

Lowville

Induct officers at United Church

By Mrs. A. R. Coulter
The evening Unit of Lowville United Church women met at the home of Mrs. Bruce Millar for the February meeting. Mrs. George McCormack presented another chapter on the study of the Latin America and Mrs. Norman Gunn conducted an impressive worship service. Mrs. Frank Coulson and Mrs. Ken Smith assisted the hostess in serving lunch during the social hour afterward.

There are still a few empty chairs in the living room at the home of Mrs. Richard Sovereign for the coffee break discussion periods on "All this and Christian Too," at 10:30 each Tuesday morning. The adult study book this year throws out a challenge for every practising Christian in this age of change, technical advance and self-analysis. Anyone will be made welcome.

Approve English course for immigrant children

Halton County Board of Education has approved setting up a course to teach immigrant children English. Emmerson Lavender, Assistant to the Director of Education told the Board there were 88 such children in the system that were failing or having difficulty in school through a deficiency in their language.

He noted the youngsters were concentrated in three Oakville elementary schools but pointed out there were 25 schools with five or fewer students who could also benefit from a program. G. E. Purdue High School might be considered under the program he said.

Cost $9,600
The program would cost $9,600 a year for a teacher to offer six 35-50 minute classes daily. Pupils would be grouped according to ability in English and in age groups with no child being more than three years older than another in the same class.

Mr. Lavender noted volunteer recruits could be useful as a listener for a child reading and for marking materials.

—Milton got off lightly when high winds and swirling snow closed several highways further north on Sunday.
