and no objections were given concerning the intent of Millside Dr. area as a high density area.

Little accommodation
The clerk said the accommodation was very limited and pointed out this was the only land available for development in the core area of town.

Mr. Lambert suggested the apartments at Ontario St. were not full and that a total of 50 suites remain open. Mr. McGeachie explained growth had been limited prior to annexation because there was nowhere to grow.

In summary Mr. McConachie reviewed the available services, noted that planning board and council had adopted the high density zoning as policy and the official plan had been sanctioned by the OMB.

Real need
He said there was a real need for the development and pointed out the town had been in a static position for many years.

Mr. Funk said extensive studies by planning board had been undertaken before approving the high density projects in the Martin St. area. He reminded the board that Mr. Lambert had not objected to the zoning at the passing of the official plan.

He predicted little other development in the town core and said there would be no adverse effect. "If there was going to be, there would have been more objections," he noted.

Ontario will replace the white line down the centre of roads with a yellow one, beginning next year. The yellow stripes at the shoulder of many roads will be changed to white. It was decided that yellow was more closely related to road warning signs.

LITTER, LITTER EVERYWHERE. One sure sign of spring is the emergence of a winter's crop of litter from beneath the melting snow. This ditch near the town boundaries indicates it made a handy dropping spot for dozens of tin cans, bottles and papers. May is clean-up month in Milton.—(Staff Photo)

ANTI-POLLUTION POSTERS made by grade four and five students at Bruce St. School have been displayed in local business windows in town, suggesting a clean-up of Milton and area. Here Judy Willoughby, a student at the school, presents her poster to town clerk Jack
