swimming pool. This brings the total for the year to date to $682,000.

ADRIANA KAISER and Brian Cargill were married in St. Alban's church, Acton, and are living in Mississauga.
