improvements. Deputy Reeve Percy Barr explained the town was fixing the surface of the new parking lots Queen and putting a six inch gutter down the north side of Mary St. to alleviate flooding.

Councillor Charles Fay said the services would go into Mary St. at a later date, definitely before the street is resurfaced, but not now. "You can't afford to spend all the money in one area," Councillor Johnson shouted. The council has already spent $120,000 on Mary St. and the town can't afford to go ahead and resurface the street and install the storm sewers too, he indicated.

Chairman Brush said the first meeting of the re-organized Milton Community Service Clubs group was being held this week. Formed two years ago to raise funds jointly for Unity Park at the north entrance to Milton, the group has representatives of about a dozen service clubs and women's organizations in town. This year MCSC has asked to have the vice-president and one possibility of including an indoor organization participate in MCSC meetings. mentioned.

Mayor Brian Best wondered if a compromise could be worked out. He said he would hate to see the merchants object to the and Thomas St. reconstruction because the objections would force an OMB hearing and delay that project. The mayor wondered if council could proceed with designing the reconstruction of Mary St. right away, and some members were in agreement.
